Parnell To Head College Fine Arts

KENNETT -- Bryan Parnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Parnell of Kennett, has been appointed chairman of the fine arts division of the Oakland City College in Oakland City, Ind., where he is an associate professor of music.

Parnell, who was formerly director of music in the Holcomb and Charleston, public schools will begin his third year at the college this fall.

First Red Cotton Blooms Reported

The Woods brothers, W. T., E. B., Tommy and Bill Woods, operators of the Buckeye Plantation, on route CC, south of Bertrand, reported the first red cotton bloom Sunday.

A close second was Joe Engram, Vanduser, who found a red bloom Monday and a white bloom the day before. The blooms were five days earlier than last year.

First Joint Air Action In Viet Nam War

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP -- U. S. paratroopers have gone into action with Vietnamese airborne units in the first joint American-Vietnamese combat operation of the war against the Communist Viet Cong, a U. S. military spokesman announced.

The spokesman said American and Vietnamese casualties in the huge operation were very light so far.

The men of the 173rd Airborne Brigade and the Vietnamese paratroopers were lifted into the attack zone 30 miles north of Saigon Monday by helicopter.

Operations were continuing today.

The densely jungled area is a Viet Cong stronghold.

Meanwhile, U. S. Air Force planes made their deepest strike into North Viet Nam today, hitting a barracks and supply depot 150 miles west north of Hanoi, U. S. military spokesmen announced.

The spokesmen said the Thuan Chau depot was two miles farther north than any previous Air Force target. They said pilots reported destroying 32 buildings and damaging 20 others.

A U. S. Air Force B57 jet bomber was hit by Communist groundfire as it supported a ground operation 15 miles from Saigon and crashed and burned in a rice field two miles north of the Saigon airport, U. S. spokesmen reported.

The two crewmen ejected from the plane after the left wing caught fire, but one man's parachute failed to open, the spokesmen said. His body was recovered. The second airman parachuted into a river and a search was being made for him.

The dead flier was the 430th American killed in combat in Viet Nam.

A second American plane, an RF101, was shot down at low altitude on another raid north of the Hanoi line, and the pilot was presumed killed, spokesmen announced.

Mountain Man Wins

WASHINGTON AP -- A Tennessee mountain man named Wilford Metcalf has taken on the mighty U. S. government -- and won.

Metcalf cut some timber on his mountain farm in Cocke County, but was stopped by a forest ranger who came along and told Metcalf the land belonged to the government. He was told to leave the cut timber lie where it was. Later the government sent him a bill for $1,717.52.

"My whole farm ain't worth that much, much less the little dab of timber that was cut," Metcalf protested in a letter to his congressman, Republican James Quillen.

The mountain man told Quillen that if there was any poverty left over in the country to send it his way because "it's better than us mountain folks has been used to."

Quillen went to bat for Metcalf, firing off several letters to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, whose department runs the Forest Service.

Quillen said Monday that the Agriculture Department reported to him that a new survey showed that the timber land in question did belong to Metcalf. Proceedings to collect the $1,717.52 bill are to be dropped.

But Quillen wants to go further. "If the government said Metcalf owed it $1,717.52 for timber he cut and which he had to leave on the ground and not use, then it seems to me the government now owes Mr. Metcalf $1,717.52," Quillen daid. "I'm going to try and get it for him."

Pilot Says 'Miracle' Permitted Safe Landing

SAN FRANCISCO AP -- A Pan American pilot gave thanks today for the "miracle" that let him nurse his passenger-filled 707 jet to a safe landing, despite the loss of 20 feet of wing and an engine which scattered in a populated area but hurt no one.

Aboard were 143 passengers and a crew of 10.

Two minutes after the Honolulu-bound jet took off from San Francisco International Airport Monday, Capt. Charles H. (Chuck) Kimes, 44, of Danville, Calif., felt a heavy vibration in his right outboard engine.

Hundreds of persons in South San Francisco and San Bruno saw a ball of fire blossom on the end of a starboard wing as the No. 4 engine snapped off and plummeted to earth like a flaming meteor.

Then one-third of the wing, trailing blazing debris, broke off and slanted to earth. In the plane, pilot Kimes told his terrified passengers in a calm voice, "We have had some trouble. Keep calm and everything will be okay."

"I kept it going with a lot of help," Kimes said later. "It was a miracle."

At Travis, fighter planes scrambled into the air to escort him and make visual airborne inspections of the damage. A Coast Guard plane was already alongside the crippled airliner. The fire was out by this time.

Shortly after 2:30 p.m. less than half an hour after takeoff, Kimes' plane was circling Travis. Then a new crisis arose. The right landing gear refused to lower hydraulically.

First Officer F. R. Miller of Calistoga, Calif., with help from others of the crew, manually cranked down the gear.

Tries To Retain Cushion

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, fought today to preserve a $20 million operating cushion in the state budget.

He laid over the final catch-all appropriation bill Monday night after several amendments were adopted eating into the reserve. He said he would call the bill up again today.

"Why you could get anything adopted in here tonight," the Senate Appropriations chairman complained after several amendments sailed through.

Finally an argument developed over granting $10,000 each to the residence centers operated by state colleges at Malden and West Plains.

Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, said the money would be used at Malden merely to drum up more students at the old air base there. He charged the residence center couldn't get enough students to operate a summer program.

Sen. Nelson B. Tinne, D-Hornersville, whose district includes the Malden center, said the money would be used for administrative purposes and perhaps to induce more students to come there.

As the final omnibus or catch-all bill emerged from conference committee it carried about $6,663,000 in general revenue money and an estimated $2 million-plus in federal and fee funds.

The conferees eliminated $10 million in additional state aid to schools under the foundation program because that amount was included in a transfer bill passed earlier by the Senate.

The conferees cut the amount to start the work of the new Council on The Arts from $250,000 as recommended by the governor to $50,000. Patterson said the Council could get more money at the special session next January if it comes up with a concrete program.

Two Big Issues Left

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- With less than 48 hours of working time remaining the Missouri Legislature had two big issues and a lot of smaller ones facing it before it must quit work at midnight Wednesday.

The big ones were the congressional redistricting ordered by the federal courts and the catchall appropriation bill that got snarled in the Senate Monday night.

Congressional redistricting is in conference to find a House-Senate compromise. Conferees said they'd keep trying.

Otherwise the congressional candidates will have to run at large instead of from 10 districts.

Two Cases Before Court

In a short magistrate court session Judge M. E. Montgomery heard two cases.

Charged with a felony is William H. Pugh, who is accused of passing fraudulent checks in Sikeston.

The case was refiled for circuit court July 8.

The 18-year-old youth is from Kennett and is reported to be absent without leave from the United States Army.

Also appearing before Judge Montgomery was Jimmie Robinson of 314 Daniel St., who was charged with being a minor in possession of liquor, inadequate brakes, and an inadequate muffler. He pleaded innocent to the three charges and the case was continued until next week.

INGENUITY WITH AN ENGINE gives summer fun for the children on the 300 block of Virginia Street. The motorized wagon is ridden by Francis Riddle, nine. It was made from a wagon and an old lawnmower engine. Charles Riddle, 15, Greg Mayer, 15, and David Hale, 9, put their heads together and constructed this little vehicle. It cruises at an average speed of 10 miles per hour.

Three Hurt In Accidents

There were three minor injuries in three highway accidents over the past 24 hours, the state highway patrol reported.

In an accident 11 miles south of Poplar Bluff on highway 67, Monday at 2:35 a.m., when Harry J. McCarty, 53, North Little Rock, Ark., apparently dozed, his car went over the center line and sideswiped another car. He was taken to the Ludy Lee Hospital, Poplar Bluff, suffering from back, arm and leg cuts.

A two car meeting on route K, a mile east of Ilmo at 6:05 p.m. Monday, resulted in a 1964 Plymouth, driven by David Hahs, 16, Scott City, running off the highway and striking a utility pole. The driver claimed he was forced off the road as he was approaching a 1956 Ford pickup driven by William Keesee, 27, Ilmo. No one was injured.

At 7:45 a.m. Monday south of Old Appleton on highway 61, two drivers were injured when a 1955 Chevrolet, driven by Jimmy Parker, 17, Lemay, met a 1961 Chevrolet, driven by Harold Rasche, 32, Lafayette, Ind., crashed on the crest of a hill. Parker was taken to the Perry county hospital, Perryville, with head and right arm cuts, while Rasche was taken to a Cape Girardeau hospital with forehead cuts and a knee injury.

Lions Installation

Installation ceremonies will be held tomorrow night at 5:30 p.m. for new Lions Club officers at the Country Club. It will be Ladies Night.

Two Emergencies

Eye Procedures Of Party Conventions

WASHINGTON AP -- Republican National Chairman Ray C. Bliss says he will recommend today the naming of a committee to study the whole question of presidential convention procedures.

Bliss said he would make the suggestion to the Republican National Committee, meeting here for the second day.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower gave a boost Monday to the idea of reforming the national conventions. At a typical convention, Eisenhower said, "there is confusion, noise, impossible deportment and ignoring of the subjects being discussed on the platform. I think most of the United States is horrified at the spectacle."

Eisenhower gave this formula for producing light and reason at the nominating conventions, which so often are overwhelmed by hoopla and bedlam:

--Give the permanent chairman dictatorial powers.

--Name 6-foot-4 sergeants at arms, police officer types perhaps.

--Limit demonstrations to five minutes; anything more than that is "spurious and phony."

--Cut down the number of delegates and make the alternates sit in the galleries.

Finally, Eisenhower turned toward a press table and, addressing reporters, said "I say all press, all publicity media, should be excluded from the floor."

He added, "They have places. We cooperate with them. We want them, but certainly we don't want them running around having interviews when we are having someone make a serious statement before a delegation."

Eisenhower's formula drew this comment from William E. Miller, the party's vice-presidential candidate last year, who is on the small side: "I don't think it makes so much difference whether the sergeants-at-arms are 6-feet-4 or 5-feet-2, but something has to be done about television moving in and taking over all of the choice space on the floor."

Miller, who as national chairman managed the last Republican convention, added "if we could get together with the Democrats, I think we could lay down sane rules for television operation.

Paul Fleurdelys

Wins State VFW Office

CHARLESTON -- Paul Fleurdelys, past 15th district Veterans of Foreign Wars commander, was chosen junior vice commander of the Missouri V.F.W. at the annual state convention in St. Louis.

He was commander of the Charleston post two years, post quartermaster 10 years, and served on the post publishing committee 12 years. He was chairman of the department budget committee for five years and an active member of the Charleston V. F. W. post 19 years.

He is a sales representative for New York Life Insurance Company.

Death Mutes Nichols' Horn

LAS VEGAS, Nev. AP -- Ernest Loring Nichols, known as "Red" to swing music fans since the big band era and most famed for his Five Pennies combo, is dead at 60.

Nichols, who once briefly put aside his trumpet for a welder's torch, suffered what doctors said was a heart attack Monday in his motel room.

He had called the Mint Casino, where he and his combo were booked, and told the switchboard: "Get me a doctor. I can't breathe." Nichols was dead on arrival at a hospital.

In his years with the big bands, Nichols hired and brought forth some of the all-time popular music makers: Benny Goodman, Joe Venuti, Artie Shaw, Gene Krupa, Jimmy Dorsey, Eddie Lang and Arthur Schutt. His first arranger was Glenn Miller.

He was a native of Ogden, Utah.

Matthews Youth Camp Reporter

MATTHEWS -- Douglas Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore, route one, was elected to reporter at the State Future Farmers of America Camp on the Lake of the Ozarks. Douglas represented the Matthews F. F. A. at Camp Rising Sun.

Other boys who attended the camp from Matthews were Jerry Jones and Garry Harris. These boys spent a week which included, leadership activities, swimming, boating, fishing, softball, water skiing and other sports.

Pets Vaccinated

MOREHOUSE -- The animal population has been made safe when the owners of 80 dogs and cats brought their animals into the fire station to be vaccinated Wednesday. Dr. F. V. Stepp was in charge of the vaccination.

Kadar Still In Control

VIENNA, Austria AP -- Communist party chief Janos Kadar still appears to be top man in Hungary after giving up the premiership in a reshuffle.

Kadar, 53, resigned as premier Monday and handed the job to Gyula Kallai, 55, his deputy since 1960. He retained the top party post, the most powerful position in Communist countries.

At least seven new men were named to the Communist party's top echelon. They appeared to be handpicked by Kadar to insure his control of the party apparatus.

Hungarian officials said the changes did not mean any alteration in Hungary's domestic or foreign policies but were designed to take "some of the burden off Mr. Kadar's shoulders."

Rumors that Kadar would resign as premier have been circulating since the ouster of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in October 1964.

Kadar may have decided to postpone his resignation in order to calm the public. He probably also didn't want to give the impression that the move was dictated by Moscow.

Foreign Aid Action Seen

WASHINGTON AP -- House and Senate conferees have met seven times without agreeing on a foreign aid bill. But Rep. Thomas E. Morgan predicts success by week's end.

Morgan, a Pennsylvania Democrat, heads the House team.

So far the conferees have been concentrating mostly on what Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., calls the "underbrush," leaving the major difference between the separate aid authorizations passed by the House and Senate:

A one-year extension of the program -- the traditional approach and the one taken by the House; a two-year extension and then an end to the program in its present form with a special study group charged with refashioning it -- the course taken by the Senate.

First Firecracker Injury Reported

CAIRO--A Cairo youth, Alan Pitcher, was injured by a thrown firecracker over the weekend.

Mrs. William Pitcher reported that some boys threw the firecracker into her car.

She reported the license number of the car to Cairo police, and they were later picked up at Barlow.

The boys, all from Paducah, were fined for a similar charge at Barlow, and were not returned to Cairo.

One Arrest

Police arrested Jack Thomas of Sikeston during the past 24 hours, on a charge of public intoxication.

Lucien Stoner

Rotary Installs Stoner

At the annual Rotary Club Installation ceremonies last night in the Holiday Inn, Lucien Stoner became president. He succeeds V. Allan Hubbard.

Thatcher Scism is vice-president, secretary, Lennie Whitworth was elected director of club services.

Fred Koch is treasurer.

Hubbard became sergeant at arms.

Ray Leible is vocational service director.

Jim Green is director of community service.

George H. "Bill" Jones is director of international services.

Dr. Frank Sisson, a past district Rotary governor, was in charge of the installation. The program was furnished by Chamber of Commerce Manager Jim Musick and J. W. Hartzog, president of the organization.

The program was in charge of Melvin McMachin.

Hubbard, a Rotarian for 28 years, told of activities that the club has participated in the past years.

This year marked the second time that Hubbard has served as Rotary president.

The first was in Chaffee.

Some of the club's activities during the past year are: financially aided a student for two semesters at Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau; helped to build school in India; helped a 17-year-old mother and two children; sent boy to Boys State; helped in United Fund; shared in the Christmas baskets to needy families; helped in Delta community concert; gave financial support to the Tri-State Crippled Adults Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.; participated in the Rotary Foundation which sends students to study overseas; sent girl to Girls State; aided the art show; aided financially in the banquet for superior students; helped support Babe Ruth and Little Leagues and sponsored a Little League team.

The next Rotary meeting will be held in the Holiday Inn July 12.

Malone May Have Killed More Than Any American

CHU LAI, South Viet Nam (AP) -- A slender young Marine second lieutenant who directs the fire of massive artillery pieces with deadly effect may be responsible for killing more enemy than any other American in the Viet Namese war.

"Pve liked to hunt almost since I learned to walk," said Patrick Malone, an Annapolis graduate from Massachusetts, who once tramped hill country around Sikeston, Mo., with his grandfather.

Malone is a forward observer for a United States Marine battalion of 8-inch guns and 155-millimeter howitzers.

His success in Viet Nam reflects the skill of a born hunter: The ability to stalk the prey up close and to anticipate how he'll behave after the first shot.

"I started shooting at pigeons with an air gun when I was 5, and at 10 I could get a squirrel a day," says Malone. "It made me mad because I never seemed to get two."

Malone, who is called both "Pat" and "Shotgun," has shot sharks off Cape Cod and hunted deer with bow and arrow.

Now, almost 23 years old, he is credited with calling down artillery fire that killed at least 172 Viet Cong and wounded at least 77 more in an eight-day period.

Some question the accuracy of Malone's feats but U. S. Marine spokesmen say they have been confirmed by village chiefs and natives forced by the Viet Cong to carry away their dead and wounded.

Beyond, all doubt, Malone has done a phenomenal job. He is also one of the most colorful officers over here. He wears around his throat, jammed in a leather scabbord, a well-honed 8-inch hunting knife with a stag horn handle. He carries a rifle and a .45-caliber automatic.

"I wear the hunting knife around my neck because it's a family heirloom," Malone said. "It comes from my folks who come from Tennessee. I hunted as a kid with my grandfather around Sikeston, Mo., and the Ozark hills. I grew up with weapons of all kinds.

"The knife I carry around my neck isn't just showoff. It impresses the Viet Namese, because they know it has been in my family a long time."

"When we get an intelligence report that Viet Cong are moving in our area, I like to check them myself. I can adjust the fire better. Often I go on patrol

HOUSING ON THE REBOUND

Home building is the one major area of the economy which has failed to share fully in the 1960-61 recession and have been erratic since then. But signs are growing that residential construction is firming up at last and that a turnabout may be in the offing.

According to the F. W. Dodge, Co., residential construction contracts for April totaled $2.1 billion, 7 per cent better than for the like month a year earlier. Pre-1965 estimates were for perhaps $26 billion worth of home building this year, but it now appears that the total could reach $27 billion.

The key home-buying age group is 25-54 years. Additions to this group have been numerically modest in recent years because of the low birth rate during the 1930s -- the Depression Years. But beginning this year, the proportion of family formations in the home-buying age group will be on the rise. Some home builders believe the low point in single-family house starts has been passed.

Mortgage loan terms remain liberal with respect to down payments and maturities. The omnibus housing bill now awaiting final action by Congress would extend no-down-payment loan provisions to all veterans of the armed forces, without regard to whether they have served in actual wartime. Single-family residence loans would cover 100 per cent (no downpayment) of the first $20,000 and 85 per cent of any additional amount up to a total mortgage of $30,000. This one provision alone, if it becomes law, could send residential construction soaring.

The New York stock exchange has done the best job of any organization in the country in promoting the welfare of any single segment in the nation's economy.

Everyone knows that the numerical superiority is essential to develop any consideration from the federal government.

From President Lyndon B. Johnson down to all the members of Congress and the most insignificant bureaucrat ears are attuned to pressure groups. No other voice is heard and no other counsel is welcomed.

The labor unions, the farmers, the postal clerks are among those having powerful lobbies. Occasionally politicians listen to businessmen -- through their trade organizations, the United States Chamber of Commerce or National Association of Manufacturers -- but that has been the exception and not the rule.

The ordinary citizen is lost in the shuffle. He has no representation and the politicians couldn't care less about what happened to him. He does have one privilege. He helps pay for favored treatment given the pressure groups.

This is a burden he assumes cheerfully as his patriotic duty in line with the philosophy of the greatest good for the greatest number -- a firmly rooted democratic primciple.

Into this picture, dominated by majorities in which minorities are dwarfed, the stock exchange has managed to project the American shareowner as a major force.

No longer can congressmen sock the rich with impunity.

Many of the rich have vanished and fewer fortunes are being developed under our government's rigid system of limited capitalism, which penalizes the thrifty and the ambitious.

When Congress is in mood to discriminate against the nation's industries, which are major factors in this country's productive wealth and in creating and sustaining prosperity, it now must be sobering for congressmen to realize the blow will hit millions of the so-called small people right in the pocketbook.

Encouraging the American people to invest in industry is the smartest thing that the New York Stock Exchange ever did. It was the only way in which this country's industries, which provide most of the work opportunities in the United States, ever could have gotten anything approaching a fair deal from the federal government.

Today industry is numerically important for this reason. Yesterday it wasn't.

The latest census shows that there are 20 million shareowners. That is enough to make the politicians sit up and listen.

The number has tripled in 13 years. A majority have incomes of less than $10,000 a year.

Nearly a third of the shareowners live in small communities but these are located mainly in major metropolitan areas. Suburban better describes them than rural. There has been a decline in shareowners living on farms and other rural areas of the country. In 1952 these rural people accounted for one fourth of the shareowners. They now account for only 11 per cent of them.

Missouri is in step with the nation. The number of shareowners has more than doubled in nine years. There were 178,000 in 1956 and there are 501,000 now.

The 20th anniversary celebration of the United Nations was important enough to warrant a personal appearance and speech by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Is the U. N. worth while?

It is a weak and in many respects ineffective organization but to the question whether it would be easier to keep the peace without it the answer must be either negative or conjectural.

So the United States supports the U. N. on a basis of hope. Congress has willingly supported the nation's will.

When the world body faced bankruptcy in 1963 Congress voted by reassuring majorities to buy up to $100 million of U.N. bonds.

The United States Senate this month approved two amendments to the U. N. constitution, 71 to 0. Sen. Jacob Javits (R. N. Y.) expressed the sentiments of the nation when he called the U.N. "the last best hope of mankind for peace."

Delegates meeting in San Francisco have no cause to be optimistic.

The General Assembly is stuck on dead center on the issue of financing the U. N.'s peace-keeping activities. Soviet Russia owes $62 million; France and other nations lesser amounts.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couvre de Murville told the French National Assembly June 10 that the new U. N. constitutional amendments would not be enough to settle the crisis facing the world organization. Although the crisis has arisen largely on financial questions, the causes are much deeper, de Murville said, adding, "the debate has been opened and is far from finished."

France can be expected to be in De Murville's own phrase, "a difficult ally."

President de Gaulle of France has been doing some rethinking. Two years ago he dismissed the U. S. as "this thing."

In a Feb. 4 press conference he commented "on how desirable" was the "health of an institution in which the world placed so many hopes." France's recent attitude on the U.N. and the Dominican situation is evidence of regard for the prestige of the world body.

The U. N. started with a membership of 51 nations. It now has 114. In 20 years only Indonesia has dropped out. The newomers to membership have changed the character of the international body. The United States can no longer expect the automatic support of Latin American members but they still tend to side with us.

The new African nations make up the largest voting bloc. The hope is that they will not press too hard for either East or West or sell their votes to the highest bidder but work together to strengthen a now weak organization that could become strong and effective and can aid them in their own development.

NEWSPAPER READING

The advertiser is far more interested in whom he actually does reach with his message than in how many heads are counted if everyone uses a medium at a particular time.

One of the most respected research firms in the United States released figures which reaffirm the importance of the newspaper in terms of the kind of person newspaper advertising influences.

According to the research report 98 per cent of all families with an annual income of more than $10,000 are regular newspaper readers. In the $5,000 - $10,000 bracket the figure was 94 per cent.

The careful study again shows that newspaper reading rises as income and educational level of a family rises. Those who are most able to buy are most likely to be newspaper readers.

Perhaps more important, women especially, in the higher income groups tend to use the newspaper as a shopping guide. They are women who are willing and able to buy. They have enough money to shop around for stores and goods which appeal to them most.

One retail merchant said:

"My advertising pushes charge accounts and monthly payment plans. New customers which are attracted by newspaper advertising are good credit risks who buy high profit goods.

"Too often other media bring customers who cannot make payments and who are interested only in non-profit items. Such business can be worse than no business."

Although only actual testing in traffic can give a proper evaluation of any driver's competence, the recent "National Driver's Test" on television did reveal some serious deficiencies among the millions of persons who participated in it.

For instance, 36 per cent of those who took the test did not know that a blinking red light at an intersection means a FULL stop, then proceed when clear. Here is a case where ignorance is not conducive to bliss, no matter how much driving skill sits behind the wheel.

The ability to recognize traffic signs before the lettering on them becomes legible is a fundamental mark of a good driver and is especially important in heavy, fast-moving traffic where there is little time to puzzle out meanings.

Yet 29 per cent of the testees did not know that an octagonal-shaped sign is a stop sign; 43 per cent did not know that a diamond-shaped sign means yield right of way.

Test yourself on these sign shapes:

ANSWERS: 1. Interstate Highway. 2. Railroad (RR) warning. 3. Stop. 4. Speed limit and other regulations. 5. Yield right of way. 6. Dangerous conditions ahead (S-curve, etc).

"Daddy, What's That Little 'B' For?"

Commercial Appeal

As the Fourth of July holiday weekend approaches, Colonel Hugh H. Waggoner, Superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, has appealed to motorists to be extra careful during the long holiday period.

He said: "Last year 22 people lost their lives on Missouri streets and highways during the three-day Fourth of July holiday period. The victims were people like you, like your family and neighbors. They were enjoying a trip, a drive in the country, or a family outing. Enjoying it, that is, until the accident.

"Most traffic accidents are the result of human failure," Colonel Waggoner continued. "In most traffic mishaps, a driver has violated some traffic law, sign, signal or warning. Since this is the case, the best approach to reducing traffic accidents is to eliminate the failures."

The Patrol Superintendent pointed out that the most frequent driver violations in traffic accidents are driving either too slow or too fast, failure to yield the right of way, improper signaling, driving under the influence of alcohol and improper passing.

"The best solution to this problem is voluntary compliance of traffic laws by drivers," Waggoner said. "Most drivers do not knowingly violate traffic laws, but the 'well-intentioned but errant' ones outdo the small percentage of willfully reckless or indifferent drivers in keeping traffic accident figures mounting.

"The Fourth of July marks our independence as a nation. For many of us it will mean picnics, parades and patriotism. But, for an increasing number of people, the Fourth will mean grief and tragedy from traffic accidents.

"Not all traffic victims will die," Colonel Waggoner concluded. "Some will be sentenced to a life of pain, to years on crutches or in wheel chairs. To avoid this terrible price stay alert, obey the traffic laws and be courteous when you drive this holiday weekend."

"I-I refuse to answer that question," the girl stammered, as she shyly avoided looking at her male classmates sitting nearby. One of them was called upon next and he correctly answered, "The pupil of the eye."

"Miss Rogers", said the professor, "your refusal to answer my question makes three things evident. First, you didn't study last night's assignment. second, you have a dirty mind. And third," concluded the professor, "I'm afraid marriage is going to be a tremendous disappointment for you."

FAMILIARITY BREEDS CONTENT!

Strange how a slip of the tongue can open wide horizons of thought! A friend intended to say, "Familiarity breeds contempt" and it came out "Familiarity breeds content."

Seems to me this deserves to go down with the wise sayings of Shakespeare! How true it is that there is contentment in the familiar . . .old friends, the old rocking chair, the old slippers, the old home. . . .

That which is strange and new and unusual often creates tension. That which is familiar helps us to relax. When we have been to a place before, when we know our way around, when we follow the beaten paths, we can shed our worries and fears and forebodings. True, we need the challenge of the new and the different. But how wonderful it is to get back to the familiar where we can just let go and be ourselves. Familiarity breeds content!

There should be relatively little legislative difficulty in implementing the latest suggestion from the Post Office for improving postal service.

Under the plan, which requires congressional approval before it can begin, firstclass mail would be delivered by the fastest means available -- whether it be air, rail, water, road or shank's mare.

This would mean overnight delivery for 95 per cent of all letters, according to Postmaster General John A. Gronouski. Air mail as a separate postal category would be eliminated, although air delivery between cities would continue to be the fastest method in most cases.

Uncertain as yet is the stamp price of priority mail. One possibility is a compromise between the present 5 cents for surface first-class and 8 cents for air mail.

H. L. Hunt Says

THE PROBLEM OF CRIME

America's cities are in a nationwide battle against rape, robbery, murder, and mayhem. A civic leader in one has begun a program of speaking at least once a week on crime.

A recent edition of a metropolitan newspaper carried these crime stories in just one section: Three bank employees murdered during a bank robbery in Nebraska. Burglarizing of a local residence by a jewel thief. Theft exceeding $1100 from a jewelry store. Sanity trial of a person once given the death penalty for murder during a lurid sex party. The beating of a junior high school student administered by another 15-year-old using a rusty chain. The filing of 7 embezzlement charges against a bookkeeper. And the shooting of six horses in a heartless thrill of destroying. The animals were shot repeatedly with a small rifle to bleed to death.

A major city has a program called "Operation Concern" designed to teach school children how to defend themselves against criminal attack. It also teaches respect for the law, law officers and law enforcement.

There is a feeling that this breakdown in morality, law and order did not just happen, but is the direct result of powerful forces united in a campaign to destroy the morality of a powerful nation.

Florida's Attorney General reveals a copy of the communist "Rules for Revolution" still used today. The first rule: "Corrupt the young."

The first two goals of the Bolshevik Revolutionaries were destruction of all established values and sweeping away everything "traditional". A professor examining these and other communist aims and the inroads already made into our society concludes it all points to "a state of collective vulgarity as civilized culture".

With her religious traditions unimpaired, American is invincible. Without them, America is easy prey to destruction by Communism parading under false colors. HLH

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Heroes often don't look like heroes.

Airman 1C Jon H. Young, 24, of Portland, Ore., is an example. He is a boyish-looking fellow who on his days off likes to walk around the streets with a medical kit and treat Vietnamese civilians.

"If I see a kid with a sore or a bad infection, I try to patch him up on the spot," he said. 'Some of them will simply die if nobody does anything for them."

It takes considerable prodding to get Jon to tell how he won his Silver Star. He got it in an action last March in which he became the first American airman to land intentionally in the enemy's lair in North Viet Nam.

Young is a pararescue team member, one of the flying daredevils whose mission it is to try to bring back alive U.S. fliers who have bailed out at sea or been shot down in enemy territory.

He spent 13 months learning his job. He studied emergency medicine. He can perform a tracheotomy if necessary. He made 22 parachute jumps, became a skilled scuba diver, proved he could survive in the jungle, swim 1,500 yards and run five miles. He melted down from 155 pounds to a lean 135.

Of the 250 missions he has flown so far, the one Jon remembers with most mixed emotions is the one that won him his medal.

Two rescue helicopters were at a forward base.

The other members of his crew were the pilot. Lt. Joe Phelan, 27, of Stamford, Conn., whose wife lives in Charlotte, N.C.; the copilot, Capt. Clyde Lemke, 30, of Utica, Mich., and Sgt. John H. Regan Jr. of Tampa, Fla.

"Both helicopters scrambled when we got word an F100 fighter plane had been hit north of the 17th Parallel, and the pilot had ejected," said Jon.

On the way they were told that an F105 pilot also had bailed out in the same area. That gave them two to go after.

Then they sighted flare in the sea.

"A Vietnamese Skyraider pilot had wet-ditched after being set afire over North Viet Nam," said Young. "We dropped the hoist 35 feet and pulled him up. He had second-degree burns, and I fixed him up."

The two helicopters flew on to the rescue of the two American pilots.

"It was like flying through a popcorn machine," said Young. "The guerrillas must have fired at least 2,000 rounds at us from the foothills.

"They lowered me 20 feet to the ground. I saw the bloody helmet and harness of the F100 pilot. I picked up the helmet and searched for him for 10 minutes. I was on the run all the time.

"Then ground fire hit one of the blades of our plane. I got on the hoist and was pulled up while they kept firing at us."

A few moments later the second helicopter successfully picked up the F105 pilot, and they headed home. Jon's plane was damaged, however, and they had to land it at the nearest airport in safe territory and hitchhike the rest of the way.

All eight members of the two helicopter crews were given Silver Stars. Later, Young learned that the man he had tried so desperately to save had been captured by the Viet Cong moments before he landed and is still in their hands.

"It bothers me still to think how close we came to rescuing him — and missed," said Jon somberly. "We're in a business where seconds mean lives.

"We hate to go that far and come up short. But there are very few people we've missed."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Today, before the Senate Judiciary Committee, former Gov. James P. Coleman of Mississippi, an old friend of President Johnson, comes up for confirmation to be a judge of the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.

This is the circuit which has handled about 75 per cent of the important civil rights cases. Its members have the power to influence the progress of Negro voting rights, school integration, and equality of job opportunities in the South for many years to come.

Gov. Coleman, an able lawyer, brilliant political strategist, and a charming, likeable gentleman, should make a good impression before the Senate committee. Not only will he be able to handle himself well, but he will testify under the benevolent jurisdiction of chairman Jim Eastland, also from Mississippi, who rules the Judiciary Committee with a firm hand and jaunty, cocksure manner.

On the committee, however, are some important new Senators who have tipped the balance away from the old Dixiecrat-Republican coalition which once dominated the confirmation of judges. They are Teddy Kennedy, brother of the late President; Birch Bayh of Indiana; Quentin Burdick of North Dakota; and Joe Tydings of Maryland, all fairly new, all with vigorous ideas of their own.

—WHITE HOUSE EGO-MASSAGING—

In addition there are Phil Hart of Michigan, Tom Dodd of Connecticut, and Ed Long of Missouri, all for civil rights, though easily swayed by the White House when the President wants an old friend confirmed.

But three other Republicans, Jacob Javits, N.Y., Hiram Fong, Hawaii, and Hugh Scott, Pa., are likely to vote no. And if the four young Democrats—Kennedy, Bayh, Burdick and Tydings — team up with them, the confirmation of Coleman will depend on how smoothly the White House massages the ego of Ed Long, Tom Dodd and Phil Hart.

Ego - massaging and whip-cracking probably will decide Coleman's confirmation in the end. But, with some Senators, testimony will count too. And Senate testimony is almost certain to show that Jim Coleman was one of the shrewdest opponents of the Supreme Court ever to be nominated to a judicial post to carry out decrees of the Supreme Court.

As governor of Mississippi in 1956, he helped pass the "Interposition Law" which directed the governor and every executive branch of Mississippi government "to prohibit by any lawful, peaceful and constitutional means the implementation of or the compliance with the integration decisions of the United States Supreme Court.

—"NO MODERATE I"—

Gov. Coleman is no rabble-rouser. He believes in getting things done, not shouting about them. Because he accomplished a great deal but talked little, his political adversaries eventually began calling him a moderate.

This got under the governor's skin so much that he replied, June 30, 1959:

"I am well aware that a little handful of my political adversaries have tried to destroy my place in the affections of my fellow Mississippians by claiming that I am a 'moderate.' Apparently, these people cannot tell a moderate from a successful segregationist. They have made a great sham of this, and every time they can get a chance they try to stir it up.

"I ask you to ignore what they say and look at what the record says. . . I stand on a record of performance and I have delivered the goods. I am not entitled to be called a moderate."

Coleman's statements on the race issue have been consistent and continuous, dating back from shortly after the Supreme Court's school integration decision. On August 7, 1955, the Jackson Clarion-Ledger quoted Jim as saying:

"Based on the studies I have made and the experience I have had fighting integration attempts, I can say without hesitation that if I am elected governor the schools of Mississippi will never be integrated nor will they be closed."

Coleman was elected on that platform, and on Jan. 3, 1965, began carrying it out. In his inaugural speech that day, he came out for "the continued separation of the white and Negro races in accordance with the customs which the experience of ninety years has taught us all."

As late as July 10, 1963, Jim Coleman had not changed. On that date the Jackson Clarion-Ledger reported:

"Former governor J. P. Coleman said his opponents have taken a defeatist attitude in the race issue. Speaking at Monticello, Morgantown and McComb, Coleman said he is the only candidate with hope of stemming widespread integration and the ability and experience to do it.

" 'My opponents say that I cannot stop it,' he declared, 'because they have apparently lost hope and have offered no plan or suggestion for maintaining separation of the races.' "

This is part of the background Senators will be examining in regard to the charming friend of LBJ, nominated to uphold civil rights and Negro voting rights in the South.

—ANOTHER PIPELINE EXPLOSION—

The Federal Power Commission has rushed pipeline experts to investigate another explosion on the Tennessee Gas Transmission Line, this time near Winchester, Ky., about 20 miles from Lexington.

This is the third explosion on the Tennessee Gas Transmission Line in 15 months. Two previous explosions having been near Natchitoches, La. The last explosion, in March, killed 17 people. Fortunately the explosion near Winchester caused no casualties.

The long pipeline extending up from the Texas-Louisiana oil and gas field to the industrial northeast was one of the first laid after the war, and some experts have been worried that it might be suffering from hydronization.

The Federal Power Commission rushed Ellery Johnson and William A. Brubaker, Jr., to Kentucky immediately and made it clear there would be no suppression of the facts.

Previously, staff members had minimized a report on the Natchitoches explosion which stated that Tennessee Gas Transmission was putting more gas through the line than the strength of the pipe warranted. Following publication of these facts in the Washington Merry-Go-Round, the commissioners published a summary of the report.

Marshall Stones Observed 25th Wedding Anniversary

CHARLESTON -- Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Stone celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday, June 20, with a reception and open house at their home on North Locust Street, from 2 to 5 p.m. Mrs. Stone is the former Miss Montell Gray.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Stone's two sisters, Mrs. Myoma Smith and Mrs. Buddy Peyton, who attended their wedding in 1940. Also assisting were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Pazdera.

At the guest book was a niece, Miss Sue Peyton of Charleston, who greeted the 60 guests who attended.

In the living room the mantle was centered with a bowl of silver flowers and ornaments. At either end of the mantle were silver candles in silver cases.

In the dining room the table was overlaid with a white damask cloth. At one end was a three tiered wedding cake, made and decorated by their niece, Mrs. Martin Pazdera Jr. at the other end of the table was a crystal punch bowl. Centering the table was a silver base filled with silver roses. On either side were silver candles in silver candleholders. Mrs. John Nunnelee served decorated cake squares and Mrs. Earl Williams served punch and mints in silver compotes.

Girl Guides To Arrive Tomorrow

Two visiting Canadian Girl Guides are creating a pleasant stir of activity in the Girl Scout Cotton Bowl Area Council. Miss Jane Evelyn Faraldeau of Ottowa, Ontario, Canada, and Miss Sylvia Jane Ferguson of Youbou, British Columbia, Canada, arrive in Sikeston on Wednesday, for a series of events before finally accompanying the area's three patrols to National Roundup in the middle of July.

Wednesday afternoon at the First Methodist Church, Mrs. Maurice Stauffer, Neighborhood chairman, is in charge of a tea to which Scout leaders, mothers, and scouts are invited. Junior and Brownie leaders and mothers together with Junior scouts are expected from 2 to 3 p.m. while the Cadette and Senior age group are expected from 3 to 4 p.m.

Preceding an an overnight stay with Mr. and Mrs. Stauffer and family, will be Scout Leader Pat Vaughn's regular troop meeting, also at the Stauffer home, where the Guides will be honored guests. Providing part of the entertainment will be the showing of some slides taken on a recent trip the patrol made to Jefferson City.

Thursday, afternoon luncheon at Mrs. Stauffer's, the Guides will be guests at the regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service at 1:30 p.m. at the First Methodist Church, where they will provide the program. It is hoped that all scouts and leaders will wear their uniforms to the above mentioned events.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kenneth Stricker

Miss Sharon Kay Hadley And Ernest K. Stricker Exchange Wedding Vows June 5

Baskets of white gladioli and palm trees formed the lovely and impressive background for the marriage of Miss Sharon Kay Hadley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis, to Ernest Kenneth Stricker of Elgin, Ill., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stricker of Sikeston.

The Reverend T. Staed read the double ring vows at nine-thirty in the morning June fifth at St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church in Sikeston.

The bride, given in marriage by her step father, was gowned in a lovely floor-length dress of Chantilly lace over taffeta. The close fitted bodice featured a dutchesse neckline and long close fitting sleeves that came to points over the hands. The bouffant skirt was worn over a Southern belle hoop. It fell in a cascade of scalloped ruffles and swept to a chapel train. The entire bodice was highlighted with sequins.

Her veil was a double crown of pearls encircled with a three tiered veil of silk illusion. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from her mother.

Her bridal bouquet was a dozen white carnations tipped in green and tied with white ribbons knotted with lovers' knots atop a white Bible.

Brenda Schaefer, organist, rendered the pre-nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Jo Ann Fox, soloist, as she sang "Prayer For A Perfect Life" by Edward Gray.

Miss Janie Moore, a close friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Debbie Hadley, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid. The attendants were identically attired in dresses of aqua whip cream. They complemented their outfits with pink accessories. They carried bouquets of seven pink carnations.

Flower girl was Kem Wethington, cousin of the bride. She wore a dress of pink polished cotton that featured a scalloped lace skirt. She wore a white bow in her hair, white accessories, and carried a basket of red rose petals.

David Brewer was best man and John Cohn was groomsman. Danny Davis of Sikeston and Ronnie Hessling of Bloomfield were ushers. Larry Stricker was ringbearer. Men in the wedding party wore dark suits and white carnation boutonnieres.

Mrs. Davis chose for her daughter's wedding a pink dress overlaid with white lace. She wore white accessories and a pink carnation corsage. Mrs. Stricker wore a pink printed whip cream with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Security National Bank. The bride's table was covered in green and overlaid with a white lace table cloth and was centered with an arrangment of lilies and gladioli in a crystal arranger.

A three tiered wedding cake, crystal punch bowl and three tiered china compotes holding nuts and mints also appointed the serving table.

Miss Betty Tanner and Miss Peggy Tanner served at the reception. Miss Phyllis Johnson of Portageville was in charge of the guest book. Miss Jackie Davis, cousin of the bride, gave rice cups to the guests.

They are now at home at 496 Laurel Street in Elgin, where Mr. Stricker is employed by Jerry Biggers Body Shop.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. Sonny Pullen and son, Ronnie, of Charleston, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stricker and Mike, Kathy and Becky of Charleston, George Hessling of Lilbourn, Mrs. Eugene Hessling and son, Ronnie, of Bloomfield, and Miss Phyllis Johnson of Portageville.

Mrs. Don Moore, A Recent Bride, Honored With Shower

Mrs. Don Moore, a recent bride, was feted with a miscellaneous bridal shower Friday night at the home of Mrs. Al Neal. Mrs. Neal and Mrs. Dan Meeks were hostesses.

The home was appropriately decorated with large white wedding bells hanging around the room. The coffee table was decorated with a miniature bride and groom standing under an arch.

Pastel mints were served from crystal dishes.

The serving table was overlaid with a light green damask table cloth and centered with a green floral arrangement. Refreshments of soft drinks and cake decorated with a bride and groom were served to the guests from a silver tray.

Games were played and the winners gave their prizes to the honoree.

Attending or sending gifts were Miss Jan Nicholas, Miss Joy Cauthorn, Mrs. Joe Sherrod, Mrs. Ralph Tidwell, Miss Ruth McClung, Miss Linda Hill, Miss Elaine Blackwelder, Miss Toby McConnell, Miss Shirley Vinson, Mrs. Clyde Nicholas and Mrs. Dartha McConnell.

Rev. Noisworthy Honored At Social Wednesday

CHARLESTON -- Rev. Noisworthy, who has served as pastor of the Southside Baptist Church in Charleston the past five years and who resigned and will be leaving the pastorate July 1st, was guest of honor at a social given Wednesday evening at the church. The members presented Rev. and Mrs. Noisworthy with a lovely gift. A musical program was rendered and ice cream was served. During his pastorate a kitchen and dining area have been added to the church.

Rev. and Mrs. Noisworthy will continue to make their home in Charleston since for many years he has and is still employed at the Charleston Post Office. After July 1st he will be available for supply work.

Mrs. Culp Honored With Bridal Shower

Mrs. Larry L. Culp, the former Miss Ruth Ann Roberts, was honored with a bridal shower June 18 at the home of Miss Nancy Bryant, 715 Hickory Drive.

The gift table was covered with a lace cloth and featured a miniature bride and groom.

The serving table, centered with two candleholders filled with pink petunias and lighted pink candles, was also covered with a lace cloth. The hostess, Nancy Bryant, assisted by Miss Lana Mulcahy, served the guests punch, cookies, nuts and mints from crystal and silver serving dishes.

The guests played "Bride" and all kitchen items were presented to the honoree.

Those attending or sending gifts were the bride's mother, Mrs. Ora Roberts; the groom's mother, Mrs. Pearlie Culp of Hammond, Ind.; Mrs. Ester Choate; the bride's aunts, Mrs. Wanda Tedford, Mrs. Ruth DeJournett of Vandalia, Ill., and Mrs. Reba DeJournett of Dexter; friends of the bride, Margaret Rister, Lana Mulcahy, Lynne Murchison, Mrs. Mary Carney, Jennifer Puckett, Mrs. Opal Puckett, Barbara Bolden, Kathy Meredith, Mrs. Mildred McMackins, Karen Stephenson, Jeanie Williams, Mrs. Willene Bryant, Penny Bryant and Nancy Bryant.

Along with all the lovely and useful gifts, Mrs. Culp received a recipe box containing a favorite recipe of each guest present.

Mrs. Kenneth Eugene Grubbs

Julia Mae Spurlin Is Bride Of Kenneth Eugene Gruggs

MOREHOUSE —A minister's home in Dexter was the scene of a simple but very impressive wedding of Miss Julia Mae Spurlin, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Spurlin of Morehouse and Kenneth Eugene Grubbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Grubbs of Dexter.

The wedding was solemnized Friday evening, June 25 at 8 p.m.

The bride chose a shirtwaist street length white dress of a sheer confection of dacron polyester with delicate lace applique all around the full skirt, with more allure in the fluffy long sleeves, ending in a deep three cuff botton. The bodice was a mock button front with a back zipper and a large white collar with a V neckline in front.

Their only attendants were the groom's sister and brother, Bonnie Grubbs and Buddy Grubbs.

The bride attended high school in Morehouse and is presently employed at Poe's Dry Goods and Grocery Store in Morehouse where she will continue.

Mr. Grubbs attended school in Dexter and is employed at Hoffman's Monument Company in Dexter.

The newlyweds left immediately after the wedding for a brief trip to an undisclosed destination. On their return they will make their home in Dexter.

Phils Blast Cards

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Louis was beaten 3-0 Monday night by the Phillies at Philadelphia and the defending World Champions fell to eighth place in the National League.

It was the Cardinal's 23rd loss in 32 games. They are 33-40 for the year.

Chris Short gave up only four St. Louis hits. Johnny Callison supplied the punch for the Phillies when he tripled off the right center field scoreboard in the third. Callison then scored on a wild pitch.

The Phils added two more runs in the eighth on a single, a double and two walks.

Bob Turkey 5-5 par for the Cardinals in the second game of the series at Philadelphia tonight. Either Bo Belinsky 2-4 or Jim Bunning 8-5 will be on the mound for the Phillies.

Kansas City was idle Monday and will enjoy another day off today.

Leslie Insurance And Canvas Products Win

Leslie Insurance clobbered First National 13 to 3, in American league action, last night.

Leslie Insurance had 8 safeties in the contest, in the five inning contest. Colwick was the top Leslie sticksman as he had two hits. Colwick, Shipp and Rofkahr all had doubles for Leslie Insurance. Wake was the winning pitcher giving up only 3 runs and 4 hits, to First National.

First National's modest attack was paced by Lingle, Shaw, Crain, and Montgomery, all having one hit each. Brase, who pitched 4 innings was charged with the loss. He was relieved by Lingle, who pitched for one frame.

Kiwanis And Jaycees Cope Wins In National League

Last night in National League play, Kiwanis plowed under Lions 13 to 6.

Catcher Crader was the star of the game, although his team lost. The little slugger smashed out 4 hits, in 4 trips to the plate, including 3 doubles. Third baseman Hailey banged a home run and a double to help mount the Lions power hitting attack. Seagraves smacked a triple for the losing Lions. Vaught went the distance for the Lions and was charged with the loss.

Mitchell and lead off hitter Collins had the only extra-base hits for Kiwanis. Liable smacked two hits to pace the 9 hit attack. Liable went the distance and was given credit for the victory.

No More Go-Go In White Sox

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Writer

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS AP -- The go-go Chicago White Sox are a thing of the past.

Now it's the boom-boom White Sox and they proved it by mauling power-laden Minnesota 17-4 Monday night to knock the Twins out of first place for the first time in 29 days.

The Sox battered four Twins' pitchers for 19 hits and the 17 runs matched the major league high for the season. Tom McCraw crashed a grand slam homer, Danny Cater hit a homer and double, John Romano homered and Ken Berry tripled.

Chicago and Cleveland both vaulted past the Twins into a first-place tie.

"It's been a long time since we exploded like that," Manager Al Lopez said, "but this is a good hitting team. We'll still run when we need to, but you don't need to run when you get 19 hits."

Perhaps an even more amazing statistic is the fact that the White Sox collected 18 of their hits after two were out in the fifth inning. Up to that point, Twins' starter Dave Boswell had one-hit them.

Lopez and Sox General Manager Ed Short have said all season they feel they have the best team in the American League, but admit the Sox won't run away from the rest of the league.

Sports TALK

By DON SAVAGE

Lake Taneycomo is Missouri's oldest man-made lake, but it has all the modern conveniences.

Like air conditioning, for example. And trout salmon, and a year-around fishing season. Time was not too long ago, when Taneycomo was unique among lakes. It was formed behind powersite hydroelectric dam on the scenic White River. It warmed quickly in the spring and was a fine bass lake. It became a major attraction for fishermen, swimmers and other water-lovers.

Time has passed, however, and the new Taneycomo is also a unique lake. Bull Shoals dam was built downriver, then some years back Table Rock dam went in upstream. Table Rock is what made the difference.

The water that feeds Taneycomo now comes from the bottom of its larger upstream neighbor, and that water is cold. It has turned Taneycomo into a cold-water lake that is ideal as a home for rainbow trout.

And just recently, the Conservation Commission stocked it with kokanee salmon from the Northwest. Fishermen are having a field day catching rainbow trout in southwest Missouri. One angler took an 11-pound rainbow from Taneycomo in mid-June -- the first time he had ever fished for trout.

But, July and August are just around the corner, and fishermen are becoming increasingly aware of the fact that Taneycomo is air-conditioned. Not just the many resorts near the lake, although most of those offer this feature too, but the lake itself.

The cold water pouring in from Table Rock is fine for trout, but it is also appreciated by fishermen.

Fishing Taneycomo, you can keep cool in the hottest summer weather. If you decide to continue fishing into the evening, you had better hav a jacket with you.

And nights on the air-conditioned lake get downright cold. But when the temperature on shore is hovering in the 90's, it doesn't feel half bad.

Incidentally, you don't need to go swimming in the lake to cool off. You can do it just by being on the water in a boat. In fact, swimming in Taneycomo may cool you off too much for your taste, unless of course you're a trout.

Next deer season, the take for most of Missouri will be Bucks only. The Conservation Commission announced, due to the large take in deer last season we have a shortage this year, so that's the reason. The regulation will be enforced in all but six north Missouri counties. Another regulation is no deer may be killed in a body of water.

Kelso Makes 1965 Debut Today

OCEANPORT, N. Y. AP -- Kelso, named Horse of the Year for five years in a row, makes his 1965 debut today at Monmouth Park.

The great gelding, all-time leading money winner with earnings of $1,893,362, is scheduled to go in a six-furlong sprint for 1965 nonwinners. It will be Kelso's first appearance since he won the Washington, D. C., International at Laurel last fall.

Dennis Ralston Confident Of Winning Over Emerson

By ROBERT JONES

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) —Dennis Ralston, the United States' hope in the men's singles of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships, is a relaxed and confident young man today on the eve of his semifinal match with Roy Emerson, the defending titleholder.

Ralston, the U.S. No. 1 player who is just one month short of his 23rd birthday, got a quarter - final fright against Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., Monday. He dropped the first two sets, then came back to win in five.

And, he said, "Once you've hooked a match like that, you've really got a chance."

Ralston, seeded fourth, is the only U.S. player to reach the semifinals out of three hopefuls.

Allen Fox of Los Angeles, lost to the up-and-coming South African, Cliff Drysdale, 4-6, 6-2, 7-5, 7-5.

The other semifinalists are the Australians, Emerson and Fred Stolle, the No. 2 seed who has been on the losing end the last two Wimbledon finals. They are at opposite ends of the draw. Stolle beat Rafael Osuna of Mexico 11-13, 6-3, 6-1, 6-2.

Ralston is hopeful he can beat Emerson. "We've played several times and I think he's got the edge on me by about a couple of matches only," said Ralston. "But now I feel much more relaxed and confident."

This is the first time Ralston has gotten this far in the singles at Wimbledon. He got his name on the championships rolls in 1960, when as an 18-year-old he won the men's doubles with Osuna.

The United States has an impressive squad of four girls left in the quarter-finals.

Nancy Richey of Dallas, Tex., seeded fourth, and Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., the fifth seed, both scored easy victories Monday. Nancy made short work of Mrs. Joyce Williams, the young British girl, 6-0, 8-3. Billie Jean defeated Robin Lesh of Australia 6-2, 6-0.

With them in the quarter-finals are 19-year-old Jane Albert of Pebble Beach, Calif., who upset the rankings with an impressive 6-4, 7-5 victory over eighth-seeded Francoise Durr of France, and Justina Bricka, who reached the last eight for the first time at Wimbledon by beating Britain's Virginia Wade 5-7, 6-4, 8-6.

Asks For Enlisted Men's Complex at Leonard Wood

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Army has asked Congress to provide $16,084,000 for construction at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.--the principal item being $14,264,000 for an enlisted men's barracks complex.

Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes, D-Fla., chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee asked during the hearings on the proposal what part was related directly to the Army's "Special Training and Enlisted Program, STEP." This is for volunteers who cannot meet current training or mental standards for enlistment in the Army.

"We have not made any request in this program in the way of barracks complexes specifically for the STEP program at all," Maj. Gen. W. R. Shuler, director of Army installations, said.

"It is true that, if the STEP program went forward, it would be conducted at Ft. Leonard Wood. It is also true we intend to move basic trainees out of there to Ft. Polk and Ft. Bliss, and the STEP trainees would occupy permanent space and some temporary space.

"There is no change in the long-range mission or proposed use of this station."

The requested construction at Ft. Leonard Wood will be needed whether or not the STEP program is initiated, the general said.

Also requested, for use in the year beginning July 1, was $745,000 for an enlisted men's barracks without mess; $563,000 for rifle squad and technical ranges; $360,000 for photographic laboratory facilities, and $152,000 for a fire and rescue station.

The proposed enlisted men's barracks complex would be a replacement of rundown World War II barracks and would give 3,260 spaces against a 9,972-space deficiency.

Asked what would be done with the facilities now in use, Gen. Shuler said there will be a total of 79 buildings with 229,000 square feet demolished. He said it is necessary to get rid of the buildings "because we are wasting maintenance money on them at this point of time."

Figures submitted by the Army estimate proposed military construction authorizations for Ft. Leonard Wood in the next four years would be $61,674,000.

Missouri's beautiful Ozarks offer every type of vacation fun and recreation, from canoeing and float fishing to ancient gristmills and authentic country stores. This is a key sector of the new four-state Ozark Frontier Trail.

Starting at Rolla, the Magic Circle tour includes St. James, one of America's best-groomed towns with flowers, trees, and pastel-hued buildings. Nearby are the remains of old Maramec Furnace, an extensive ironworks closed in 1876; Potosi, a mining town established in 1813 by Moses Austin, the "Granddaddy of Texas"; the Elephant Rocks at Graniteville, a "parade" of large reddish-brown boulders resembling elephants plodding along, trunk to tail; Pilot Knob, surrounded by some of the Ozarks' highest mountains, where Ulysses S. Grant assumed his first command as general in the first year of the Civil War.

For Western-type adventure there is the ghost town of Gads Hill, scene of two infamous 1874 "firsts"—Missouri's initial train robbery and beginning of the "careers" of Frank and Jesse James as the No. 1 bandits.

Highlights of the return trip are Poplar Bluff, bustling center of the Ozarks; Van Buren, where a pioneer log cabin has been restored to its original appearance; Big Spring State Park, where tons of water gush out of the base of a 200-foot high limestone cliff; the Powder Mill Ferry near Owls Bend, a flatboat that handles two or three cars; and Alley Spring State Park and its bright red 1870 gristmill reflecting in a placid blue pool.

Poplar Bluff Has Chance For Retardation Clinic

POPLAR BLUFF -- The Chamber of Commerce held a special meeting Saturday to discuss the possibilities of obtaining a mental retardation clinic for Poplar Bluff. John McMullin, State Representative for Butler County, directed the discussion, briefing members of the council and delegates from the city's hospitals on the state-wide project.

"I think Poplar Bluff has as good a chance as could be wished to get this clinic," said McMullin. "However, no one knows exactly which town in this area will be chosen."

A statewide network of 11 centers is planned, with the possibility of one clinic being located in the Jefferson City area and one in the vicinity of the University of Missouri. The other nine sites have not yet been considered.

The plan is contained in Senate Bill 52, passed by a large majority in both houses. The bill calls for the "development of regional clinics for the evaluation and diagnosis of mentally retarded individuals."

The clinics will be built by federal aid supplemented by the state's own funds. The cost of the building plus utilities and salaries would be paid by the state, with the chosen community providing the land free of cost. Sites for the clinics will be picked after the law becomes effective on Oct. 19, 1965.

The centers will perform three main functions: diagnoses, rehabilitation and placement. After careful screening, the patient would be placed in the proper school or employment situation suitable for his capabilities with emphasis on developing the patient's capacity to take care of himself. The regional centers are designed to allow trainees to live at home.

Voting Rights And Legal Wrongs

A Commentary on S. 1564, the proposed "Voting Rights Act of 1965," prepared and distributed as a public service by the Virginia Commission on Constitutional Government.

Q. Assume that the necessary determinations are made under Section 3 (a), and that the presumption of discrimination attaches; that the affected State files for a declaratory judgment that neither the State nor any person acting under color of law has engaged in practices designed to deny the right to vote because of race or color; and that the three-man district court, convened in the District of Columbia, rules against the State.

What happens next?

A. Section 4 becomes operative. If the Attorney General receives twenty written complaints from residents of a political subdivision with respect to which determinations have been made under Section 3 (a), alleging that said residents have been denied the right to vote because of race or color, he is authorized to recommend to the Civil Service Commission that Federal "examiners" be appointed to register persons to vote in Federal, State, and local elections.

Or, should it be the Attorney General's judgment that Federal examiners are needed, he may ask for their appointment by the Civil Service Commission.

The Federal examiners thus appointed shall register all comers provided that they are of age and residents of the State. No other requirements, no matter how free from discrimination, can be imposed upon a prospective voter.

Q. What are the constitutional issues involved?

A. The same issues pervade the entire bill. Can Congress, by ordinary legislation, strip a State of its right to determine what qualifications its citizens must meet in order to vote?

In 1960, Georgia's Deputy Assistant Attorney General Charles J. Bloch, testifying before a Senate Committee in regard to legislation which would impose Federal registrars on certain affected States, made the following comment:

"And say I here: The principle of this legislation if established would destroy our governmental system. It would inaugurate a new era in the American system of government and in the American system of government and in the relations of the National and State Governments. It would enable the subordinate Federal officers to supervise and control the actions of elected officials of the States as if the States were dependencies of conquered provinces.

I cannot suppose that the great men who framed the Constitution and the Bill of Rights ever thought the time would come when it would be seriously proposed in the Senate of the United States that the men appointed by the President of the United States might go into a State and conduct its elections after having determined who might vote in those elections, superseding all of its — the State's — elected and selected officials."

The provisions of the Constitution plainly prevent such legislation.

Consider also the following provision of the Act: Section 5 (d) authorizes an examiner to remove the name of any person previously qualified by an examiner to vote if said person has been determined "not to have voted at least once during three consecutive years while listed." Is the Eighty-ninth Congress attempting to establish a precedent to the effect that a right to vote is a protected right only if exercised?

Q. Does the proposed legislation abolish State poll taxes?

A. No, not altogether, but it does place restrictions on the power of a State to administer its poll tax law as it deems appropriate.

harmful particles in gasoline
(just before they enter your tank!)

Most gasolines are clean when they leave the refinery. But on the way to your car—in transit and in storage—they pick up impurities that could choke off power, reduce engine efficiency...could even stop you cold. Automotive engineers asked for an answer to this problem—American Oil Research developed the American FINAL/FILTER. It halts harmful particles (present in all gasolines), right at the pump nozzle. If you depend on your car for your livelihood (and even if you don't) it pays to "fill 'er up filtered" with American Regular or American Super-Premium.

These great performers are the lowest priced models at our One-Stop Shopping Center

Top to bottom: Chevy II 100, Corvair 500, Chevelle 300, Chevrolet Biscayne. All 2-door models.

Hard to tell at a glance that each of these beauties is the lowest priced in its line. The ride doesn't show it. Or the interior. Or the performance. Just the price sticker.

That luxurious '65 Biscayne has the room of many expensive cars. Plus a handsome color-keyed interior with plush vinyls, fine fabrics, full deep-twist carpeting.

Chevelle, America's favorite intermediate-size car, has clean new styling, wide-opening doors, roomy, tastefully trimmed interior, and all the easy-care features of the big Chevrolet.

Chevy II got a whole lot smarter for '65—but kept its common sense! Still family-size, easy to handle, economical, and the lowest priced Chevrolet out.

Both Corvair Sport Coupe and Sport Sedan have the international flavor of a rear engine hardtop, promise fun for the months ahead.

Chevrolet, Chevelle and Chevy II are available with the economical Turbo-Thrift Six engine. It's economical, warms up quickly, idles silently. It's light, efficient, quiet, and spirited.

Corvair's rear-mounted Turbo-Air Six delivers the best balance and traction for this size car. It's air-cooled—no water or antifreeze.

So be practical. Check the great offer on your old car, the low payments on your new one. Only you will know how practical you've been. Because it sure won't show!

AUGUST LIKELY DATE FOR AMENDMENT VOTE

There are a couple of ways available in Missouri for a governor to succeed himself, with the most logical a change in the State Constitution via the amendment route. The other is through a Constitutional Convention to re-write and revise portions of the constitution.

Governor Hearnes actively supported a proposal some time ago calling for a Constitutional Convention, with gubernatorial succession in mind. Failing this, the governor is forced to go directly to the people.

By statute, the question of whether to call a constitutional convention must be brought up at least every 10 years. However, the legislature, should it see fit, can put machinery in motion (amendment) to have one whenever a majority of the people concur.

Well, the people of Missouri at last will be asked shortly to decide on, among other things, whether the state's Chief Executive will be allowed a second consecutive term. The governor now indicates he will seek a statewide referendum by August, probably the middle or latter part.

Earlier thinking centered around Governor Hearnes placing the gubernatorial succession amendment by itself on the ballot, but now this is changed. Hearnes has said he will ask the people at the same time to vote on reapportionment.

There has been some talk the governor also would have the people vote with these on the lowering of the required margin for general obligation bond issues, from two-thirds to 60 per cent.

Tain't so says Hearnes.

If a third proposed amendment is to be voted on, Hearnes said, it would be one to allow cities to dispose of property financed through issuance industrial revenue bonds. In most instances, an industry has paid the bonds off anyway and this would allow the property to pass from city-control to private enterprise.

Regarding reapportionment, the machinery for putting it into motion is left for the General Assembly to work out. What the election will cover is the increase in membership only (to 168).

While Charles Brown of Springfield already has been selected to head the Democratic side in securing passage of the gubernatorial amendment, no Republican counterpart has yet been named.

However, rumors are abounding that Hearnes' opponent in last November's general election, Ethan Shepley of St. Louis, is being sought to lend a nonpartisan cast to the effort.

As for any organized opposition, the self-confident young governor brushes this aside, saying he feels none will be forthcoming. He has at his disposal active support throughout the state, a holdover from the election; as well as the large patronage of the Department of Agriculture and other state agencies.

With all these taken into consideration, it would seem that Hearnes, at this time, almost has the deck stacked in his favor and can be expected to lend his personal prestige to the all-out effort being generated toward passage of the proposals.

THE MENACE DRIVER IS WATCHED CLOSELY

So you think you're a good driver. Well, your neighbor may disagree and this very disagreement could lead to the revocation of your right to drive over Missouri's vast roadways.

More and more attention is now being given to a little known provision of the driver's license law that allows the above to occur.

For instance, if you constantly run red lights, back out of driveways without looking, constantly weave in and out of traffic and, in general, cause concern to other motorists, you may some day be recipient of a registered letter from the state.

The gist of the letter, in terse terms, informs you that you must submit to re-examination in order to drive.

While you probably will never know exactly who turned you in, you might possibly have a good idea. It may be a local officer or area Highway Patrolman, your family doctor, or even concerned members of your family.

Here's how the plan works in Missouri:

A driver constantly ignores local traffic ordinances, running red lights, failing to stop at stop signs, weaving, etc. Someone observes this over a period of time and reports it to the Director of Revenue who is empowered to seek a more thorough check.

After the investigation, if the complaint is held to be valid, you will be required to under go a complete driver's examination. Should the citation be ignored, your driver's license can be revoked.

One official noted that the advantages of this is that it sets some careless drivers to thinking about their driving habits. Last year, for instance, 700 Missourians received such citations. It's not known how many passed the re-examination.

STATE VACATIONS

Governor Warren E. Hearnes has cracked the vacation whip, issuing an executive order that employees with fewer than five years' state service can have only two-weeks off instead of the customary three.

Inaugurate Phone Calls By Satellite

WASHINGTON AP -- President Johnson formally inaugurated commercial telephone service by satellite Monday with a transatlantic call relayed by the Early Bird satellite.

Immediately after the President's call, stressing the influence of global communications on world peace, other calls were made in French, German, and Italian by officials of those countries.

Great Britain and Canada also took part.

The conversations were clearly distinguishable from the usual transatlantic calls by submarine cable.

The Early Bird satellite, hanging 22,300 miles above the Atlantic between Brazil and Africa, is the product of a joint venture of 44 countries, with more nations expected to join. Membership is obtained through the Communications Satellite Corporaton.

Early Bird is to accommodate telephone calls by newsmen, and transmission of news copy and photographs between Washington and European points.

Since its launching April 6, Early Bird has been used for experimental transmissions of telephone and other communications.

The Federal Communications Commission has temporarily approved the leasing of Early Bird circuits for $4,200 a month for telephone and telegraph traffic, and up to $5,245 an hour for television transmission during peak usage hours.

A later determination will be made as to whether the rates prove fair.

Education Costs High

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The high cost of higher education becomes apparent in the appropriation bills passed by both houses and now awaiting approval of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

For the fiscal year beginning Thursday, these amounts have been approved by both houses:

The University of Missouri— A total of $40,565,151 for operation of all four campuses, plus $7,895,000 for construction at the Columbia campus, $3,100,000 at Rolla, $3,950,000 at Kansas City and $2,900,000 at St. Louis.

Southeast at Cape Girardeau — $3,649,437 for operations and $2,293,210 for construction.

THE GIBSON FIRE

A fire broke out at the Gibson Plant,
At one fifteen one morn--
The people gathered from all around
Quite sleepy and forlorn;

The blaze mounted high to the sky above,
And the smoke grew thicker still--
As a stream of men from the factory poured,
With cries some harsh and shrill.

Full twenty men--with brawny arms
And strength of a schooners crew;
Pushed a schorching car from the danger zone,
And cursed as the whistles blew.

Our preacher ran with a beating heart
As he had never ran before;
He shouted loud as he passed the throng,
And dashed thru the open door.

"My car, my car," were the words we heard,
And we knew how the preacher felt;
For his overland stood by the raging blaze,
With strong tendency to melt.
The starter of course, just wouldn't work,
As they seldom do you know;
So the preacher dashed around in front
In the heat of the fires glow.

But alas, alas, may we say a word,
But this strong and stalwort yank;
Was flustered and didn't know
That he'd forgot to bring the crank,

Mr. Gibson then with his clothes awry,
Appeared midst a glow of lights;
And the quaking hearts of the milling crowd,
Knew he'd set all things to right.

"Well, well," said Charles as he gazed about
And his keen eyes caught the sight;
"It appears to me, my hearty lads
There is doings here tonight."

"You had better send some men aloft
And let it quickly be,
In case a spark should fly and fall--
On the roof of warehouse C-"

The order was heard by a fearless man
Clarence Bissell was his name;
He is well known over Greenville wide,
As one of strength and fame.

"Hooray, hooray," he shouted loud
"Hooray and glory be."
"Break loose my lads," and he started off;
On a run for warehouse C-

A full half hour he paced the roof
In search of a floating spark;
And his Hi-o-yipe-yipe-yipe-yipe-ya
Could be heard thru out the dark.

When once again in the paper room,
With lunch box in his hand;
He heard some news, some startling news,
That made his thin hair stand.

"Fifty barrels," he cried aloud
His language turned unsweet;
"Fifty barrels of napha boys
Right beneath my very feet."

If one spark had dropped then,
Why--had dropped on even one;
Now Bissell's pieces would have been to small
To wad the tinist gun.

"I will lend to all a helping hand,
Helpful and kind--thats me;
But never again will Bissell go--
To the roof of warehouse C-."

State To Spend More Than $10 Million On Criminals

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Missouri will spend more than $10 million in the fiscal year starting Thursday just to keep law violators in institutions and try to rehabilitate them.

Bills providing financing of the correctional institutions, as approved by both houses of the Missouri General Assembly, and if approved by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, will provide these amounts:

Main Penitentiary at Jefferson City -- $3,672,139 for general operations, $1,882,704 for industries and farms and $230,306 for inmate education.

Medium Security Prison at Moberly -- $853,518 for operations.

Women's Prison at Tipton -- $184,049.

Algoa's Intermediate Reformatory near Jefferson City -- $733,496.

State Training School for Boys at Boonville -- $1,232,440 for operations, plus $170,213 for construction and repairs.

State Training School for Girls at Chillicothe--$637,800 for operations, plus $209,484 for repairs and construction.

Probation and Parole Board-$775,155.

There are no construction allotments for the main prison system.

Hearnes has said he wants his new top correctional officers, Corrections Director Fred T. Wilkinson and Prison Warden Harold R. Swenson, to become acquainted with the situation before any planning is done for structural changes.

Moreau And Bardot Talented Director Says

HOLLYWOOD (AP) -- The interview with French director Louis Malle got off to an unsettling start.

Just as we started to chat, the doorbell of his Beverly Wilshire hotel suite rang. A stately beauty materialized from the bedroom and received some laundry. Her attire, in the tradition of French movies, was a towel.

"That was my wife," said Malle offhandedly. He is accustomed to such things, having directed not only Brigitte Bardot "A Very Private Affair" and Jeanne Moreau "The Lovers" separately, but Brigitte Bardot and Jeanne Mareau together in "Viva Maria."

He had just returned from toiling in Mexico with the two French film stars and his aplomb seemed unshaken by the experience. He is an impeccably groomed man, young 32 for a director by American standards, and handsome enough to fill in as leading man.

"It was an extremely difficult picture," he conceded. "There were all kinds of complicated things to do -- Western scenes, special effects, battle scenes--all this with two girls doing what John Wayne and Gary Cooper might have done in an American film."

Bardot and Moreau hadn't met before "Viva Maria," and the prospects of a raging feud was savored by Journalists everywhere. It didn't happen, said Malle.

Malle's analysis of the two stars:

Moreau -- "A great actress, but more intriguing than that. She has an emotional, even sexual impact that goes beyond being an actress."

Bardot -- "She is considered a sexpot, but is actually a first-rate actress. She would be considered so if she were less flashy, sexy and beautiful. If she keeps going on her present trend, she will be as good as Marilyn Monroe in some of her later comedies, Carole Lombard or Judy Holliday."

WINNERS of the Scott-New Madrid-Mississippi Electric Cooperative essay contese, Linda Sayer and Joseph Diebold, stand with U. S. Sen. Edward Long, Democrat from Missouri. They are in the ballroom of a Washington, D. C., hotel. The winners are from Kelso. The winners went to Washington for nine days this month.

Congressman Jones Wants Guaranteed Student Loans

WASHINGTON -- Rep. Paul C. Jones of Kennett told the House that loans to regular college students as well as to vocational school students should be federal guaranteed loans, and not direct loans from the federal government.

He endorsed the plan before the House to provide guaranteed loans to students who wish to attend a vocational or technical school instead of a regular collegiate institution. He said that under the plan the student could contact a bank, or other money lending institution and make the loan and then get the government to guarantee it. If the student defaults on the repayment of the loans, the government would pay it and probably try to collect it from the student.

Rep. Jones said he had urged a similar program instead of the direct loan program, for students going to a regular college. He noted that there has been a high rate of defaulting on the repayment of the direct loans by the government. He said many irresponsible youths seemed to think "the world owed them a living," and that the loan was a gift, or grant. But he said the students needed to learn to treat it seriously.

He pointed to the fact that defaults run from five per cent, as in the case of the University of Maryland, to about one-third at Howard University.

He said the best way for the student to realize the seriousness of the loan would be to get it from a bank or other money lending institution. He said he had urged the House committee on education to adopt the plans for loans to regular college students to take the place of the direct loans.

Rep. Jones said Dr. Mark Scully of Southeast Missouri State College favors this type of loan and has written the committee stating that he favors it.

Because I had had a particularly trying day, I complained bitterly to my husband about the thankless job of being a housewife. I raved on for a while, then decided to answer some mail and pounded out my irritability on the typewriter. When I finished a letter to his parents, I handed it over to him to red.

"Boy, this is a relief!" he exclaimed. "From the way you were banging on the typewriter, I thought you had written your resignation." — Mrs. Ralph M. Moore

Area Counties Can Reduce Tax

JEFFERSON CITY -- In 37 Missouri counties, $2,070,199 in unnecessarily levied property taxes will be imposed this year unless their county courts in the next few weeks lower the tentative tax rate included in county budgets adopted last January and February, Missouri Public Expenditure Survey said today.

County revenue fund rates shown in the budgets of these counties can be reduced from 5 cents to 38 cents per $100 valuation, an average reduction of 15 cents, the governmental research organization said.

Each of these 37 countries is maintaining a surplus in its general fund in excess of the amount it needs to operate on a cash basis, the Survey explained.

The 37 counties which can cut taxes this year and the cuts possible include: Pemiscot, 13 cents; Perry, 10 cents; and Texas, 28 cents.

GADABOUT

There must be Gypsy in my blood,
I've such a tendency to roam,
Not just when trees begin to bud
Always, the open road's my home.

My clothes are colors wild and gay,
Full skirts and petticoats with lace;
Chokers, bracelets, ear-rings, that sway,
As hunting music sets my pace.

When seasons do their change-about,
They are so much of me a part-
Could there be any shade of doubt,
There's Gypsy in my heart?

The Lady-in-Waiting Can Enjoy the Summer

by Alicia Hart
Beauty Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The expectant mother, if her doctor permits, can have a good time this summer whether she is roaming on vacation or at roost on her own patio.

Most obstetricians agree that some exercise and outdoor activity during warm months can contribute to robust health during pregnancy. This does not mean an excessively strenuous round of tennis, swimming, sailing, cocktailing and entertaining though.

Most of us do enjoy some form of summer play. If you are a swimmer, then do go near the water, for example, if it's serene, not-too-chill lake water, a smooth stream, or even a calm ocean. During a normal pregnancy, taking the "quiet plunge" is safe up until at least the seventh month. Avoid strenuous water games or diving into icy water.

For your quick dip and sunning, swimwear manufacturers dreamed up high-fashion, comfortable suits. A quipster, not to be outdone by Pop or Op art, calls these designs "Mom art."

When sunning avoid overexposure. A maker of sunning aids (Bain de Soleil) points out that pregnancy tends to intensify skin dryness or oiliness. So select a suntan cream, oil or lotion suited to your complexion problems. Read labels carefully for contents and select a product with a double sunscreen, for example, made for sensitive and fair skins. Limit your time in the direct sun to two hours a day.

Avoid sunbathing during the sun's wickedest hours—10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Whenever you do sun, smooth on your sunscreening aid lavishly, especially on the nose, delicate skin around the eyes, shoulders, chin, top and back of the knees. Also wear a hat to cut down on overheating. If you are on a windy beach or in a breezy boat, again avoid chilling. Don a colorful beach jacket or robe.

Meanwhile, your doctor may advise against swimming, playing tennis or other active sports. He may suggest long walks as a substitute. This is great fun at the beach or in a resort area. Wear well-fitting, comfortable shoes for proper support of legs and back. You will find brisk walks help strengthen key muscles and can help cut down fatigue.

The mother-to-be finds summer pregnant with outdoor recreation possibilities. Under doctor's instructions, the lady-in-waiting can sunbathe, swim and take part in other sports in moderation. Avoid painful sunburns by using a fluid suntan aid (Bain de Soleil) and limit exposure to sun's rays.

Just Who Is Subsidizing Whom

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. -- The record level of farm price-support subsidies--a whopping $3.5 billion in 1964 -- has spawned the loudest, most sustained howl of fiscal indignation in many years.

But American agriculture, long condemned for its ability to produce in over-abundance, is finally launching a determined and--so far--effective counter-offensive.

Who, demands the American farmer, is really subsidizing whom?

The answer has come rumbling out of the Farm Belt to echo through the Halls of Congress: "American agriculture, with its seemingly boundless efficiency, is in fact subsidizing the American taxpayer far more than the taxpayer is subsidizing agriculture."

ITEM: While 26 cents of every after-tax dollar went for food in the base period of 1947-49, the consumer in 1964 spent less than 18 1/2 cents--and for the highest quality and widest variety of food in history.

ITEM: The price of non-food items in the United States climbed 36.4 per cent between 1947-49 and 1964, while food prices through the same period have risen only 25.3 per cent.

ITEM: If food costs had kept pace with spiraling non-food prices, more than $6 BILLION would have been added to the nation's 1964 grocery bill--an average of well over $100 per family of four.

Food, in other words, is a bargain -- about the best buy around, in fact.

And this, farm leaders are trying to convince critics of the price support programs, is something for which agriculture should be commended, not condemned.

In 1964, the American housewife shelled out more than $68 billion for domestically produced foods--the highest total in history.

But while total food costs have risen, wages have climbed even more, with the result that the consumer last year spent only 18.4 cents of every take-home dollar for food.

This figure -- lowest in the world--compares with nearly 50 cents in the Soviet Union; 30 cents and more in England and France.

Chief benefactor in this year of food bargains is the American farmer who has ridden a wave of technological advance to produce an ever-increasing abundance of food -- without a corresponding surge in production costs.

The result:

One hour of farm labor in the United States now produces twice as much as in 1950, three times as much as in 1940.

One American farm worker now supplies enough food for himself and 32 others--compared with Russia, where a single farm worker produces only enough for himself and five or six others.

And, in addition to feeding this nation at moderate cost, the American farmer also produces enough for foreign sales to rank as the United States' single most important source of export dollars.

But while the farmer has been the benefactor of the consumer --and the economy--he has not been a beneficiary of his own growing efficiency. His ability to produce has far outstripped the upward movement in domestic demand.

Thus, while the volume of farm marketings since 1947-49 has risen 42 per cent, the resulting over-production has depressed prices received by farmers by some 16 per cent.

But if the farmer's prices, his buying power, has actually declined in the past 15 years, what produced the 25.3 per cent increase in food costs?

The answer? Laziness.

If the American housewife had been content with the food that was available 20 years ago or more, she would have spent only 14 cents of every after-tax dollar on food last year.

Instead, the demand for improved food products -- convenience foods, for example --continued to expand.

And that's where the extra money went: to the middleman.

In 1964, for example, off-farm services for all food commodities purchased in retail stores absorbed an average of 64 cents out of every consumer dollar spent for food.

Compare this with 50 cents in 1947-49, and 55 cents in 1953.

The implication is clear: the housewife not only is demanding good food, but new and improved food conveniences as well. The household maid service of yesteryear has now been supplanted to a large extent by "built-in" maid service.

For better or worse, the American housewife has asked for, paid for--and has been given--the era of "heat-it-and-eat-it" food products.

NEWSPAPERBOYS

Your newspaperboy and 600,000 other youngsters make up the world's greatest junior sales and service organization.

His experience as a newspaperboy is unique—unlike any other part-time job.

As a Junior Independent Merchant, he buys his newspapers at wholesale and sells them at retail . . . for a profit. Assisted by men who are interested in and trained to work with boys . . . and an occasional "pat on the back" from his family . . . this young businessman develops the self-discipline which prompt delivery requires . . . learns how to get along with people in all walks of life . . . how to make sales . . . how to collect his money. He assumes the responsibility for his growing business.

Boys who learned the principles of business as newspaperboys have become presidents, governors, mayors, industrialists, and key men in this community. And many of tomorrow's leaders who will decide the future of this nation are getting their basic training today as newspaperboys.

Only one boy in ten gets the opportunity to have a newspaper route. If you think your son might profit by such experience, why not have him come in and talk to us.

Announcing the re-opening of our studio. We wish to announce that we are again ready to serve our many friends and customers of Sikeston and vicinity. We have re-opened our studio in the McCoy - Tanner building, upstairs over the Heisserer Drug Store in rooms 255-258, Sikeston Portrait Studio, Cele Potter Streiff, owner.

"Kohl Cleaners" is the name of the cleaning establishment which for the past several years has been known as the Band Box Cleaners. J. F. Kohl has purchased the business from Mrs. Hubert Boyer, the former owner.

Marvin Carroll, Sikeston's acting mayor since the death in late May of Dr. G. W. H. Presnell, was selected to fill the unexpired term at a special election last Thursday.

New arrivals. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Martin of Bertrand are parents of a daughter born June 30 at the Sikeston hospital.

PRAYER

For Today From The Upper Room

"You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your strength, and with all your mind." (Luke 10:27, RSV)

PRAYER: Our Father, help us to center on the one major purpose in life: to offer our love to Thee and to know Thy love in return. For Jesus' sake and in His name we pray. Amen.

Today's Spanish Lesson

FREQUENTLY USED PHRASES

NO IMPORTA (no/eem-pore-tah) It is of no importance.

ES POSSIBLE (s/poe-see-blay) It is possible.

Note: "ES" means, "it is", and can be used with such words as: Terrible, Natural, Magnificent, Important, etc.

NO TIENE RAZON (no/tea-en-a/rah-sone) You are mistaken

PELIGRO (pay - lee - grow) Danger (road sign)

PERMITAME (pair-me- tah-may) Permit me.

Note: This is used the same as "allow me" in English, i. e., Allow me to present my friend.

PLATA (plah-tah) Silver. Also slang for money, as in English, "green stuff".

POCO A POCO (poe-coe/ah/poe-coe) Little by little.

QUE PASO? (k/pah-so) What's up?, what's new?, what's happening.

SALUD (sah-lude) Health.

Note: This is used as a greeting--"SALUD MI AMIGO, QUE PASO"--Salutation, my friend, what's new? Also as "God bless you" when some one sneezes.

SEGURO (say-goo-roe) Sure. As in agreement to a statement similar to "VERDAD", for true.

SE ME OLVIDO (say/may/ol-vee-doe) I forgot.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: You've heard my story thousands of times. Middle-aged man (early 50's), woman in her 30's — both married. We have been desperately, madly, hopelessly in love for three years. Her husband is a fine guy. My wife is a lovely woman. Divorce is out of the question.

I know your answer. Break it off. Well, I can't break it off and neither can she. We've tried — really tried. But what happened? I get physically ill. Can't eat. Can't sleep. Can't work. When we stay away from each other for more than a few days we are both so miserable life isn't worth living. We rush back to each other like a couple of high school kids.

We know there is no good ending to this. But what can we do? This woman has given me ecstasy I've never known. When she is in my arms I'm as close to heaven as any mortal can be. I'm 10 feet tall and 20 years old. Any suggestions? —IN LOVE.

Dear In Love: You've anticipated my advice and rejected it. So I have no words for you — only sympathy.

I am printing your letter for the benefit of others who may be toying with the idea that a little extra-curricular activity might add glamour and excitement to their lackluster lives. The best way to avoid the agony is to forego the "ecstasy."

Dear Ann Landers: What makes an adult incapable of telling anything straight? I hate to call my husband a liar but I am shocked by the way he deviates from the facts.

Ned comes from a large family and they all have this despicable habit. Don't they realize how it sounds to those who were present?

I would never embarrass Ned in the presence of others and say, "No, dear, it wasn't like that —" but I have pleaded with him in private to please stop exaggerating. It hasn't helped. Why? — PRO-TRUTH

Dear Pro: People who embroider the facts beyond recognition want desperately to impress and-or amuse and they don't trust the straight story to do the job.

Exaggerators and distorters earn a reputation for irresponsibility or clownishness and no one takes them seriously. This is a high price to pay for a brief moment in the spotlight.

Dear Ann Landers: For almost two years my wife and I have not spoken to the people next door. We used to be friendly and I liked it that way. Then the girls had a misunderstanding and the friendship went pff -- t.

I'm sure my wife was at least 50 per cent to blame for the trouble and now I'm sorry I got involved in the mess. I have a feeling the other fellow is sorry, too.

I told my wife yesterday that I hate to spend another summer ignoring these neighbors. It's not only embarrassing but awkward since our children play together and go in and out of each other's homes constantly.

My wife says, "When I am through with somebody I am through with them." I don't want to live this way. Am I wrong? — NEIGHBORHOOD TROUBLE

Dear Neighbor: Now that you've learned that husbands should not become involved in wife-type "misunderstandings" go on from there.

Tell your wife you are going to speak to the neighbors and end the long freeze. In time she will probably follow suit. If she refuses, make no point of it, but it will be good for the children to see that there is at least one adult in the family.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Armed Forces

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., --It has been announced by higher headquarters that Colonel Malcolm A. Bailey, 42nd Air Division here, will be assigned to the Aeronautical Charting and Information Center in St. Louis as the Director of Materiel.

Assigned to Blytheville in July 1961, Colonel Bailey took over as the Deputy Commander for Maintenance. He served in that capacity until October 1964, when he took over his present position as the Director of Materiel for the 42nd.

Born in Rockport, Tex., Colonel Bailey graduated from Thomas Jefferson High School in San Antonio in 1935. He attended Draughn's Business School for two years, and majored in accounting.

A veteran of almost 25 years service, Colonel Bailey received his flight wings in July 1941. During the war he flew 87 combat missions in B-25 bombers with the British Bomber Command in East Africa, and later with the Twelfth Air Force in Italy. His service decorations include the Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross with one Oak Leaf Cluster, and the Air Medal with nine Oak Leaf Cluster.

In leaving, July 14, Colonel Bailey said, "This has been the most rewarding tour of my career. The people here are truly wonderful."

FORT RICHARDSON, ALASKA (AHTNC)--Army PFC Hugh D. Tesney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wes Tesney, Bertrand, Mo., participated in a week - long Alaskan Command which went into simulated combat action against a battalion of infantrymen from the Minnesota Army National Guard unit.

The exercise was designed to provide training in the air movement of ground forces in independent small unit operations in an underdeveloped northern environment.

Tesney is a mechanic in Company A, 1st Battalion of the 47th Infantry at Fort Wainwright, Alaska. He entered the Army in January 1964 and completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

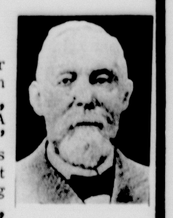

The 22-year-old soldier was graduated from Kelly High School, Benton, in 1961.

INDIAN WAR PATH—Believing that the Indian Ocean may become of vital strategic value to the West, the United States and Britain are studying the possibilities of establishing communications and other bases there. Black labels on Newsmap above show the four island sites particularly studied by the Anglo-American survey team. Far-flying bombers and far-ranging nuclear submarines have lessened the strategic value of fixed land bases. With bases on sparsely inhabited islands, the U.S. and Britain could protect India, thwart Red China and make quick contact with Viet Nam, Malaysia, Indonesia.

When I Was A Boy

As compiled by Ralph Gregory, Curator of the Mark Twain Shrine, Florida, from the writings of the founder of the Appeal, B. F. "Pappy" Blanton, in 1919-20. A contemporary of Mark Twain, "Pappy" Blanton wrote of the times and customs that were so dear to Twain, and about which Twain wrote so many interesting and humorous anecdotes. (Verbatim copy, with some questions and guesses as to missing words)

B. F. "Pappy" Blanton

August 8, 1919

When I was a boy there was one of the warmest contests for a seat in Congress ever pulled off in Missouri. The contestants were Calirbourne F. Jackson, Democrat, and James Lindley, Whig. The District was from Howard county to the Iowa line, and the men made the campaign on horseback. The district was normally Democratic, but Lindley's wit won the office. The regular democratic majority in Howard was 200 or a little more. The campaign was ended at Fayette and there were thousands to hear the speaking. Every joke Jackson told was turned against him by Lindley. Jackson told how he gave candy and kissed the kids, and when Lindly got up he said he also gave candy and kissed the kids, but said in Linn county when he kissed a little girl she said "Why Mr. Jackson kissed mamma too." The crowd went wild at this and next day Lindley carried Howard county and was elected.

When I was a boy almost every farmer raised flax to make the summer clothes for men and boys. When the flax got to the proper stage it was pulled by hand and spread out on the ground where it was left until the dew and rains rotted the woody part, after which it was gathered up, broke on a wooden brake and this released the woody part and left the fiber to be "swingled", that is, it was hung over the top of an upright board and beat with a paddle. Then it was "hackled," which prepared it for spinning and weaving into cloth. Then the women cut and made the clothes for the men and boys who were prouder of their new suits than is the modern dude with his Palm Beach suit. After these clothes were washed a time or two they were as white as bleached linen and never wore out.

When I was a boy many of our neighbors owned Negroes, among them being many Negro girls and women. Some of the women at times worked in the fields but usually their work was in the house spinning, weaving, cooking and often making up the clothes for their men. As well as I now remember these black women were looked after by their mistresses, far better than are many white girls looked after by their mothers now. I can remember of but one bastard Negro child in our neighborhood when I was a boy. The morals of the Negro girls was much worse just after they were freed and got away from their old mistresses.

When I was a boy I went with some men to dig a grave for a departed neighbor. There were 8 or 10 men there to help, but only one could work at a time. The grave was at the proper depth and one man had begun to dig a vault in which to place the coffin, big boxes in which to place the coffin were then unknown. The man digging was a Methodist and he was arguing with a Baptist brother the proper mode of baptism. The argument soon became heated to such a pitch that the Methodist crawled out of the grave determined to hammer his views into the Baptist's head. They started at each other and it took all the men to keep them apart, for which I was sorry. One man gave them a good talk, after which they shook hands and finished the grave, and that question remains unsettled and always will remain so.

When I was in the Navy during World War II, we had a chief who was a health faddist. He was rather obnoxious by nature and he was continually berating the rest of us for our human frailities. He took vitamin pills 24 hours a day and he supplemented his diet with all types of health foods.

We had a yeoman who was especially vulnerable to colds and flu and who was always the target of the chief's taunts and jibes. One day the yeoman showed up with the sniffles and the chief said sarcastically: "You reservists are a bunch of weaklings. Look at me -- I've never been sick a day in my life."

The yeoman looked up at him and replied: "Physically, you mean?"

Just 15 minutes of vigorous activity

Just 15 minutes of vigorous activity—during a daily physical education period—can improve the physical fitness of our nation's youth. One third of our children lack the strength and endurance to pass simple physical achievement tests! Your child—if he's as inactive as most youngsters nowadays—may be among them. That's why you should know as much about the physical education program in your child's school as you know about its academic program. Just how much time is given to physical education daily? Precisely what kind of activity does it include? Unfortunately, in too many schools, physical education programs are geared to the development of athletically-gifted students. Consequently, those who are not inclined to participate in team or competitive sports, do not get the physical conditioning they need. Find out if there's sufficient emphasis on this important phase of your child's education. And to help you evaluate the fitness program in your school, write for the free booklet offered by The President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D. C.

OUR ANCESTORS — by Quincy

"Dyke, Schmyke! Get your finger out of our handball court!"

Today In U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, June 29, the 180th day of 1965. There are 185 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1927, two young Army lieutenants, Lester Maitland and Albert Hegenberger, leanded in Honolulu--the first to make the difficult Pacific flight. The flight from Oakland, Calif., took 25 hours and 15 minutes.

On this date

In 1541, Coronado and his band of Spanish explorers crossed the Arkansas River and entered Quivira, now Kansas, in their search for the fabled "seven cities of Cibola."

In 1776, the Virginia State Constitution was adopted and Patrick Henry was made governor.

In 1858, Gen. George Goethals, the Army engineer who directed the completion of the Panama Canal, was born.

In 1891, the Colorado River began flooding the Salton Desert, creating a great inland lake.

In 1943, American forces landed on New Georgia Island in the Solomons.

Ten years ago -- A commission headed by former President Herbert Hoover completed a two-year study aimed at reorganizing the executive branch of the government.

Five years ago -- The Cuban government seized the Texas Co. petroleum refinery in Santiago.

One year ago--The last U. N. soldiers left the Congo as the former Belgian colony celebrated its fourth anniversary of independence.

Freeman Puts Hand Into Tigers' Cage

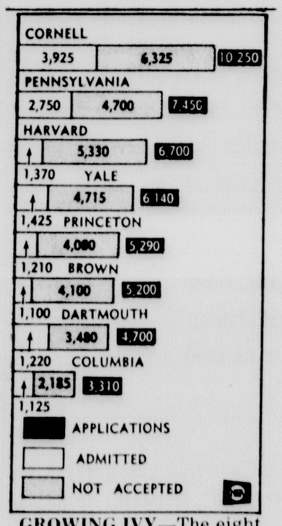

CHICAGO (AP) —Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman calmly reached into the tigers' cage at Brookfield Zoo Sunday and scratched one of the big cats behind the ear.

A reckless or daring act? No. Freeman patted the cat at the urging of Ronald Blakely, a zoo director who raised the tiger from birth. In Blakely's presence the tigers are docile as lambs.

Freeman visited the zoo during a speaking engagement.

MALONE

with a special platoon of Viet Namese who are picked because they have a grudge against the Viet Cong and get a bounty for killing them or bringing in their weapons. I trust them, even though they don't speak English.

"When I get a target, either through personal sighting or from a Viet Namese officer with a radio, I call for an adjusting round. That lets us know how far it is from the enemy.

"Then I take one shift and call for fire for effect, using air bursts, normally--they explode about 60 feet avove the ground--if the enemy is in the open or in trenches.

"It takes about four minutes, sometimes less, to call in that second round. Our 8-incher is so accurate you have to move each round a bit or it will dig a hole.

"We caught two enemy platoons in a command center dead on the button with adjusting rounds from our 155s," he said referring to a June 5 shelling which killed 80 Viet Cong and wounded 60 others. "Then we plastered them with 39 rounds as they milled around or tried to escape up a trail with their wounded. It was almost like firing at them with a machine gun.

"The VC don't behave well under artillery fire. They run around madly -- which means that the fire-for-effect rounds almost always catch them."

He is the son of Dr. Paul D. Malone and Mrs. Malone, former residents who now live in Auburndale, Mass. He is a grandson of Mrs. Clay A. Mitchell, 712 Sikes Ave.

Liberal Party Okays Lindsay

NEW YORK AP -- The Liberal party, with a record of deciding close elections, has endorsed Rep. John V. Lindsay, Republican candidate for New York City mayor.

The endorsement is a major boost for the 43-year-old congressman, who is planning a fusion ticket in his bid to be the first Republican mayor since 1945.

The Liberal party, which exists only in New York State, has proved the balance of power in a number of elections.

Another man and I were looking at the spiny, spiky abstract sculpture by Ezio Martinelli that was recently mounted on an outisde wall of the United Nations building in New York. "Darn ingenious, isn't it?" he commented. "They've been sculpturing for thousands of years, and this is the first thing I've seen that licks the problem."

"What problem?" I asked.

"Just look around," he said. "Did you ever see a madder-looking bunch of pigeons?" — James Ricker

the BIGGER we get the easier we DEAL

This has been one of those years. Great. Buickwise, we mean. And no wonder. The 1965 crop of Buicks are all beautiful. They ride well, handle well. Buick engineers, you see, have a way of doing things that please people.

So what's this ad for?

To brag about Buicks?

No, sir.

We have something that'll interest you more. It's called how to get yourself a Buick the easy way.

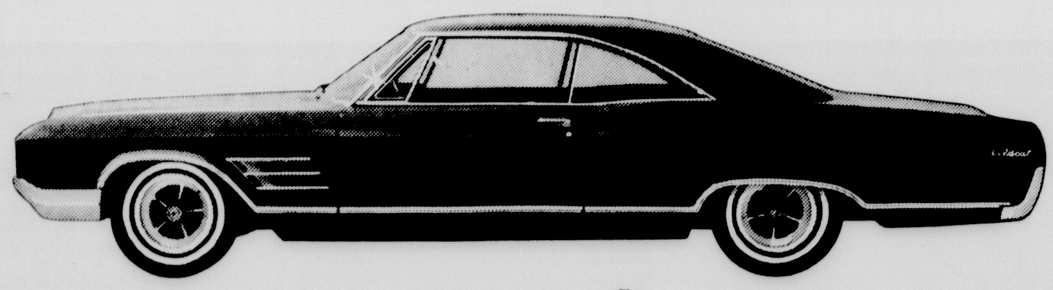

Because we've had such a great sales year, we can make it easy. The easier we make it, the closer we'll come to breaking our all-time Buick sales record.

This goes for any Buick: Riviera, Electra 225, Wildcat, LeSabre, Skylark or Special. You name it — we'll deal.

It all adds up to this: If you'd really rather go first class, go Buick.

We'll make it worth your while.

Parnell To Head College Fine Arts

KENNETT -- Bryan Parnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Parnell of Kennett, has been appointed chairman of the fine arts division of the Oakland City College in Oakland City, Ind., where he is an associate professor of music.

Parnell, who was formerly director of music in the Holcomb and Charleston, public schools will begin his third year at the college this fall.

First Red Cotton Blooms Reported

The Woods brothers, W. T., E. B., Tommy and Bill Woods, operators of the Buckeye Plantation, on route CC, south of Bertrand, reported the first red cotton bloom Sunday.

A close second was Joe Engram, Vanduser, who found a red bloom Monday and a white bloom the day before. The blooms were five days earlier than last year.

First Joint Air Action In Viet Nam War

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP -- U. S. paratroopers have gone into action with Vietnamese airborne units in the first joint American-Vietnamese combat operation of the war against the Communist Viet Cong, a U. S. military spokesman announced.

The spokesman said American and Vietnamese casualties in the huge operation were very light so far.

The men of the 173rd Airborne Brigade and the Vietnamese paratroopers were lifted into the attack zone 30 miles north of Saigon Monday by helicopter.

Operations were continuing today.

The densely jungled area is a Viet Cong stronghold.

Meanwhile, U. S. Air Force planes made their deepest strike into North Viet Nam today, hitting a barracks and supply depot 150 miles west north of Hanoi, U. S. military spokesmen announced.

The spokesmen said the Thuan Chau depot was two miles farther north than any previous Air Force target. They said pilots reported destroying 32 buildings and damaging 20 others.

A U. S. Air Force B57 jet bomber was hit by Communist groundfire as it supported a ground operation 15 miles from Saigon and crashed and burned in a rice field two miles north of the Saigon airport, U. S. spokesmen reported.

The two crewmen ejected from the plane after the left wing caught fire, but one man's parachute failed to open, the spokesmen said. His body was recovered. The second airman parachuted into a river and a search was being made for him.

The dead flier was the 430th American killed in combat in Viet Nam.

A second American plane, an RF101, was shot down at low altitude on another raid north of the Hanoi line, and the pilot was presumed killed, spokesmen announced.

Mountain Man Wins

WASHINGTON AP -- A Tennessee mountain man named Wilford Metcalf has taken on the mighty U. S. government -- and won.

Metcalf cut some timber on his mountain farm in Cocke County, but was stopped by a forest ranger who came along and told Metcalf the land belonged to the government. He was told to leave the cut timber lie where it was. Later the government sent him a bill for $1,717.52.

"My whole farm ain't worth that much, much less the little dab of timber that was cut," Metcalf protested in a letter to his congressman, Republican James Quillen.

The mountain man told Quillen that if there was any poverty left over in the country to send it his way because "it's better than us mountain folks has been used to."

Quillen went to bat for Metcalf, firing off several letters to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, whose department runs the Forest Service.

Quillen said Monday that the Agriculture Department reported to him that a new survey showed that the timber land in question did belong to Metcalf. Proceedings to collect the $1,717.52 bill are to be dropped.

But Quillen wants to go further. "If the government said Metcalf owed it $1,717.52 for timber he cut and which he had to leave on the ground and not use, then it seems to me the government now owes Mr. Metcalf $1,717.52," Quillen daid. "I'm going to try and get it for him."

Pilot Says 'Miracle' Permitted Safe Landing

SAN FRANCISCO AP -- A Pan American pilot gave thanks today for the "miracle" that let him nurse his passenger-filled 707 jet to a safe landing, despite the loss of 20 feet of wing and an engine which scattered in a populated area but hurt no one.

Aboard were 143 passengers and a crew of 10.

Two minutes after the Honolulu-bound jet took off from San Francisco International Airport Monday, Capt. Charles H. (Chuck) Kimes, 44, of Danville, Calif., felt a heavy vibration in his right outboard engine.

Hundreds of persons in South San Francisco and San Bruno saw a ball of fire blossom on the end of a starboard wing as the No. 4 engine snapped off and plummeted to earth like a flaming meteor.

Then one-third of the wing, trailing blazing debris, broke off and slanted to earth. In the plane, pilot Kimes told his terrified passengers in a calm voice, "We have had some trouble. Keep calm and everything will be okay."

"I kept it going with a lot of help," Kimes said later. "It was a miracle."

At Travis, fighter planes scrambled into the air to escort him and make visual airborne inspections of the damage. A Coast Guard plane was already alongside the crippled airliner. The fire was out by this time.

Shortly after 2:30 p.m. less than half an hour after takeoff, Kimes' plane was circling Travis. Then a new crisis arose. The right landing gear refused to lower hydraulically.

First Officer F. R. Miller of Calistoga, Calif., with help from others of the crew, manually cranked down the gear.

Tries To Retain Cushion

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, fought today to preserve a $20 million operating cushion in the state budget.

He laid over the final catch-all appropriation bill Monday night after several amendments were adopted eating into the reserve. He said he would call the bill up again today.

"Why you could get anything adopted in here tonight," the Senate Appropriations chairman complained after several amendments sailed through.

Finally an argument developed over granting $10,000 each to the residence centers operated by state colleges at Malden and West Plains.

Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, said the money would be used at Malden merely to drum up more students at the old air base there. He charged the residence center couldn't get enough students to operate a summer program.

Sen. Nelson B. Tinne, D-Hornersville, whose district includes the Malden center, said the money would be used for administrative purposes and perhaps to induce more students to come there.

As the final omnibus or catch-all bill emerged from conference committee it carried about $6,663,000 in general revenue money and an estimated $2 million-plus in federal and fee funds.

The conferees eliminated $10 million in additional state aid to schools under the foundation program because that amount was included in a transfer bill passed earlier by the Senate.

The conferees cut the amount to start the work of the new Council on The Arts from $250,000 as recommended by the governor to $50,000. Patterson said the Council could get more money at the special session next January if it comes up with a concrete program.

Two Big Issues Left

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- With less than 48 hours of working time remaining the Missouri Legislature had two big issues and a lot of smaller ones facing it before it must quit work at midnight Wednesday.

The big ones were the congressional redistricting ordered by the federal courts and the catchall appropriation bill that got snarled in the Senate Monday night.

Congressional redistricting is in conference to find a House-Senate compromise. Conferees said they'd keep trying.

Otherwise the congressional candidates will have to run at large instead of from 10 districts.

Two Cases Before Court

In a short magistrate court session Judge M. E. Montgomery heard two cases.

Charged with a felony is William H. Pugh, who is accused of passing fraudulent checks in Sikeston.

The case was refiled for circuit court July 8.

The 18-year-old youth is from Kennett and is reported to be absent without leave from the United States Army.

Also appearing before Judge Montgomery was Jimmie Robinson of 314 Daniel St., who was charged with being a minor in possession of liquor, inadequate brakes, and an inadequate muffler. He pleaded innocent to the three charges and the case was continued until next week.

INGENUITY WITH AN ENGINE gives summer fun for the children on the 300 block of Virginia Street. The motorized wagon is ridden by Francis Riddle, nine. It was made from a wagon and an old lawnmower engine. Charles Riddle, 15, Greg Mayer, 15, and David Hale, 9, put their heads together and constructed this little vehicle. It cruises at an average speed of 10 miles per hour.

Three Hurt In Accidents

There were three minor injuries in three highway accidents over the past 24 hours, the state highway patrol reported.

In an accident 11 miles south of Poplar Bluff on highway 67, Monday at 2:35 a.m., when Harry J. McCarty, 53, North Little Rock, Ark., apparently dozed, his car went over the center line and sideswiped another car. He was taken to the Ludy Lee Hospital, Poplar Bluff, suffering from back, arm and leg cuts.

A two car meeting on route K, a mile east of Illmo at 6:05 p.m. Monday, resulted in a 1964 Plymouth, driven by David Hahs, 16, Scott City, running off the highway and striking a utility pole. The driver claimed he was forced off the road as he was approaching a 1956 Ford pickup driven by William Keesee, 27, Illmo. No one was injured.

At 7:45 a.m. Monday south of Old Appleton on highway 61, two drivers were injured when a 1955 Chevrolet, driven by Jimmy Parker, 17, Lemay, met a 1961 Chevrolet, driven by Harold Rasche, 32, Lafayette, Ind., crashed on the crest of of a hill. Parker was taken to the Perry county hospital, Perryville, with head and right arm cuts, while Rasche was taken to a Cape Girardeau hospital with forehead cuts and a knee injury.

Lions Installation

Eye Procedures Of Party Conventions

WASHINGTON AP -- Republican National Chairman Ray C. Bliss says he will recommend today the naming of a committee to study the whole question of presidential convention procedures.

Bliss said he would make the suggestion to the Republican National Committee, meeting here for the second day.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower gave a boost Monday to the idea of reforming the national conventions. At a typical convention, Eisenhower said, "there is confusion, noise, impossible deportment and ignoring of the subjects being discussed on the platform. I think most of the United States is horrified at the spectacle."

Eisenhower gave this formula for producing light and reason at the nominating conventions, which so often are overwhelmed by hoopla and bedlam:

--Give the permanent chairman dictatorial powers.

--Name 6-foot-4 sergeants at arms, police officer types perhaps.

--Limit demonstrations to five minutes; anything more than that is "spurious and phony."

--Cut down the number of delegates and make the alternates sit in the galleries.

Finally, Eisenhower turned toward a press table and, addressing reporters, said "I say all press, all publicity media, should be excluded from the floor."

He added, "They have places. We cooperate with them. We want them, but certainly we don't want them running around having interviews when we are having someone make a serious statement before a delegation."

Eisenhower's formula drew this comment from William E. Miller, the party's vice-presidential candidate last year, who is on the small side: "I don't think it makes so much difference whether the sergeants-at-arms are 6-feet-4 or 5-feet-2, but something has to be done about television moving in and taking over all of the choice space on the floor."

Miller, who as national chairman managed the last Republican convention, added "If we could get together with the Democrats, I think we could lay down sane rules for television operation.

Paul Fleurdelys

Wins State VFW Office

CHARLESTON -- Paul Fleurdelys, past 15th district Veterans of Foreign Wars commander, was chosen junior vice commander of the Missouri V.F.W. at the annual state convention in St. Louis.

He was commander of the Charleston post two years, post quartermaster 10 years, and served on the post publishing committee 12 years. He was chairman of the department budget committee for five years and an active member of the Charleston V. F. W. post 19 years.

He is a sales representative for New York Life Insurance Company.

Death Mutes Nichols' Horn

LAS VEGAS, Nev. AP -- Ernest Loring Nichols, known as "Red" to swing music fans since the big band era and most famed for his Five Pennies combo, is dead at 60.

Nichols, who once briefly put aside his trumpet for a welder's torch, suffered what doctors said was a heart attack Monday in his motel room.

He had called the Mint Casino, where he and his combo were booked, and told the switchboard: "Get me a doctor. I can't breathe." Nichols was dead on arrival at a hospital.

In his years with the big bands, Nichols hired and brought forth some of the all-time popular music makers: Benny Goodman, Joe Venuti, Artie Shaw, Gene Krupa, Jimmy Dorsey, Eddie Lang and Arthur Schutt. His first arranger was Glenn Miller.

He was a native of Ogden, Utah.

Matthews Youth Camp Reporter

MATTHEWS -- Douglas Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore, route one, was elected to reporter at the State Future Farmers of America Camp on the Lake of the Ozarks. Douglas represented the Matthews F. F. A. at Camp Rising Sun.

Other boys who attended the camp from Matthews were Jerry Jones and Garry Harris. These boys spent a week which included, leadership activities, swimming, boating, fishing, softball, water skiing and other sports.

Pets Vaccinated

MOREHOUSE -- The animal population has been made safe when the owners of 80 dogs and cats brought their animals into the fire station to be vaccinated Wednesday. Dr. F. V. Stepp was in charge of the vaccination.

Kadar Still In Control

VIENNA, Austria AP -- Communist party chief Janos Kadar still appears to be top man in Hungary after giving up the premiership in a reshuffle.

Kadar, 53, resigned as premier Monday and handed the job to Gyula Kallai, 55, his deputy since 1960. He retained the top party post, the most powerful position in Communist countries.

At least seven new men were named to the Communist party's top echelon. They appeared to be handpicked by Kadar to insure his control of the party apparatus.

Hungarian officials said the changes did not mean any alteration in Hungary's domestic or foreign policies but were designed to take "some of the burden off Mr. Kadar's shoulders."

Rumors that Kadar would resign as premier have been circulating since the ouster of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in October 1964.

Kadar may have decided to postpone his resignation in order to calm the public. He probably also didn't want to give the impression that the move was dictated by Moscow.

Foreign Aid Action Seen

WASHINGTON AP -- House and Senate conferees have met seven times without agreeing on a foreign aid bill. But Rep. Thomas E. Morgan predicts success by week's end.

Morgan, a Pennsylvania Democrat, heads the House team.

So far the conferees have been concentrating mostly on what Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., calls the "underbrush," leaving the major difference between the separate aid authorizations passed by the House and Senate:

A one-year extension of the program -- the traditional approach and the one taken by the House; a two-year extension and then an end to the program in its present form with a special study group charged with refashioning it -- the course taken by the Senate.

First Firecracker Injury Reported

CAIRO--A Cairo youth, Alan Pitcher, was injured by a thrown firecracker over the weekend.

Mrs. William Pitcher reported that some boys threw the firecracker into her car.

She reported the license number of the car to Cairo police, and they were later picked up at Barlow.

The boys, all from Paducah, were fined for a similar charge at Barlow, and were not returned to Cairo.

One Arrest

Police arrested Jack Thomas of Sikeston during the past 24 hours, on a charge of public intoxication.

Lucien Stoner

Rotary Installs Stoner

At the annual Rotary Club Installation ceremonies last night in the Holiday Inn, Lucien Stoner became president. He succeeds V. Allan Hubbard.

Thatcher Scism is vice-president, secretary. Lennie Whitworth was elected director of club services.

Fred Koch is treasurer.

Hubbard became sergeant at arms.

Ray Leible is vocational service director.

Jim Green is director of community service.

George H. "Bill" Jones is director of international services.

Dr. Frank Sisson, a past district Rotary governor, was in charge of the installation. The program was furnished by Chamber of Commerce Manager Jim Musick and J. W. Hartzog, president of the organization.

The program was in charge of Melvin McMachin.

Hubbard, a Rotarian for 28 years, told of activities that the club has participated in the past years.

This year marked the second time that Hubbard has served as Rotary president.

The first was in Chaffee.

Some of the club's activities during the past year are: financially aided a student for two semesters at Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau; helped to build school in India; helped a 17-year-old mother and two children; sent boy to Boys State; helped in United Fund; shared in the Christmas baskets to needy families; helped in Delta community concert; gave financial support to the Tri-State Crippled Adults Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.; participated in the Rotary Foundation which sends students to study overseas; sent girl to Girls State; aided the art show; aided financially in the banquet for superior students; helped support Babe Ruth and Little Leagues and sponsored a Little League team.

The next Rotary meeting will be held in the Holiday Inn July 12.

Malone May Have Killed More Than Any American

CHU LAI, South Viet Nam (AP) -- A slender young Marine second lieutenant who directs the fire of massive artillery pieces with deadly effect may be responsible for killing more enemy than any other American in the Viet Namese war.

"I've liked to hunt almost since I learned to walk," said Patrick Malone, an Annapolis graduate from Massachusetts, who once tramped hill country around Sikeston, Mo., with his grandfather.

Malone is a forward observer for a United States Marine battalion of 8-inch guns and 155-millimeter howitzers.

His success in Viet Nam reflects the skill of a born hunter: The ability to stalk the prey up close and to anticipate how he'll behave after the first shot.

"I started shooting at pigeons with an air gun when I was 5, and at 10 I could get a squirrel a day," says Malone. "It made me mad because I never seemed to get two."

Malone, who is called both "Pat" and "Shotgun," has shot sharks off Cape Cod and hunted deer with bow and arrow.

Now, almost 23 years old, he is credited with calling down artillery fire that killed at least 172 Viet Cong and wounded at least 77 more in an eight-day period.

Some question the accuracy of Malone's feats but U. S. Marine spokesmen say they have been confirmed by village chiefs and natives forced by the Viet Cong to carry away their dead and wounded.

Beyond, all doubt, Malone has done a phenomenal job. He is also one of the most colorful officers over here. He wears around his throat, jammed in a leather scabbord, a well-honed 8-inch hunting knife with a stag horn handle. He carries a rifle and a .45-caliber automatic.

"I wear the hunting knife around my neck because it's a family heirloom," Malone said. "It comes from my folks who come from Tennessee. I hunted as a kid with my grandfather around Sikeston, Mo., and the Ozark hills. I grew up with weapons of all kinds.

"The knife I carry around my neck isn't just showoff. It impresses the Viet Namese, because they know it has been in my family a long time."

"When we get an intelligence report that Viet Cong are moving in our area, I like to check them myself. I can adjust the fire better. Often I go on patrol

Parnell To Head College Fine Arts

KENNETT -- Bryan Parnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Parnell of Kennett, has been appointed chairman of the fine arts division of the Oakland City College in Oakland City, Ind., where he is an associate professor of music.

Parnell, who was formerly director of music in the Holcomb and Charleston, public schools will begin his third year at the college this fall.

First Red Cotton Blooms Reported

The Woods brothers, W. T., E. B., Tommy and Bill Woods, operators of the Buckeye Plantation, on route CC, south of Bertrand, reported the first red cotton bloom Sunday.

A close second was Joe Engram, Vanduser, who found a red bloom Monday and a white bloom the day before. The blooms were five days earlier than last year.

First Joint Air Action In Viet Nam War

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP -- U. S. paratroopers have gone into action with Vietnamese airborne units in the first joint American-Vietnamese combat operation of the war against the Communist Viet Cong, a U. S. military spokesman announced.

The spokesman said American and Vietnamese casualties in the huge operation were very light so far.

The men of the 173rd Airborne Brigade and the Vietnamese paratroopers were lifted into the attack zone 30 miles north of Saigon Monday by helicopter.

Operations were continuing today.

The densely jungled area is a Viet Cong stronghold.

Meanwhile, U. S. Air Force planes made their deepest strike into North Viet Nam today, hitting a barracks and supply depot 150 miles west north of Hanoi, U. S. military spokesmen announced.

The spokesmen said the Thuan Chau depot was two miles farther north than any previous Air Force target. They said pilots reported destroying 32 buildings and damaging 20 others.

A U. S. Air Force B57 jet bomber was hit by Communist groundfire as it supported a ground operation 15 miles from Saigon and crashed and burned in a rice field two miles north of the Saigon airport, U. S. spokesmen reported.

The two crewmen ejected from the plane after the left wing caught fire, but one man's parachute failed to open, the spokesmen said. His body was recovered. The second airman parachuted into a river and a search was being made for him.

The dead flier was the 430th American killed in combat in Viet Nam.

A second American plane, an RF101, was shot down at low altitude on another raid north of the Hanoi line, and the pilot was presumed killed, spokesmen announced.

Mountain Man Wins

WASHINGTON AP -- A Tennessee mountain man named Wilford Metcalf has taken on the mighty U. S. government -- and won.

Metcalf cut some timber on his mountain farm in Cocke County, but was stopped by a forest ranger who came along and told Metcalf the land belonged to the government. He was told to leave the cut timber lie where it was. Later the government sent him a bill for $1,717.52.

"My whole farm ain't worth that much, much less the little dab of timber that was cut," Metcalf protested in a letter to his congressman, Republican James Quillen.

The mountain man told Quillen that if there was any poverty left over in the country to send it his way because "it's better than us mountain folks has been used to."

Quillen went to bat for Metcalf, firing off several letters to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, whose department runs the Forest Service.

Quillen said Monday that the Agriculture Department reported to him that a new survey showed that the timber land in question did belong to Metcalf. Proceedings to collect the $1,717.52 bill are to be dropped.

But Quillen wants to go further. "If the government said Metcalf owed it $1,717.52 for timber he cut and which he had to leave on the ground and not use, then it seems to me the government now owes Mr. Metcalf $1,717.52," Quillen said. "I'm going to try and get it for him."

Pilot Says 'Miracle' Permitted Safe Landing

SAN FRANCISCO AP -- A Pan American pilot gave thanks today for the "miracle" that let him nurse his passenger-filled 707 jet to a safe landing, despite the loss of 20 feet of wing and an engine which scattered in a populated area but hurt no one.

Aboard were 143 passengers and a crew of 10.

Two minutes after the Honolulu-bound jet took off from San Francisco International Airport Monday, Capt. Charles H. (Chuck) Kimes, 44, of Danville, Calif., felt a heavy vibration in his right outboard engine.

Hundreds of persons in South San Francisco and San Bruno saw a ball of fire blossom on the end of a starboard wing as the No. 4 engine snapped off and plummeted to earth like a flaming meteor.

Then one-third of the wing, trailing blazing debris, broke off and slanted to earth. In the plane, pilot Kimes told his terrified passengers in a calm voice, "We have had some trouble. Keep calm and everything will be okay."

"I kept it going with a lot of help," Kimes said later. "It was a miracle."

At Travis, fighter planes scrambled into the air to escort him and make visual airborne inspections of the damage. A Coast Guard plane was already alongside the crippled airliner. The fire was out by this time.

Shortly after 2:30 p.m. less than half an hour after takeoff, Kimes' plane was circling Travis. Then a new crisis arose. The right landing gear refused to lower hydraulically.

First Officer F. R. Miller of Calistoga, Calif., with help from others of the crew, manually cranked down the gear.

Tries To Retain Cushion

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, fought today to preserve a $20 million operating cushion in the state budget.

He laid over the final catchall appropriation bill Monday night after several amendments were adopted eating into the reserve. He said he would call the bill up again today.

"Why you could get anything adopted in here tonight," the Senate Appropriations chairman complained after several amendments sailed through.

Finally an argument developed over granting $10,000 each to the residence centers operated by state colleges at Malden and West Plains.

Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, said the money would be used at Malden merely to drum up more students at the old air base there. He charged the residence center couldn't get enough students to operate a summer program.

Sen. Nelson B. Tinne, D-Hornersville, whose district includes the Malden center, said the money would be used for administrative purposes and perhaps to induce more students to come there.

As the final omnibus or catchall bill emerged from conference committee it carried about $6,663,000 in general revenue money and an estimated $2 million-plus in federal and fee funds.

The conferees eliminated $10 million in additional state aid to schools under the foundation program because that amount was included in a transfer bill passed earlier by the Senate.

The conferees cut the amount to start the work of the new Council on The Arts from $250,000 as recommended by the governor to $50,000. Patterson said the Council could get more money at the special session next January if it comes up with a concrete program.

Two Big Issues Left

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- With less than 48 hours of working time remaining the Missouri Legislature had two big issues and a lot of smaller ones facing it before it must quit work at midnight Wednesday.

The big ones were the congressional redistricting ordered by the federal courts and the catchall appropriation bill that got snarled in the Senate Monday night.

Congressional redistricting is in conference to find a House-Senate compromise. Conferees said they'd keep trying.

Otherwise the congressional candidates will have to run at large instead of from 10 districts.

Two Cases Before Court

In a short magistrate court session Judge M. E. Montgomery heard two cases.

Charged with a felony is William H. Pugh, who is accused of passing fraudulent checks in Sikeston.

The case was refiled for circuit court July 8.

The 18-year-old youth is from Kennett and is reported to be absent without leave from the United States Army.

Also appearing before Judge Montgomery was Jimmie Robinson of 314 Daniel St., who was charged with being a minor in possession of liquor, inadequate brakes, and an inadequate muffler. He pleaded innocent to the three charges and the case was continued until next week.

INGENUITY WITH AN ENGINE gives summer fun for the children on the 300 block of Virginia Street. The motorized wagon is ridden by Francis Riddle, nine. It was made from a wagon and an old lawnmower engine. Charles Riddle, 15, Greg Mayer, 15, and David Hale, 9, put their heads together and constructed this little vehicle. It cruises at an average speed of 10 miles per hour.

Three Hurt In Accidents

There were three minor injuries in three highway accidents over the past 24 hours, the state highway patrol reported.

In an accident 11 miles south of Poplar Bluff on highway 67, Monday at 2:35 a.m., when Harry J. McCarty, 53, North Little Rock, Ark., apparently dozed, his car went over the center line and sideswiped another car. He was taken to the Ludy Lee Hospital, Poplar Bluff, suffering from back, arm and leg cuts.

A two car meeting on route K, a mile east of Ilmo at 6:05 p.m. Monday, resulted in a 1964 Plymouth, driven by David Hahs, 16, Scott City, running off the highway and striking a utility pole. The driver claimed he was forced off the road as he was approaching a 1956 Ford pickup driven by William Keesee, 27, Ilmo. No one was injured.

At 7:45 a.m. Monday south of Old Appleton on highway 61, two drivers were injured when a 1955 Chevrolet, driven by Jimmy Parker, 17, Lemay, met a 1961 Chevrolet, driven by Harold Rasche, 32, Lafayette, Ind., crashed on the crest of of a hill. Parker was taken to the Perry county hospital, Perryville, with head and right arm cuts, while Rasche was taken to a Cape Girardeau hospital with forehead cuts and a knee injury.

Lions Installation

Installation ceremonies will be held tomorrow night at 5:30 p.m. for new Lions Club officers at the Country Club. It will be Ladies Night.

Two Emergencies

Eye Procedures Of Party Conventions

WASHINGTON AP -- Republican National Chairman Ray C. Bliss says he will recommend today the naming of a committee to study the whole question of presidential convention procedures.

Bliss said he would make the suggestion to the Republican National Committee, meeting here for the second day.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower gave a boost Monday to the idea of reforming the national conventions. At a typical convention, Eisenhower said, "there is confusion, noise, impossible deportment and ignoring of the subjects being discussed on the platform. I think most of the United States is horrified at the spectacle."

Eisenhower gave this formula for producing light and reason at the nominating conventions, which so often are overwhelmed by hoopla and bedlam:

--Give the permanent chairman dictatorial powers.

--Name 6-foot-4 sergeants at arms, police officer types perhaps.

--Limit demonstrations to five minutes; anything more than that is "spurious and phony."

--Cut down the number of delegates and make the alternates sit in the galleries.

Finally, Eisenhower turned toward a press table and, addressing reporters, said "I say all press, all publicity media, should be excluded from the floor."

He added, "They have places. We cooperate with them. We want them, but certainly we don't want them running around having interviews when we are having someone make a serious statement before a delegation."

Eisenhower's formula drew this comment from William E. Miller, the party's vice-presidential candidate last year, who is on the small side: "I don't think it makes so much difference whether the sergeants-at-arms are 6-feet-4 or 5-feet-2, but something has to be done about television moving in and taking over all of the choice space on the floor."

Miller, who as national chairman managed the last Republican convention, added "if we could get together with the Democrats, I think we could lay down sane rules for television operation.

Paul Fleurdelys

Wins State VFW Office

CHARLESTON -- Paul Fleurdelys, past 15th district Veterans of Foreign Wars commander, was chosen junior vice commander of the Missouri V.F.W. at the annual state convention in St. Louis.

He was commander of the Charleston post two years, post quartermaster 10 years, and served on the post publishing committee 12 years. He was chairman of the department budget committee for five years and an active member of the Charleston V. F. W. post 19 years.

He is a sales representative for New York Life Insurance Company.

Death Mutes Nichols' Horn

LAS VEGAS, Nev. AP -- Ernest Loring Nichols, known as "Red" to swing music fans since the big band era and most famed for his Five Pennies combo, is dead at 60.

Nichols, who once briefly put aside his trumpet for a welder's torch, suffered what doctors said was a heart attack Monday in his motel room.

He had called the Mint Casino, where he and his combo were booked, and told the switchboard: "Get me a doctor. I can't breathe." Nichols was dead on arrival at a hospital.

In his years with the big bands, Nichols hired and brought forth some of the all-time popular music makers: Benny Goodman, Joe Venuti, Artie Shaw, Gene Krupa, Jimmy Dorsey, Eddie Lang and Arthur Schutt. His first arranger was Glenn Miller.

He was a native of Ogden, Utah.

Matthews Youth Camp Reporter

MATTHEWS -- Douglas Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore, route one, was elected to reporter at the State Future Farmers of America Camp on the Lake of the Ozarks. Douglas represented the Matthews F. F. A. at Camp Rising Sun.

Other boys who attended the camp from Matthews were Jerry Jones and Garry Harris. These boys spent a week which included, leadership activities, swimming, boating, fishing, softball, water skiing and other sports.

Pets Vaccinated

MOREHOUSE -- The animal population has been made safe when the owners of 80 dogs and cats brought their animals into the fire station to be vaccinated Wednesday. Dr. F. V. Stepp was in charge of the vaccination.

Kadar Still In Control

VIENNA, Austria AP -- Communist party chief Janos Kadar still appears to be top man in Hungary after giving up the premiership in a reshuffle.

Kadar, 53, resigned as premier Monday and handed the job to Gyula Kallai, 55, his deputy since 1960. He retained the top party post, the most powerful position in Communist countries.

At least seven new men were named to the Communist party's top echelon. They appeared to be handpicked by Kadar to insure his control of the party apparatus.

Hungarian officials said the changes did not mean any alteration in Hungary's domestic or foreign policies but were designed to take "some of the burden off Mr. Kadar's shoulders."

Rumors that Kadar would resign as premier have been circulating since the ouster of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in October 1964.

Kadar may have decided to postpone his resignation in order to calm the public. He probably also didn't want to give the impression that the move was dictated by Moscow.

Foreign Aid Action Seen

WASHINGTON AP -- House and Senate conferees have met seven times without agreeing on a foreign aid bill. But Rep. Thomas E. Morgan predicts success by week's end.

Morgan, a Pennsylvania Democrat, heads the House team.

So far the conferees have been concentrating mostly on what Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., calls the "underbrush," leaving the major difference between the separate aid authorizations passed by the House and Senate:

A one-year extension of the program -- the traditional approach and the one taken by the House; a two-year extension and then an end to the program in its present form with a special study group charged with refashioning it -- the course taken by the Senate.

First Firecracker Injury Reported

CAIRO--A Cairo youth, Alan Pitcher, was injured by a thrown firecracker over the weekend.

Mrs. William Pitcher reported that some boys threw the firecracker into her car.

She reported the license number of the car to Cairo police, and they were later picked up at Barlow.

The boys, all from Paducah, were fined for a similar charge at Barlow, and were not returned to Cairo.

One Arrest

Police arrested Jack Thomas of Sikeston during the past 24 hours, on a charge of public intoxication.

Lucien Stoner

Rotary Installs Stoner

At the annual Rotary Club Installation ceremonies last night in the Holiday Inn, Lucien Stoner became president. He succeeds V. Allan Hubbard.

Thatcher Scism is vice-president, secretary, Lennie Whitworth was elected director of club services.

Fred Koch is treasurer.

Hubbard became sergeant at arms.

Ray Leible is vocational service director.

Jim Green is director of community service.

George H. "Bill" Jones is director of international services.

Dr. Frank Sisson, a past district Rotary governor, was in charge of the installation. The program was furnished by Chamber of Commerce Manager Jim Musick and J. W. Hartzog, president of the organization.

The program was in charge of Melvin McMachin.

Hubbard, a Rotarian for 28 years, told of activities that the club has participated in the past years.

This year marked the second time that Hubbard has served as Rotary president.

The first was in Chaffee.

Some of the club's activities during the past year are: financially aided a student for two semesters at Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau; helped to build school in India; helped a 17-year-old mother and two children; sent boy to Boys State; helped in United Fund; shared in the Christmas baskets to needy families; helped in Delta community concert; gave financial support to the Tri-State Crippled Adults Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.; participated in the Rotary Foundation which sends students to study overseas; sent girl to Girls State; aided the art show; aided financially in the banquet for superior students; helped support Babe Ruth and Little Leagues and sponsored a Little League team.

The next Rotary meeting will be held in the Holiday Inn July 12.

Malone May Have Killed More Than Any American

CHU LAI, South Viet Nam (AP) -- A slender young Marine second lieutenant who directs the fire of massive artillery pieces with deadly effect may be responsible for killing more enemy than any other American in the Viet Namese war.

"I've liked to hunt almost since I learned to walk," said Patrick Malone, an Annapolis graduate from Massachusetts, who once tramped hill country around Sikeston, Mo., with his grandfather.

Malone is a forward observer for a United States Marine battalion of 8-inch guns and 155-millimeter howitzers.

His success in Viet Nam reflects the skill of a born hunter: The ability to stalk the prey up close and to anticipate how he'll behave after the first shot.

"I started shooting at pigeons with an air gun when I was 5, and at 10 I could get a squirrel a day," says Malone. "It made me mad because I never seemed to get two."

Malone, who is called both "Pat" and "Shotgun," has shot sharks off Cape Cod and hunted deer with bow and arrow.

Now, almost 23 years old, he is credited with calling down artillery fire that killed at least 172 Viet Cong and wounded at least 77 more in an eight-day period.

Some question the accuracy of Malone's feats but U. S. Marine spokesmen say they have been confirmed by village chiefs and natives forced by the Viet Cong to carry away their dead and wounded.

Beyond, all doubt, Malone has done a phenomenal job. He is also one of the most colorful officers over here. He wears around his throat, jammed in a leather scabbord, a well-honed 8-inch hunting knife with a stag horn handle. He carries a rifle and a .45-caliber automatic.

"I wear the hunting knife around my neck because it's a family heirloom," Malone said. "It comes from my folks who come from Tennessee. I hunted as a kid with my grandfather around Sikeston, Mo., and the Ozark hills. I grew up with weapons of all kinds.

"The knife I carry around my neck isn't just showoff. It impresses the Viet Namese, because they know it has been in my family a long time."

"When we get an intelligence report that Viet Cong are moving in our area, I like to check them myself. I can adjust the fire better. Often I go on patrol

HOUSING ON THE REBOUND

Home building is the one major area of the economy which has failed to share fully in the 1960-61 recession and have been erratic since then. But signs are growing that residential construction is firming up at last and that a turnabout may be in the offing.

According to the F. W. Dodge, Co., residential construction contracts for April totaled $2.1 billion, 7 per cent better than for the like month a year earlier. Pre-1965 estimates were for perhaps $26 billion worth of home building this year, but it now appears that the total could reach $27 billion.

The key home-buying age group is 25-54 years. Additions to this group have been numerically modest in recent years because of the low birth rate during the 1930s -- the Depression Years. But beginning this year, the proportion of family formations in the home-buying age group will be on the rise. Some home builders believe the low point in single-family house starts has been passed.

Mortgage loan terms remain liberal with respect to down payments and maturities. The omnibus housing bill now awaiting final action by Congress would extend no-down-payment loan provisions to all veterans of the armed forces, without regard to whether they have served in actual wartime. Single-family residence loans would cover 100 per cent (no downpayment) of the first $20,000 and 85 per cent of any additional amount up to a total mortgage of $30,000. This one provision alone, if it becomes law, could send residential construction soaring.

The New York stock exchange has done the best job of any organization in the country in promoting the welfare of any single segment in the nation's economy.

Everyone knows that the numerical superiority is essential to develop any consideration from the federal government.

From President Lyndon B. Johnson down to all the members of Congress and the most insignificant bureaucrat ears are attuned to pressure groups. No other voice is heard and no other counsel is welcomed.

The labor unions, the farmers, the postal clerks are among those having powerful lobbies. Occasionally politicians listen to businessmen -- through their trade organizations, the United States Chamber of Commerce or National Association of Manufacturers -- but that has been the exception and not the rule.

The ordinary citizen is lost in the shuffle. He has no representation and the politicians couldn't care less about what happened to him. He does have one privilege. He helps pay for favored treatment given the pressure groups.

This is a burden he assumes cheerfully as his patriotic duty in line with the philosophy of the greatest good for the greatest number -- a firmly rooted democratic primciple.

Into this picture, dominated by majorities in which minorities are dwarfed, the stock exchange has managed to project the American shareowner as a major force.

No longer can congressmen sock the rich with impunity.

Many of the rich have vanished and fewer fortunes are being developed under our government's rigid system of limited capitalism, which penalizes the thrifty and the ambitious.

When Congress is in mood to discriminate against the nation's industries, which are major factors in this country's productive wealth and in creating and sustaining prosperity, it now must be sobering for congressmen to realize the blow will hit millions of the so-called small people right in the pocketbook.

Encouraging the American people to invest in industry is the smartest thing that the New York Stock Exchange ever did. It was the only way in which this country's industries, which provide most of the work opportunities in the United States, ever could have gotten anything approaching a fair deal from the federal government.

Today industry is numerically important for this reason. Yesterday it wasn't.

The latest census shows that there are 20 million shareowners. That is enough to make the politicians sit up and listen.

The number has tripled in 13 years. A majority have incomes of less than $10,000 a year.

Nearly a third of the shareowners live in small communities but these are located mainly in major metropolitan areas. Suburban better describes them than rural. There has been a decline in shareowners living on farms and other rural areas of the country. In 1952 these rural people accounted for one fourth of the shareowners. They now account for only 11 per cent of them.

Missouri is in step with the nation. The number of shareowners has more than doubled in nine years. There were 178,000 in 1956 and there are 501,000 now.

The 20th anniversary celebration of the United Nations was important enough to warrant a personal appearance and speech by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Is the U. N. worth while?

It is a weak and in many respects ineffective organization but to the question whether it would be easier to keep the peace without it the answer must be either negative or conjectural.

So the United States supports the U. N. on a basis of hope. Congress has willingly supported the nation's will.

When the world body faced bankruptcy in 1963 Congress voted by reassuring majorities to buy up to $100 million of U.N. bonds.

The United States Senate this month approved two amendments to the U. N. constitution, 71 to 0. Sen. Jacob Javits (R. N. Y.) expressed the sentiments of the nation when he called the U.N. "the last best hope of mankind for peace."

Delegates meeting in San Francisco have no cause to be optimistic.

The General Assembly is stuck on dead center on the issue of financing the U. N.'s peacekeeping activities. Soviet Russia owes $62 million; France and other nations lesser amounts.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couvre de Murville told the French National Assembly June 10 that the new U. N. constitutional amendments would not be enough to settle the crisis facing the world organization. Although the crisis has arisen largely on financial questions, the causes are much deeper, de Murville said, adding, "the debate has been opened and is far from finished."

France can be expected to be in De Murville's own phrase, "a difficult ally."

President de Gaulle of France has been doing some rethinking. Two years ago he dismissed the U. S. as "this thing."

In a Feb. 4 press conference he commented "on how desirable" was the "health of an institution in which the world placed so many hopes." France's recent attitude on the U.N. and the Dominican situation is evidence of regard for the prestige of the world body.

The U. N. started with a membership of 51 nations. It now has 114. In 20 years only Indonesia has dropped out. The newomers to membership have changed the character of the international body. The United States can no longer expect the automatic support of Latin American members but they still tend to side with us.

The new African nations make up the largest voting bloc. The hope is that they will not press too hard for either East or West or sell their votes to the highest bidder but work together to strengthen a now weak organization that could become strong and effective and can aid them in their own development.

NEWSPAPER READING

The advertiser is far more interested in whom he actually does reach with his message than in how many heads are counted if everyone uses a medium at a particular time.

One of the most respected research firms in the United States released figures which reaffirm the importance of the newspaper in terms of the kind of person newspaper advertising influences.

According to the research report 98 per cent of all families with an annual income of more than $10,000 are regular newspaper readers. In the $5,000 - $10,000 bracket the figure was 94 per cent.

The careful study again shows that newspaper reading rises as income and educational level of a family rises. Those who are most able to buy are most likely to be newspaper readers.

Perhaps more important, women especially, in the higher income groups tend to use the newspaper as a shopping guide. They are women who are willing and able to buy. They have enough money to shop around for stores and goods which appeal to them most.

One retail merchant said:

"My advertising pushes charge accounts and monthly payment plans. New customers which are attracted by newspaper advertising are good credit risks who buy high profit goods.

"Too often other media bring customers who cannot make payments and who are interested only in non-profit items. Such business can be worse than no business."

Although only actual testing in traffic can give a proper evaluation of any driver's competence, the recent "National Driver's Test" on television did reveal some serious deficiencies among the millions of persons who participated in it.

For instance, 36 per cent of those who took the test did not know that a blinking red light at an intersection means a FULL stop, then proceed when clear. Here is a case where ignorance is not conducive to bliss, no matter how much driving skill sits behind the wheel.

The ability to recognize traffic signs before the lettering on them becomes legible is a fundamental mark of a good driver and is especially important in heavy, fast-moving traffic where there is little time to puzzle out meanings.

Yet 29 per cent of the testees did not know that an octagonal-shaped sign is a stop sign; 43 per cent did not know that a diamond-shaped sign means yield right of way.

Test yourself on these sign shapes:

ANSWERS: 1. Interstate Highway. 2. Railroad (RR) warning. 3. Stop. 4. Speed limit and other regulations. 5. Yield right of way. 6. Dangerous conditions ahead (S-curve, etc).

"Daddy, What's That Little 'B' For?"

Commercial Appeal

As the Fourth of July holiday weekend approaches, Colonel Hugh H. Waggoner, Superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, has appealed to motorists to be extra careful during the long holiday period.

He said: "Last year 22 people lost their lives on Missouri streets and highways during the three-day Fourth of July holiday period. The victims were people like you, like your family and neighbors. They were enjoying a trip, a drive in the country, or a family outing. Enjoying it, that is, until the accident.

"Most traffic accidents are the result of human failure," Colonel Waggoner continued. "In most traffic mishaps, a driver has violated some traffic law, sign, signal or warning. Since this is the case, the best approach to reducing traffic accidents is to eliminate the failures."

The Patrol Superintendent pointed out that the most frequent driver violations in traffic accidents are driving either too slow or too fast, failure to yield the right of way, improper signaling, driving under the influence of alcohol and improper passing.

"The best solution to this problem is voluntary compliance of traffic laws by drivers," Waggoner said. "Most drivers do not knowingly violate traffic laws, but the 'well-intentioned but errant' ones outdo the small percentage of willfully reckless or indifferent drivers in keeping traffic accident figures mounting.

"The Fourth of July marks our independence as a nation. For many of us it will mean picnics, parades and patriotism. But, for an increasing number of people, the Fourth will mean grief and tragedy from traffic accidents.

"Not all traffic victims will die," Colonel Waggoner concluded. "Some will be sentenced to a life of pain, to years on crutches or in wheel chairs. To avoid this terrible price stay alert, obey the traffic laws and be courteous when you drive this holiday weekend."

FAMILIARITY BREEDS CONTENT!

Strange how a slip of the tongue can open wide horizons of thought! A friend intended to say, "Familiarity breeds contempt" and it came out "Familiarity breeds content."

Seems to me this deserves to go down with the wise sayings of Shakespeare! How true it is that there is contentment in the familiar . . .old friends, the old rocking chair, the old slippers, the old home. . . .

That which is strange and new and unusual often creates tension. That which is familiar helps us to relax. When we have been to a place before, when we know our way around, when we follow the beaten paths, we can shed our worries and fears and forebodings. True, we need the challenge of the new and the different. But how wonderful it is to get back to the familiar where we can just let go and be ourselves. Familiarity breeds content!

There should be relatively little legislative difficulty in implementing the latest suggestion from the Post Office for improving postal service.

Under the plan, which requires congressional approval before it can begin, firstclass mail would be delivered by the fastest means available -- whether it be air, rail, water, road or shank's mare.

This would mean overnight delivery for 95 per cent of all letters, according to Postmaster General John A. Gronouski. Air mail as a separate postal category would be eliminated, although air delivery between cities would continue to be the fastest method in most cases.

Uncertain as yet is the stamp price of priority mail. One possibility is a compromise between the present 5 cents for surface first-class and 8 cents for air mail.

H. L. Hunt Says

THE PROBLEM OF CRIME

America's cities are in a nationwide battle against rape, robbery, murder, and mayhem. A civic leader in one has begun a program of speaking at least once a week on crime.

A recent edition of a metropolitan newspaper carried these crime stories in just one section: Three bank employees murdered during a bank robbery in Nebraska. Burglarizing of a local residence by a jewel thief. Theft exceeding $1100 from a jewelry store. Sanity trial of a person once given the death penalty for murder during a lurid sex party. The beating of a junior high school student administered by another 15-year-old using a rusty chain. The filing of 7 embezzlement charges against a bookkeeper. And the shooting of six horses in a heartless thrill of destroying. The animals were shot repeatedly with a small rifle to bleed to death.

A major city has a program called "Operation Concern" designed to teach school children how to defend themselves against criminal attack. It also teaches respect for the law, law officers and law enforcement.

There is a feeling that this breakdown in morality, law and order did not just happen, but is the direct result of powerful forces united in a campaign to destroy the morality of a powerful nation.

Florida's Attorney General reveals a copy of the communist "Rules for Revolution" still used today. The first rule: "Corrupt the young."

The first two goals of the Bolshevik Revolutionaries were destruction of all established values and sweeping away everything "traditional". A professor examining these and other communist aims and the inroads already made into our society concludes it all points to "a state of collective vulgarity as civilized culture".

With her religious traditions unimpaired, American is invincible. Without them, America is easy prey to destruction by Communism parading under false colors. HLH

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Heroes often don't look like heroes.

Airman 1C Jon H. Young, 24, of Portland, Ore., is an example. He is a boyish-looking fellow who on his days off likes to walk around the streets with a medical kit and treat Vietnamese civilians.

"If I see a kid with a sore or a bad infection, I try to patch him up on the spot," he said. 'Some of them will simply die if nobody does anything for them."

It takes considerable prodding to get Jon to tell how he won his Silver Star. He got it in an action last March in which he became the first American airman to land intentionally in the enemy's lair in North Viet Nam.

Young is a pararescue team member, one of the flying daredevils whose mission it is to try to bring back alive U.S. fliers who have bailed out at sea or been shot down in enemy territory.

He spent 13 months learning his job. He studied emergency medicine. He can perform a tracheotomy if necessary. He made 22 parachute jumps, became a skilled scuba diver, proved he could survive in the jungle, swim 1,500 yards and run five miles. He melted down from 155 pounds to a lean 135.

Of the 250 missions he has flown so far, the one Jon remembers with most mixed emotions is the one that won him his medal.

Two rescue helicopters were at a forward base.

The other members of his crew were the pilot. Lt. Joe Phelan, 27, of Stamford, Conn., whose wife lives in Charlotte, N.C.; the copilot, Capt. Clyde Lemke, 30, of Utica, Mich., and Sgt. John H. Regan Jr. of Tampa, Fla.

"Both helicopters scrambled when we got word an F100 fighter plane had been hit north of the 17th Parallel, and the pilot had ejected," said Jon.

On the way they were told that an F105 pilot also had bailed out in the same area. That gave them two to go after.

Then they sighted flare in the sea.

"A Vietnamese Skyraider pilot had wet-ditched after being set afire over North Viet Nam," said Young. "We dropped the hoist 35 feet and pulled him up. He had second-degree burns, and I fixed him up."

The two helicopters flew on to the rescue of the two American pilots.

"It was like flying through a popcorn machine," said Young. "The guerrillas must have fired at least 2,000 rounds at us from the foothills.

"They lowered me 20 feet to the ground. I saw the bloody helmet and harness of the F100 pilot. I picked up the helmet and searched for him for 10 minutes. I was on the run all the time.

"Then ground fire hit one of the blades of our plane. I got on the hoist and was pulled up while they kept firing at us."

A few moments later the second helicopter successfully picked up the F105 pilot, and they headed home. Jon's plane was damaged, however, and they had to land it at the nearest airport in safe territory and hitchhike the rest of the way.

All eight members of the two helicopter crews were given Silver Stars. Later, Young learned that the man he had tried so desperately to save had been captured by the Viet Cong moments before he landed and is still in their hands.

"It bothers me still to think how close we came to rescuing him — and missed," said Jon somberly. "We're in a business where seconds mean lives.

"We hate to go that far and come up short. But there are very few people we've missed."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Today, before the Senate Judiciary Committee, former Gov. James P. Coleman of Mississippi, an old friend of President Johnson, comes up for confirmation to be a judge of the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.

This is the circuit which has handled about 75 per cent of the important civil rights cases. Its members have the power to influence the progress of Negro voting rights, school integration, and equality of job opportunities in the South for many years to come.

Gov. Coleman, an able lawyer, brilliant political strategist, and a charming, likeable gentleman, should make a good impression before the Senate committee. Not only will he be able to handle himself well, but he will testify under the benevolent jurisdiction of chairman Jim Eastland, also from Mississippi, who rules the Judiciary Committee with a firm hand and jaunty, cocksure manner.

On the committee, however, are some important new Senators who have tipped the balance away from the old Dixiecrat-Republican coalition which once dominated the confirmation of judges. They are Teddy Kennedy, brother of the late President; Birch Bayh of Indiana; Quentin Burdick of North Dakota; and Joe Tydings of Maryland, all fairly new, all with vigorous ideas of their own.

—WHITE HOUSE EGO-MASSAGING—

In addition there are Phil Hart of Michigan, Tom Dodd of Connecticut, and Ed Long of Missouri, all for civil rights, though easily swayed by the White House when the President wants an old friend confirmed.

But three other Republicans, Jacob Javits, N.Y., Hiram Fong, Hawaii, and Hugh Scott, Pa., are likely to vote no. And if the four young Democrats—Kennedy, Bayh, Burdick and Tydings — team up with them, the confirmation of Coleman will depend on how smoothly the White House massages the ego of Ed Long, Tom Dodd and Phil Hart.

Ego - massaging and whip-cracking probably will decide Coleman's confirmation in the end. But, with some Senators, testimony will count too. And Senate testimony is almost certain to show that Jim Coleman was one of the shrewdest opponents of the Supreme Court ever to be nominated to a judicial post to carry out decrees of the Supreme Court.

As governor of Mississippi in 1956, he helped pass the "Interposition Law" which directed the governor and every executive branch of Mississippi government "to prohibit by any lawful, peaceful and constitutional means the implementation of or the compliance with the integration decisions of the United States Supreme Court.

—"NO MODERATE I"—

Gov. Coleman is no rabble-rouser. He believes in getting things done, not shouting about them. Because he accomplished a great deal but talked little, his political adversaries eventually began calling him a moderate.

This got under the governor's skin so much that he replied, June 30, 1959:

"I am well aware that a little handful of my political adversaries have tried to destroy my place in the affections of my fellow Mississippians by claiming that I am a 'moderate.' Apparently, these people cannot tell a moderate from a successful segregationist. They have made a great sham of this, and every time they can get a chance they try to stir it up.

"I ask you to ignore what they say and look at what the record says. . . I stand on a record of performance and I have delivered the goods. I am not entitled to be called a moderate."

Coleman's statements on the race issue have been consistent and continuous, dating back from shortly after the Supreme Court's school integration decision. On August 7, 1955, the Jackson Clarion-Ledger quoted Jim as saying:

"Based on the studies I have made and the experience I have had fighting integration attempts, I can say without hesitation that if I am elected governor the schools of Mississippi will never be integrated nor will they be closed."

Coleman was elected on that platform, and on Jan. 3, 1965, began carrying it out. In his inaugural speech that day, he came out for "the continued separation of the white and Negro races in accordance with the customs which the experience of ninety years has taught us all."

As late as July 10, 1963, Jim Coleman had not changed. On that date the Jackson Clarion-Ledger reported:

"Former governor J. P. Coleman said his opponents have taken a defeatist attitude in the race issue. Speaking at Monticello, Morgantown and McComb, Coleman said he is the only candidate with hope of stemming widespread integration and the ability and experience to do it.

" 'My opponents say that I cannot stop it,' he declared, 'because they have apparently lost hope and have offered no plan or suggestion for maintaining separation of the races.' "

This is part of the background Senators will be examining in regard to the charming friend of LBJ, nominated to uphold civil rights and Negro voting rights in the South.

—ANOTHER PIPELINE EXPLOSION—

The Federal Power Commission has rushed pipeline experts to investigate another explosion on the Tennessee Gas Transmission Line, this time near Winchester, Ky., about 20 miles from Lexington.

This is the third explosion on the Tennessee Gas Transmission Line in 15 months. Two previous explosions having been near Natchitoches, La. The last explosion, in March, killed 17 people. Fortunately the explosion near Winchester caused no casualties.

The long pipeline extending up from the Texas-Louisiana oil and gas field to the industrial northeast was one of the first laid after the war, and some experts have been worried that it might be suffering from hydronization.

The Federal Power Commission rushed Ellery Johnson and William A. Brubaker, Jr., to Kentucky immediately and made it clear there would be no suppression of the facts.

HOUSING ON THE REBOUND

Home building is the one major area of the economy which has failed to share fully in the 1960-61 recession and have been erratic since then. But signs are growing that residential construction is firming up at last and that a turnabout may be in the offing.

According to the F. W. Dodge, Co., residential construction contracts for April totaled $2.1 billion, 7 per cent better than for the like month a year earlier. Pre-1965 estimates were for perhaps $26 billion worth of home building this year, but it now appears that the total could reach $27 billion.

The key home-buying age group is 25-54 years. Additions to this group have been numerically modest in recent years because of the low birth rate during the 1930s -- the Depression Years. But beginning this year, the proportion of family formations in the home-buying age group will be on the rise. Some home builders believe the low point in single-family house starts has been passed.

Mortgage loan terms remain liberal with respect to down payments and maturities. The omnibus housing bill now awaiting final action by Congress would extend no-down-payment loan provisions to all veterans of the armed forces, without regard to whether they have served in actual wartime. Single-family residence loans would cover 100 per cent (no downpayment) of the first $20,000 and 85 per cent of any additional amount up to a total mortgage of $30,000. This one provision alone, if it becomes law, could send residential construction soaring.

The New York stock exchange has done the best job of any organization in the country in promoting the welfare of any single segment in the nation's economy.

Everyone knows that the numerical superiority is essential to develop any consideration from the federal government.

From President Lyndon B. Johnson down to all the members of Congress and the most insignificant bureaucrat ears are attuned to pressure groups. No other voice is heard and no other counsel is welcomed.

The labor unions, the farmers, the postal clerks are among those having powerful lobbies. Occasionally politicians listen to businessmen -- through their trade organizations, the United States Chamber of Commerce or National Association of Manufacturers -- but that has been the exception and not the rule.

The ordinary citizen is lost in the shuffle. He has no representation and the politicians couldn't care less about what happened to him. He does have one privilege. He helps pay for favored treatment given the pressure groups.

This is a burden he assumes cheerfully as his patriotic duty in line with the philosophy of the greatest good for the greatest number -- a firmly rooted democratic primciple.

Into this picture, dominated by majorities in which minorities are dwarfed, the stock exchange has managed to project the American shareowner as a major force.

No longer can congressmen sock the rich with impunity.

Many of the rich have vanished and fewer fortunes are being developed under our government's rigid system of limited capitalism, which penalizes the thrifty and the ambitious.

When Congress is in mood to discriminate against the nation's industries, which are major factors in this country's productive wealth and in creating and sustaining prosperity, it now must be sobering for congressmen to realize the blow will hit millions of the so-called small people right in the pocketbook.

Encouraging the American people to invest in industry is the smartest thing that the New York Stock Exchange ever did. It was the only way in which this country's industries, which provide most of the work opportunities in the United States, ever could have gotten anything approaching a fair deal from the federal government.

Today industry is numerically important for this reason. Yesterday it wasn't.

The latest census shows that there are 20 million shareowners. That is enough to make the politicians sit up and listen.

The number has tripled in 13 years. A majority have incomes of less than $10,000 a year.

Nearly a third of the shareowners live in small communities but these are located mainly in major metropolitan areas. Suburban better describes them than rural. There has been a decline in shareowners living on farms and other rural areas of the country. In 1952 these rural people accounted for one fourth of the shareowners. They now account for only 11 per cent of them.

Missouri is in step with the nation. The number of shareowners has more than doubled in nine years. There were 178,000 in 1956 and there are 501,000 now.

The 20th anniversary celebration of the United Nations was important enough to warrant a personal appearance and speech by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Is the U. N. worth while?

It is a weak and in many respects ineffective organization but to the question whether it would be easier to keep the peace without it the answer must be either negative or conjectural.

So the United States supports the U. N. on a basis of hope. Congress has willingly supported the nation's will.

When the world body faced bankruptcy in 1963 Congress voted by reassuring majorities to buy up to $100 million of U.N. bonds.

The United States Senate this month approved two amendments to the U. N. constitution, 71 to 0. Sen. Jacob Javits (R. N. Y.) expressed the sentiments of the nation when he called the U.N. "the last best hope of mankind for peace."

Delegates meeting in San Francisco have no cause to be optimistic.

The General Assembly is stuck on dead center on the issue of financing the U. N.'s peacekeeping activities. Soviet Russia owes $62 million; France and other nations lesser amounts.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couvre de Murville told the French National Assembly June 10 that the new U. N. constitutional amendments would not be enough to settle the crisis facing the world organization. Although the crisis has arisen largely on financial questions, the causes are much deeper, de Murville said, adding, "the debate has been opened and is far from finished."

France can be expected to be in De Murville's own phrase, "a difficult ally."

President de Gaulle of France has been doing some rethinking. Two years ago he dismissed the U. S. as "this thing."

In a Feb. 4 press conference he commented "on how desirable" was the "health of an institution in which the world placed so many hopes." France's recent attitude on the U.N. and the Dominican situation is evidence of regard for the prestige of the world body.

The U. N. started with a membership of 51 nations. It now has 114. In 20 years only Indonesia has dropped out. The newomers to membership have changed the character of the international body. The United States can no longer expect the automatic support of Latin American members but they still tend to side with us.

The new African nations make up the largest voting bloc. The hope is that they will not press too hard for either East or West or sell their votes to the highest bidder but work together to strengthen a now weak organization that could become strong and effective and can aid them in their own development.

NEWSPAPER READING

The advertiser is far more interested in whom he actually does reach with his message than in how many heads are counted if everyone uses a medium at a particular time.

One of the most respected research firms in the United States released figures which reaffirm the importance of the newspaper in terms of the kind of person newspaper advertising influences.

According to the research report 98 per cent of all families with an annual income of more than $10,000 are regular newspaper readers. In the $5,000 - $10,000 bracket the figure was 94 per cent.

The careful study again shows that newspaper reading rises as income and educational level of a family rises. Those who are most able to buy are most likely to be newspaper readers.

Perhaps more important, women especially, in the higher income groups tend to use the newspaper as a shopping guide. They are women who are willing and able to buy. They have enough money to shop around for stores and goods which appeal to them most.

One retail merchant said:

"My advertising pushes charge accounts and monthly payment plans. New customers which are attracted by newspaper advertising are good credit risks who buy high profit goods.

"Too often other media bring customers who cannot make payments and who are interested only in non-profit items. Such business can be worse than no business."

Although only actual testing in traffic can give a proper evaluation of any driver's competence, the recent "National Driver's Test" on television did reveal some serious deficiencies among the millions of persons who participated in it.

For instance, 36 per cent of those who took the test did not know that a blinking red light at an intersection means a FULL stop, then proceed when clear. Here is a case where ignorance is not conducive to bliss, no matter how much driving skill sits behind the wheel.

The ability to recognize traffic signs before the lettering on them becomes legible is a fundamental mark of a good driver and is especially important in heavy, fast-moving traffic where there is little time to puzzle out meanings.

Yet 29 per cent of the testees did not know that an octagonal-shaped sign is a stop sign; 43 per cent did not know that a diamond-shaped sign means yield right of way.

Test yourself on these sign shapes:

ANSWERS: 1. Interstate Highway. 2. Railroad (RR) warning. 3. Stop. 4. Speed limit and other regulations. 5. Yield right of way. 6. Dangerous conditions ahead (S-curve, etc).

"Daddy, What's That Little 'B' For?"

Commercial Appeal

As the Fourth of July holiday weekend approaches, Colonel Hugh H. Waggoner, Superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, has appealed to motorists to be extra careful during the long holiday period.

He said: "Last year 22 people lost their lives on Missouri streets and highways during the three-day Fourth of July holiday period. The victims were people like you, like your family and neighbors. They were enjoying a trip, a drive in the country, or a family outing. Enjoying it, that is, until the accident.

"Most traffic accidents are the result of human failure," Colonel Waggoner continued. "In most traffic mishaps, a driver has violated some traffic law, sign, signal or warning. Since this is the case, the best approach to reducing traffic accidents is to eliminate the failures."

The Patrol Superintendent pointed out that the most frequent driver violations in traffic accidents are driving either too slow or too fast, failure to yield the right of way, improper signaling, driving under the influence of alcohol and improper passing.

"The best solution to this problem is voluntary compliance of traffic laws by drivers," Waggoner said. "Most drivers do not knowingly violate traffic laws, but the 'well-intentioned but errant' ones outdo the small percentage of willfully reckless or indifferent drivers in keeping traffic accident figures mounting.

"The Fourth of July marks our independence as a nation. For many of us it will mean picnics, parades and patriotism. But, for an increasing number of people, the Fourth will mean grief and tragedy from traffic accidents.

"Not all traffic victims will die," Colonel Waggoner concluded. "Some will be sentenced to a life of pain, to years on crutches or in wheel chairs. To avoid this terrible price stay alert, obey the traffic laws and be courteous when you drive this holiday weekend."

FAMILIARITY BREEDS CONTENT!

Strange how a slip of the tongue can open wide horizons of thought! A friend intended to say, "Familiarity breeds contempt" and it came out "Familiarity breeds content."

Seems to me this deserves to go down with the wise sayings of Shakespeare! How true it is that there is contentment in the familiar . . .old friends, the old rocking chair, the old slippers, the old home. . . .

That which is strange and new and unusual often creates tension. That which is familiar helps us to relax. When we have been to a place before, when we know our way around, when we follow the beaten paths, we can shed our worries and fears and forebodings. True, we need the challenge of the new and the different. But how wonderful it is to get back to the familiar where we can just let go and be ourselves. Familiarity breeds content!

There should be relatively little legislative difficulty in implementing the latest suggestion from the Post Office for improving postal service.

Under the plan, which requires congressional approval before it can begin, firstclass mail would be delivered by the fastest means available -- whether it be air, rail, water, road or shank's mare.

This would mean overnight delivery for 95 per cent of all letters, according to Postmaster General John A. Gronouski. Air mail as a separate postal category would be eliminated, although air delivery between cities would continue to be the fastest method in most cases.

Uncertain as yet is the stamp price of priority mail. One possibility is a compromise between the present 5 cents for surface first-class and 8 cents for air mail.

H. L. Hunt Says

THE PROBLEM OF CRIME

America's cities are in a nationwide battle against rape, robbery, murder, and mayhem. A civic leader in one has begun a program of speaking at least once a week on crime.

A recent edition of a metropolitan newspaper carried these crime stories in just one section: Three bank employees murdered during a bank robbery in Nebraska. Burglarizing of a local residence by a jewel thief. Theft exceeding $1100 from a jewelry store. Sanity trial of a person once given the death penalty for murder during a lurid sex party. The beating of a junior high school student administered by another 15-year-old using a rusty chain. The filing of 7 embezzlement charges against a bookkeeper. And the shooting of six horses in a heartless thrill of destroying. The animals were shot repeatedly with a small rifle to bleed to death.

A major city has a program called "Operation Concern" designed to teach school children how to defend themselves against criminal attack. It also teaches respect for the law, law officers and law enforcement.

There is a feeling that this breakdown in morality, law and order did not just happen, but is the direct result of powerful forces united in a campaign to destroy the morality of a powerful nation.

Florida's Attorney General reveals a copy of the communist "Rules for Revolution" still used today. The first rule: "Corrupt the young."

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Heroes often don't look like heroes.

Airman 1C Jon H. Young, 24, of Portland, Ore., is an example. He is a boyish-looking fellow who on his days off likes to walk around the streets with a medical kit and treat Vietnamese civilians.

"If I see a kid with a sore or a bad infection, I try to patch him up on the spot," he said. 'Some of them will simply die if nobody does anything for them."

It takes considerable prodding to get Jon to tell how he won his Silver Star. He got it in an action last March in which he became the first American airman to land intentionally in the enemy's lair in North Viet Nam.

Young is a pararescue team member, one of the flying daredevils whose mission it is to try to bring back alive U.S. fliers who have bailed out at sea or been shot down in enemy territory.

He spent 13 months learning his job. He studied emergency medicine. He can perform a tracheotomy if necessary. He made 22 parachute jumps, became a skilled scuba diver, proved he could survive in the jungle, swim 1,500 yards and run five miles. He melted down from 155 pounds to a lean 135.

Of the 250 missions he has flown so far, the one Jon remembers with most mixed emotions is the one that won him his medal.

Two rescue helicopters were at a forward base.

The other members of his crew were the pilot. Lt. Joe Phelan, 27, of Stamford, Conn., whose wife lives in Charlotte, N.C.; the copilot, Capt. Clyde Lemke, 30, of Utica, Mich., and Sgt. John H. Regan Jr. of Tampa, Fla.

"Both helicopters scrambled when we got word an F100 fighter plane had been hit north of the 17th Parallel, and the pilot had ejected," said Jon.

On the way they were told that an F105 pilot also had bailed out in the same area. That gave them two to go after.

Then they sighted flare in the sea.

"A Vietnamese Skyraider pilot had wet-ditched after being set afire over North Viet Nam," said Young. "We dropped the hoist 35 feet and pulled him up. He had second-degree burns, and I fixed him up."

The two helicopters flew on to the rescue of the two American pilots.

"It was like flying through a popcorn machine," said Young. "The guerrillas must have fired at least 2,000 rounds at us from the foothills.

"They lowered me 20 feet to the ground. I saw the bloody helmet and harness of the F100 pilot. I picked up the helmet and searched for him for 10 minutes. I was on the run all the time.

"Then ground fire hit one of the blades of our plane. I got on the hoist and was pulled up while they kept firing at us."

A few moments later the second helicopter successfully picked up the F105 pilot, and they headed home. Jon's plane was damaged, however, and they had to land it at the nearest airport in safe territory and hitchhike the rest of the way.

All eight members of the two helicopter crews were given Silver Stars. Later, Young learned that the man he had tried so desperately to save had been captured by the Viet Cong moments before he landed and is still in their hands.

"It bothers me still to think how close we came to rescuing him — and missed," said Jon somberly. "We're in a business where seconds mean lives.

"We hate to go that far and come up short. But there are very few people we've missed."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Today, before the Senate Judiciary Committee, former Gov. James P. Coleman of Mississippi, an old friend of President Johnson, comes up for confirmation to be a judge of the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.

This is the circuit which has handled about 75 per cent of the important civil rights cases. Its members have the power to influence the progress of Negro voting rights, school integration, and equality of job opportunities in the South for many years to come.

Gov. Coleman, an able lawyer, brilliant political strategist, and a charming, likeable gentleman, should make a good impression before the Senate committee. Not only will he be able to handle himself well, but he will testify under the benevolent jurisdiction of chairman Jim Eastland, also from Mississippi, who rules the Judiciary Committee with a firm hand and jaunty, cocksure manner.

On the committee, however, are some important new Senators who have tipped the balance away from the old Dixiecrat-Republican coalition which once dominated the confirmation of judges. They are Teddy Kennedy, brother of the late President; Birch Bayh of Indiana; Quentin Burdick of North Dakota; and Joe Tydings of Maryland, all fairly new, all with vigorous ideas of their own.

—WHITE HOUSE EGO-MASSAGING—

In addition there are Phil Hart of Michigan, Tom Dodd of Connecticut, and Ed Long of Missouri, all for civil rights, though easily swayed by the White House when the President wants an old friend confirmed.

But three other Republicans, Jacob Javits, N.Y., Hiram Fong, Hawaii, and Hugh Scott, Pa., are likely to vote no. And if the four young Democrats—Kennedy, Bayh, Burdick and Tydings — team up with them, the confirmation of Coleman will depend on how smoothly the White House massages the ego of Ed Long, Tom Dodd and Phil Hart.

Ego - massaging and whip-cracking probably will decide Coleman's confirmation in the end. But, with some Senators, testimony will count too. And Senate testimony is almost certain to show that Jim Coleman was one of the shrewdest opponents of the Supreme Court ever to be nominated to a judicial post to carry out decrees of the Supreme Court.

As governor of Mississippi in 1956, he helped pass the "Interposition Law" which directed the governor and every executive branch of Mississippi government "to prohibit by any lawful, peaceful and constitutional means the implementation of or the compliance with the integration decisions of the United States Supreme Court.

—"NO MODERATE I"—

Gov. Coleman is no rabble-rouser. He believes in getting things done, not shouting about them. Because he accomplished a great deal but talked little, his political adversaries eventually began calling him a moderate.

This got under the governor's skin so much that he replied, June 30, 1959:

"I am well aware that a little handful of my political adversaries have tried to destroy my place in the affections of my fellow Mississippians by claiming that I am a 'moderate.' Apparently, these people cannot tell a moderate from a successful segregationist. They have made a great sham of this, and every time they can get a chance they try to stir it up.

"I ask you to ignore what they say and look at what the record says. . . I stand on a record of performance and I have delivered the goods. I am not entitled to be called a moderate."

Coleman's statements on the race issue have been consistent and continuous, dating back from shortly after the Supreme Court's school integration decision. On August 7, 1955, the Jackson Clarion-Ledger quoted Jim as saying:

"Based on the studies I have made and the experience I have had fighting integration attempts, I can say without hesitation that if I am elected governor the schools of Mississippi will never be integrated nor will they be closed."

Coleman was elected on that platform, and on Jan. 3, 1965, began carrying it out. In his inaugural speech that day, he came out for "the continued separation of the white and Negro races in accordance with the customs which the experience of ninety years has taught us all."

As late as July 10, 1963, Jim Coleman had not changed. On that date the Jackson Clarion-Ledger reported:

"Former governor J. P. Coleman said his opponents have taken a defeatist attitude in the race issue. Speaking at Monticello, Morgantown and McComb, Coleman said he is the only candidate with hope of stemming widespread integration and the ability and experience to do it.

" 'My opponents say that I cannot stop it,' he declared, 'because they have apparently lost hope and have offered no plan or suggestion for maintaining separation of the races.' "

This is part of the background Senators will be examining in regard to the charming friend of LBJ, nominated to uphold civil rights and Negro voting rights in the South.

—ANOTHER PIPELINE EXPLOSION—

The Federal Power Commission has rushed pipeline experts to investigate another explosion on the Tennessee Gas Transmission Line, this time near Winchester, Ky., about 20 miles from Lexington.

This is the third explosion on the Tennessee Gas Transmission Line in 15 months. Two previous explosions having been near Natchitoches, La. The last explosion, in March, killed 17 people. Fortunately the explosion near Winchester caused no casualties.

The long pipeline extending up from the Texas-Louisiana oil and gas field to the industrial northeast was one of the first laid after the war, and some experts have been worried that it might be suffering from hydronization.

The Federal Power Commission rushed Ellery Johnson and William A. Brubaker, Jr., to Kentucky immediately and made it clear there would be no suppression of the facts.

Previously, staff members had minimized a report on the Natchitoches explosion which stated that Tennessee Gas Transmission was putting more gas through the line than the strength of the pipe warranted. Following publication of these facts in the Washington Merry-Go-Round, the commissioners published a summary of the report.

Marshall Stones Observed 25th Wedding Anniversary

CHARLESTON -- Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Stone celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday, June 20, with a reception and open house at their home on North Locust Street, from 2 to 5 p.m. Mrs. Stone is the former Miss Montell Gray.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Stone's two sisters, Mrs. Myoma Smith and Mrs. Buddy Peyton, who attended their wedding in 1940. Also assisting were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Pazdera.

At the guest book was a niece, Miss Sue Peyton of Charleston, who greeted the 60 guests who attended.

In the living room the mantle was centered with a bowl of silver flowers and ornaments. At either end of the mantle were silver candles in silver cases.

In the dining room the table was overlaid with a white damask cloth. At one end was a three tiered wedding cake, made and decorated by their niece, Mrs. Martin Pazdera Jr. at the other end of the table was a crystal punch bowl. Centering the table was a silver base filled with silver roses. On either side were silver candles in silver candleholders. Mrs. John Nunnelee served decorated cake squares and Mrs. Earl Williams served punch and mints in silver compotes.

Girl Guides To Arrive Tomorrow

Two visiting Canadian Girl Guides are creating a pleasant stir of activity in the Girl Scout Cotton Bowl Area Council. Miss Jane Evelyn Faraldeau of Ottowa, Ontario, Canada, and Miss Sylvia Jane Ferguson of Youbou, British Columbia, Canada, arrive in Sikeston on Wednesday, for a series of events before finally accompanying the area's three patrols to National Roundup in the middle of July.

Wednesday afternoon at the First Methodist Church, Mrs. Maurice Stauffer, Neighborhood chairman, is in charge of a tea to which Scout leaders, mothers, and scouts are invited. Junior and Brownie leaders and mothers together with Junior scouts are expected from 2 to 3 p.m. while the Cadette and Senior age group are expected from 3 to 4 p.m.

Preceding an an overnight stay with Mr. and Mrs. Stauffer and family, will be Scout Leader Pat Vaughn's regular troop meeting, also at the Stauffer home, where the Guides will be honored guests. Providing part of the entertainment will be the showing of some slides taken on a recent trip the patrol made to Jefferson City.

Thursday, afternoon luncheon at Mrs. Stauffer's, the Guides will be guests at the regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service at 1:30 p.m. at the First Methodist Church, where they will provide the program. It is hoped that all scouts and leaders will wear their uniforms to the above mentioned events.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kenneth Stricker

Miss Sharon Kay Hadley And Ernest K. Stricker Exchange Wedding Vows June 5

Baskets of white gladioli and palm trees formed the lovely and impressive background for the marriage of Miss Sharon Kay Hadley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis, to Ernest Kenneth Stricker of Elgin, Ill., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stricker of Sikeston.

The Reverend T. Staed read the double ring vows at nine-thirty in the morning June fifth at St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church in Sikeston.

The bride, given in marriage by her step father, was gowned in a lovely floor-length dress of Chantilly lace over taffeta. The close fitted bodice featured a dutchesse neckline and long close fitting sleeves that came to points over the hands. The bouffant skirt was worn over a Southern belle hoop. It fell in a cascade of scalloped ruffles and swept to a chapel train. The entire bodice was highlighted with sequins.

Her veil was a double crown of pearls encircled with a three tiered veil of silk illusion. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from her mother.

Her bridal bouquet was a dozen white carnations tipped in green and tied with white ribbons knotted with lovers' knots atop a white Bible.

Brenda Schaefer, organist, rendered the pre-nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Jo Ann Fox, soloist, as she sang "Prayer For A Perfect Life" by Edward Gray.

Miss Janie Moore, a close friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Debbie Hadley, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid. The attendants were identically attired in dresses of aqua whip cream. They complemented their outfits with pink accessories. They carried bouquets of seven pink carnations.

Flower girl was Kem Wethington, cousin of the bride. She wore a dress of pink polished cotton that featured a scalloped lace skirt. She wore a white bow in her hair, white accessories, and carried a basket of red rose petals.

David Brewer was best man and John Cohn was groomsman. Danny Davis of Sikeston and Ronnie Hessling of Bloomfield were ushers. Larry Stricker was ringbearer. Men in the wedding party wore dark suits and white carnation boutonnieres.

Mrs. Davis chose for her daughter's wedding a pink dress overlaid with white lace. She wore white accessories and a pink carnation corsage. Mrs. Stricker wore a pink printed whip cream with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Security National Bank. The bride's table was covered in green and overlaid with a white lace table cloth and was centered with an arrangment of lilies and gladioli in a crystal arranger.

A three tiered wedding cake, crystal punch bowl and three tiered china compotes holding nuts and mints also appointed the serving table.

Miss Betty Tanner and Miss Peggy Tanner served at the reception. Miss Phyllis Johnson of Portageville was in charge of the guest book. Miss Jackie Davis, cousin of the bride, gave rice cups to the guests.

They are now at home at 496 Laurel Street in Elgin, where Mr. Stricker is employed by Jerry Biggers Body Shop.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. Sonny Pullen and son, Ronnie, of Charleston, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stricker and Mike, Kathy and Becky of Charleston, George Hessling of Lilbourn, Mrs. Eugene Hessling and son, Ronnie, of Bloomfield, and Miss Phyllis Johnson of Portageville.

Mrs. Culp Honored With Bridal Shower

Mrs. Larry L. Culp, the former Miss Ruth Ann Roberts, was honored with a bridal shower June 18 at the home of Miss Nancy Bryant, 715 Hickory Drive.

The gift table was covered with a lace cloth and featured a miniature bride and groom.

The serving table, centered with two candleholders filled with pink petunias and lighted pink candles, was also covered with a lace cloth. The hostess, Nancy Bryant, assisted by Miss Lana Mulcahy, served the guests punch, cookies, nuts and mints from crystal and silver serving dishes.

The guests played "Bride" and all kitchen items were presented to the honoree.

Friends and relatives of the couple are invited to attend.

Marshall Stones Observed 25th Wedding Anniversary

CHARLESTON -- Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Stone celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday, June 20, with a reception and open house at their home on North Locust Street, from 2 to 5 p.m. Mrs. Stone is the former Miss Montell Gray.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Stone's two sisters, Mrs. Myoma Smith and Mrs. Buddy Peyton, who attended their wedding in 1940. Also assisting were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Pazdera.

At the guest book was a niece, Miss Sue Peyton of Charleston, who greeted the 60 guests who attended.

In the living room the mantle was centered with a bowl of silver flowers and ornaments. At either end of the mantle were silver candles in silver cases.

In the dining room the table was overlaid with a white damask cloth. At one end was a three tiered wedding cake, made and decorated by their niece, Mrs. Martin Pazdera Jr. at the other end of the table was a crystal punch bowl. Centering the table was a silver base filled with silver roses. On either side were silver candles in silver candleholders. Mrs. John Nunnelee served decorated cake squares and Mrs. Earl Williams served punch and mints in silver compotes.

Girl Guides To Arrive Tomorrow

Two visiting Canadian Girl Guides are creating a pleasant stir of activity in the Girl Scout Cotton Bowl Area Council. Miss Jane Evelyn Faraldeau of Ottowa, Ontario, Canada, and Miss Sylvia Jane Ferguson of Youbou, British Columbia, Canada, arrive in Sikeston on Wednesday, for a series of events before finally accompanying the area's three patrols to National Roundup in the middle of July.

Wednesday afternoon at the First Methodist Church, Mrs. Maurice Stauffer, Neighborhood chairman, is in charge of a tea to which Scout leaders, mothers, and scouts are invited. Junior and Brownie leaders and mothers together with Junior scouts are expected from 2 to 3 p.m. while the Cadette and Senior age group are expected from 3 to 4 p.m.

Preceding an an overnight stay with Mr. and Mrs. Stauffer and family, will be Scout Leader Pat Vaughn's regular troop meeting, also at the Stauffer home, where the Guides will be honored guests. Providing part of the entertainment will be the showing of some slides taken on a recent trip the patrol made to Jefferson City.

Thursday, afternoon luncheon at Mrs. Stauffer's, the Guides will be guests at the regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service at 1:30 p.m. at the First Methodist Church, where they will provide the program. It is hoped that all scouts and leaders will wear their uniforms to the above mentioned events.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kenneth Stricker

Miss Sharon Kay Hadley And Ernest K. Stricker Exchange Wedding Vows June 5

Baskets of white gladioli and palm trees formed the lovely and impressive background for the marriage of Miss Sharon Kay Hadley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis, to Ernest Kenneth Stricker of Elgin, Ill., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stricker of Sikeston.

The Reverend T. Staed read the double ring vows at nine-thirty in the morning June fifth at St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church in Sikeston.

The bride, given in marriage by her step father, was gowned in a lovely floor-length dress of Chantilly lace over taffeta. The close fitted bodice featured a dutchesse neckline and long close fitting sleeves that came to points over the hands. The bouffant skirt was worn over a Southern belle hoop. It fell in a cascade of scalloped ruffles and swept to a chapel train. The entire bodice was highlighted with sequins.

Her veil was a double crown of pearls encircled with a three tiered veil of silk illusion. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from her mother.

Her bridal bouquet was a dozen white carnations tipped in green and tied with white ribbons knotted with lovers' knots atop a white Bible.

Brenda Schaefer, organist, rendered the pre-nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Jo Ann Fox, soloist, as she sang "Prayer For A Perfect Life" by Edward Gray.

Miss Janie Moore, a close friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Debbie Hadley, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid. The attendants were identically attired in dresses of aqua whip cream. They complemented their outfits with pink accessories. They carried bouquets of seven pink carnations.

Flower girl was Kem Wethington, cousin of the bride. She wore a dress of pink polished cotton that featured a scalloped lace skirt. She wore a white bow in her hair, white accessories, and carried a basket of red rose petals.

David Brewer was best man and John Cohn was groomsman. Danny Davis of Sikeston and Ronnie Hessling of Bloomfield were ushers. Larry Stricker was ringbearer. Men in the wedding party wore dark suits and white carnation boutonnieres.

Mrs. Davis chose for her daughter's wedding a pink dress overlaid with white lace. She wore white accessories and a pink carnation corsage. Mrs. Stricker wore a pink printed whip cream with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Security National Bank. The bride's table was covered in green and overlaid with a white lace table cloth and was centered with an arrangment of lilies and gladioli in a crystal arranger.

A three tiered wedding cake, crystal punch bowl and three tiered china compotes holding nuts and mints also appointed the serving table.

Miss Betty Tanner and Miss Peggy Tanner served at the reception. Miss Phyllis Johnson of Portageville was in charge of the guest book. Miss Jackie Davis, cousin of the bride, gave rice cups to the guests.

They are now at home at 496 Laurel Street in Elgin, where Mr. Stricker is employed by Jerry Biggers Body Shop.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. Sonny Pullen and son, Ronnie, of Charleston, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stricker and Mike, Kathy and Becky of Charleston, George Hessling of Lilbourn, Mrs. Eugene Hessling and son, Ronnie, of Bloomfield, and Miss Phyllis Johnson of Portageville.

Mrs. Don Moore, A Recent Bride, Honored With Shower

Mrs. Don Moore, a recent bride, was feted with a miscellaneous bridal shower Friday night at the home of Mrs. Al Neal. Mrs. Neal and Mrs. Dan Meeks were hostesses.

Mrs. Culp Honored With Bridal Shower

Mrs. Larry L. Culp, the former Miss Ruth Ann Roberts, was honored with a bridal shower June 18 at the home of Miss Nancy Bryant, 715 Hickory Drive.

The gift table was covered with a lace cloth and featured a miniature bride and groom.

The serving table, centered with two candleholders filled with pink petunias and lighted pink candles, was also covered with a lace cloth. The hostess, Nancy Bryant, assisted by Miss Lana Mulcahy, served the guests punch, cookies, nuts and mints from crystal and silver serving dishes.

The guests played "Bride" and all kitchen items were presented to the honoree.

Those attending or sending gifts were the bride's mother, Mrs. Ora Roberts; the groom's mother, Mrs. Pearlie Culp of Hammond, Ind.; Mrs. Ester Choate; the bride's aunts, Mrs. Wanda Tedford, Mrs. Ruth DeJournett of Vandalia, Ill., and Mrs. Reba DeJournett of Dexter; friends of the bride, Margaret Rister, Lana Mulcahy, Lynne Murchison, Mrs. Mary Carney, Jennifer Puckett, Mrs. Opal Puckett, Barbara Bolden, Kathy Meredith, Mrs. Mildred McMackins, Karen Stephenson, Jeanie Williams, Mrs. Willene Bryant, Penny Bryant and Nancy Bryant.

Along with all the lovely and useful gifts, Mrs. Culp received a recipe box containing a favorite recipe of each guest present.

Phils Blast Cards

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Louis was beaten 3-0 Monday night by the Phillies at Philadelphia and the defending World Champions fell to eighth place in the National League.

It was the Cardinal's 23rd loss in 32 games. They are 33-40 for the year.

Chris Short gave up only four St. Louis hits. Johnny Callison supplied the punch for the Phillies when he tripled off the right center field scoreboard in the third. Callison then scored on a wild pitch.

The Phils added two more runs in the eighth on a single, a double and two walks.

Bob Turkey 5-5 par for the Cardinals in the second game of the series at Philadelphia tonight. Either Bo Belinsky 2-4 or Jim Bunning 8-5 will be on the mound for the Phillies.

Kansas City was idle Monday and will enjoy another day off today.

Leslie Insurance And Canvas Products Win

Leslie Insurance clobbered First National 13 to 3, in American league action, last night.

Leslie Insurance had 8 safeties in the contest, in the five inning contest. Colwick was the top Leslie sticksman as he had two hits. Colwick, Shipp and Rofkahr all had doubles for Leslie Insurance. Wake was the winning pitcher giving up only 3 runs and 4 hits, to First National.

First National's modest attack was paced by Lingle, Shaw, Crain, and Montgomery, all having one hit each. Brase, who pitched 4 innings was charged with the loss. He was relieved by Lingle, who pitched for one frame.

No More Go-Go In White Sox

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Writer

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS AP -- The go-go Chicago White Sox are a thing of the past.

Now it's the boom-boom White Sox and they proved it by mauling power-laden Minnesota 17-4 Monday night to knock the Twins out of first place for the first time in 29 days.

The Sox battered four Twins' pitchers for 19 hits and the 17 runs matched the major league high for the season. Tom McCraw crashed a grand slam homer, Danny Cater hit a homer and double, John Romano homered and Ken Berry tripled.

Chicago and Cleveland both vaulted past the Twins into a first-place tie.

"It's been a long time since we exploded like that," Manager Al Lopez said, "but this is a good hitting team. We'll still run when we need to, but you don't need to run when you get 19 hits."

Perhaps an even more amazing statistic is the fact that the White Sox collected 18 of their hits after two were out in the fifth inning. Up to that point, Twins' starter Dave Boswell had one-hit them.

Lopez and Sox General Manager Ed Short have said all season they feel they have the best team in the American League, but admit the Sox won't run away from the rest of the league.

Lake Taneycomo is Missouri's oldest man-made lake, but it has all the modern conveniences.

Like air conditioning, for example. And trout salmon, and a year-around fishing season. Time was not too long ago, when Taneycomo was unique among lakes. It was formed behind powersite hydroelectric dam on the scenic White River. It warmed quickly in the spring and was a fine bass lake. It became a major attraction for fishermen, swimmers and other water-lovers.

Time has passed, however, and the new Taneycomo is also a unique lake. Bull Shoals dam was built downriver, then some years back Table Rock dam went in upstream. Table Rock is what made the difference.

The water that feeds Taneycomo now comes from the bottom of its larger upstream neighbor, and that water is cold. It has turned Taneycomo into a cold-water lake that is ideal as a home for rainbow trout.

And just recently, the Conservation Commission stocked it with kokanee salmon from the Northwest. Fishermen are having a field day catching rainbow trout in southwest Missouri. One angler took an 11-pound rainbow from Taneycomo in mid-June -- the first time he had ever fished for trout.

But, July and August are just around the corner, and fishermen are becoming increasingly aware of the fact that Taneycomo is air-conditioned. Not just the many resorts near the lake, although most of those offer this feature too, but the lake itself.

The cold water pouring in from Table Rock is fine for trout, but it is also appreciated by fishermen.

Fishing Taneycomo, you can keep cool in the hottest summer weather. If you decide to continue fishing into the evening, you had better hav a jacket with you.

And nights on the air-conditioned lake get downright cold. But when the temperature on shore is hovering in the 90's, it doesn't feel half bad.

Incidentally, you don't need to go swimming in the lake to cool off. You can do it just by being on the water in a boat. In fact, swimming in Taneycomo may cool you off too much for your taste, unless of course you're a trout.

Next deer season, the take for most of Missouri will be Bucks only. The Conservation Commission announced, due to the large take in deer last season we have a shortage this year, so that's the reason. The regulation will be enforced in all but six north Missouri counties. Another regulation is no deer may be killed in a body of water.

Dennis Ralston Confident Of Winning Over Emerson

By ROBERT JONES

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) —Dennis Ralston, the United States' hope in the men's singles of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships, is a relaxed and confident young man today on the eve of his semifinal match with Roy Emerson, the defending titleholder.

Ralston, the U.S. No. 1 player who is just one month short of his 23rd birthday, got a quarter - final fright against Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., Monday. He dropped the first two sets, then came back to win in five.

And, he said, "Once you've hooked a match like that, you've really got a chance."

Ralston, seeded fourth, is the only U.S. player to reach the semifinals out of three hopefuls.

Allen Fox of Los Angeles, lost to the up-and-coming South African, Cliff Drysdale, 4-6, 6-2, 7-5, 7-5.

The other semifinalists are the Australians, Emerson and Fred Stolle, the No. 2 seed who has been on the losing end the last two Wimbledon finals. They are at opposite ends of the draw. Stolle beat Rafael Osuna of Mexico 11-13, 6-3, 6-1, 6-2.

Ralston is hopeful he can beat Emerson. "We've played several times and I think he's got the edge on me by about a couple of matches only," said Ralston. "But now I feel much more relaxed and confident."

This is the first time Ralston has gotten this far in the singles at Wimbledon. He got his name on the championships rolls in 1960, when as an 18-year-old he won the men's doubles with Osuna.

The United States has an impressive squad of four girls left in the quarter-finals.

Nancy Richey of Dallas, Tex., seeded fourth, and Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., the fifth seed, both scored easy victories Monday. Nancy made short work of Mrs. Joyce Williams, the young British girl, 6-0, 8-3. Billie Jean defeated Robin Lesh of Australia 6-2, 6-0.

With them in the quarter-finals are 19-year-old Jane Albert of Pebble Beach, Calif., who upset the rankings with an impressive 6-4, 7-5 victory over eighth-seeded Francoise Durr of France, and Justina Bricka, who reached the last eight for the first time at Wimbledon by beating Britain's Virginia Wade 5-7, 6-4, 8-6.

St. Louis was beaten 3-0 Monday night by the Phillies at Philadelphia and the defending World Champions fell to eighth place in the National League.

It was the Cardinal's 23rd loss in 32 games. They are 33-40 for the year.

Chris Short gave up only four St. Louis hits. Johnny Callison supplied the punch for the Phillies when he tripled off the right center field scoreboard in the third. Callison then scored on a wild pitch.

The Phils added two more runs in the eighth on a single, a double and two walks.

Bob Purkey 5-5 par for the Cardinals in the second game of the series at Philadelphia tonight. Either Bo Belinsky 2-4 or Jim Bunning 8-5 will be on the mound for the Phillies.

Kansas City was idle Monday and will enjoy another day off today.

Leslie Insurance And Canvas Products Win

Leslie Insurance clobbered First National 13 to 3, in American league action, last night.

Leslie Insurance had 8 safeties in the contest, in the five inning contest. Colwick was the top Leslie sticksman as he had two hits. Colwick, Shipp and Rofkahr all had doubles for Leslie Insurance. Wake was the winning pitcher giving up only 3 runs and 4 hits, to First National.

First National's modest attack was paced by Lingle, Shaw, Crain, and Montgomery, all having one hit each. Brase, who pitched 4 innings was charged with the loss. He was relieved by Lingle, who pitched for one frame.

Dennis Ralston Confident Of Winning Over Emerson

By ROBERT JONES

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) —Dennis Ralston, the United States' hope in the men's singles of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships, is a relaxed and confident young man today on the eve of his semifinal match with Roy Emerson, the defending titleholder.

Ralston, the U.S. No. 1 player who is just one month short of his 23rd birthday, got a quarter-final fright against Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., Monday. He dropped the first two sets, then came back to win in five.

And, he said, "Once you've hooked a match like that, you've really got a chance."

Ralston, seeded fourth, is the only U.S. player to reach the semifinals out of three hopefuls.

Allen Fox of Los Angeles, lost to the up-and-coming South African, Cliff Drysdale, 4-6, 6-2, 7-5, 7-5.

The other semifinalists are the Australians, Emerson and Fred Stolle, the No. 2 seed who has been on the losing end the last two Wimbledon finals. They are at opposite ends of the draw. Stolle beat Rafael Osuna of Mexico 11-13, 6-3, 6-1, 6-2.

Ralston is hopeful he can beat Emerson. "We've played several times and I think he's got the edge on me by about a couple of matches only," said Ralston. "But now I feel much more relaxed and confident."

This is the first time Ralston has gotten this far in the singles at Wimbledon. He got his name on the championships rolls in 1960, when as an 18-year-old he won the men's doubles with Osuna.

The United States has an impressive squad of four girls left in the quarter-finals.

Nancy Richey of Dallas, Tex., seeded fourth, and Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., the fifth seed, both scored easy victories Monday. Nancy made short work of Mrs. Joyce Williams, the young British girl, 6-0, 8-3. Billie Jean defeated Robin Lesh of Australia 6-2, 6-0.

With them in the quarter-finals are 19-year-old Jane Albert of Pebble Beach, Calif., who upset the rankings with an impressive 6-4, 7-5 victory over eighth-seeded Francoise Durr of France, and Justina Bricka, who reached the last eight for the first time at Wimbledon by beating Britain's Virginia Wade 5-7, 6-4, 8-6.

Asks For Enlisted Men's Complex at Leonard Wood

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Army has asked Congress to provide $16,084,000 for construction at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.--the principal item being $14,264,000 for an enlisted men's barracks complex.

Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes, D-Fla., chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee asked during the hearings on the proposal what part was related directly to the Army's "Special Training and Enlisted Program, STEP." This is for volunteers who cannot meet current training or mental standards for enlistment in the Army.

"We have not made any request in this program in the way of barracks complexes specifically for the STEP program at all," Maj. Gen. W. R. Shuler, director of Army installations, said.

"It is true that, if the STEP program went forward, it would be conducted at Ft. Leonard Wood. It is also true we intend to move basic trainees out of there to Ft. Polk and Ft. Bliss, and the STEP trainees would occupy permanent space and some temporary space.

"There is no change in the long-range mission or proposed use of this station."

The requested construction at Ft. Leonard Wood will be needed whether or not the STEP program is initiated, the general said.

Also requested, for use in the year beginning July 1, was $745,000 for an enlisted men's barracks without mess; $563,000 for rifle squad and technical ranges; $360,000 for photographic laboratory facilities, and $152,000 for a fire and rescue station.

The proposed enlisted men's barracks complex would be a replacement of rundown World War II barracks and would give 3,260 spaces against a 9,972-space deficiency.

Asked what would be done with the facilities now in use, Gen. Shuler said there will be a total of 79 buildings with 229,000 square feet demolished. He said it is necessary to get rid of the buildings "because we are wasting maintenance money on them at this point of time."

Figures submitted by the Army estimate proposed military construction authorizations for Ft. Leonard Wood in the next four years would be $61,674,000.

Missouri's beautiful Ozarks offer every type of vacation fun and recreation, from canoeing and float fishing to ancient gristmills and authentic country stores. This is a key sector of the new four-state Ozark Frontier Trail.

Starting at Rolla, the Magic Circle tour includes St. James, one of America's best-groomed towns with flowers, trees, and pastel-hued buildings. Nearby are the remains of old Maramec Furnace, an extensive ironworks closed in 1876; Potosi, a mining town established in 1813 by Moses Austin, the "Granddaddy of Texas"; the Elephant Rocks at Graniteville, a "parade" of large reddish-brown boulders resembling elephants plodding along, trunk to tail; Pilot Knob, surrounded by some of the Ozarks' highest mountains, where Ulysses S. Grant assumed his first command as general in the first year of the Civil War.

For Western-type adventure there is the ghost town of Gads Hill, scene of two infamous 1874 "firsts"—Missouri's initial train robbery and beginning of the "careers" of Frank and Jesse James as the No. 1 bandits.

Highlights of the return trip are Poplar Bluff, bustling center of the Ozarks; Van Buren, where a pioneer log cabin has been restored to its original appearance; Big Spring State Park, where tons of water gush out of the base of a 200-foot high limestone cliff; the Powder Mill Ferry near Owls Bend, a flatboat that handles two or three cars; and Alley Spring State Park and its bright red 1870 gristmill reflecting in a placid blue pool.

Poplar Bluff Has Chance For Retardation Clinic

POPLAR BLUFF -- The Chamber of Commerce held a special meeting Saturday to discuss the possibilities of obtaining a mental retardation clinic for Poplar Bluff. John McMullin, State Representative for Butler County, directed the discussion, briefing members of the council and delegates from the city's hospitals on the state-wide project.

"I think Poplar Bluff has as good a chance as could be wished to get this clinic," said McMullin. "However, no one knows exactly which town in this area will be chosen."

A statewide network of 11 centers is planned, with the possibility of one clinic being located in the Jefferson City area and one in the vicinity of the University of Missouri. The other nine sites have not yet been considered.

The plan is contained in Senate Bill 52, passed by a large majority in both houses. The bill calls for the "development of regional clinics for the evaluation and diagnosis of mentally retarded individuals."

The clinics will be built by federal aid supplemented by the state's own funds. The cost of the building plus utilities and salaries would be paid by the state, with the chosen community providing the land free of cost. Sites for the clinics will be picked after the law becomes effective on Oct. 19, 1965.

The centers will perform three main functions: diagnoses, rehabilitation and placement. After careful screening, the patient would be placed in the proper school or employment situation suitable for his capabilities with emphasis on developing the patient's capacity to take care of himself. The regional centers are designed to allow trainees to live at home.

Voting Rights And Legal Wrongs

A Commentary on S. 1564, the proposed "Voting Rights Act of 1965," prepared and distributed as a public service by the Virginia Commission on Constitutional Government.

Q. Assume that the necessary determinations are made under Section 3 (a), and that the presumption of discrimination attaches; that the affected State files for a declaratory judgment that neither the State nor any person acting under color of law has engaged in practices designed to deny the right to vote because of race or color; and that the three-man district court, convened in the District of Columbia, rules against the State.

What happens next?

A. Section 4 becomes operative. If the Attorney General receives twenty written complaints from residents of a political subdivision with respect to which determinations have been made under Section 3 (a), alleging that said residents have been denied the right to vote because of race or color, he is authorized to recommend to the Civil Service Commission that Federal "examiners" be appointed to register persons to vote in Federal, State, and local elections.

Or, should it be the Attorney General's judgment that Federal examiners are needed, he may ask for their appointment by the Civil Service Commission.

The Federal examiners thus appointed shall register all comers provided that they are of age and residents of the State. No other requirements, no matter how free from discrimination, can be imposed upon a prospective voter.

Q. What are the constitutional issues involved?

A. The same issues pervade the entire bill. Can Congress, by ordinary legislation, strip a State of its right to determine what qualifications its citizens must meet in order to vote?

In 1960, Georgia's Deputy Assistant Attorney General Charles J. Bloch, testifying before a Senate Committee in regard to legislation which would impose Federal registrars on certain affected States, made the following comment:

"And say I here: The principle of this legislation if established would destroy our governmental system. It would inaugurate a new era in the American system of government and in the American system of government and in the relations of the National and State Governments. It would enable the subordinate Federal officers to supervise and control the actions of elected officials of the States as if the States were dependencies of conquered provinces.

I cannot suppose that the great men who framed the Constitution and the Bill of Rights ever thought the time would come when it would be seriously proposed in the Senate of the United States that the men appointed by the President of the United States might go into a State and conduct its elections after having determined who might vote in those elections, superseding all of its — the State's — elected and selected officials."

The provisions of the Constitution plainly prevent such legislation.

Consider also the following provision of the Act: Section 5 (d) authorizes an examiner to remove the name of any person previously qualified by an examiner to vote if said person has been determined "not to have voted at least once during three consecutive years while listed." Is the Eighty-ninth Congress attempting to establish a precedent to the effect that a right to vote is a protected right only if exercised?

Q. Does the proposed legislation abolish State poll taxes?

A. No, not altogether, but it does place restrictions on the power of a State to administer its poll tax law as it deems appropriate.

(just before they enter your tank!)

Most gasolines are clean when they leave the refinery. But on the way to your car—in transit and in storage—they pick up impurities that could choke off power, reduce engine efficiency...could even stop you cold. Automotive engineers asked for an answer to this problem—American Oil Research developed the American FINAL/FILTER. It halts harmful particles (present in all gasolines), right at the pump nozzle. If you depend on your car for your livelihood (and even if you don't) it pays to "fill 'er up filtered" with American Regular or American Super-Premium.

'65 CHEVROLET

These great performers are the lowest priced models at our One-Stop Shopping Center

Top to bottom: Chevy II 100, Corvair 500, Chevelle 300, Chevrolet Biscayne. All 2-door models.

Hard to tell at a glance that each of these beauties is the lowest priced in its line. The ride doesn't show it. Or the interior. Or the performance. Just the price sticker.

That luxurious '65 Biscayne has the room of many expensive cars. Plus a handsome color-keyed interior with plush vinyls, fine fabrics, full deep-twist carpeting.

Chevelle, America's favorite intermediate-size car, has clean new styling, wide-opening doors, roomy, tastefully trimmed interior, and all the easy-care features of the big Chevrolet.

Chevy II got a whole lot smarter for '65—but kept its common sense! Still family-size, easy to handle, economical, and the lowest priced Chevrolet out.

Both Corvair Sport Coupe and Sport Sedan have the international flavor of a rear engine hardtop, promise fun for the months ahead.

Chevrolet, Chevelle and Chevy II are available with the economical Turbo-Thrift Six engine. It's economical, warms up quickly, idles silently. It's light, efficient, quiet, and spirited.

Corvair's rear-mounted Turbo-Air Six delivers the best balance and traction for this size car. It's air-cooled—no water or antifreeze.

So be practical. Check the great offer on your old car, the low payments on your new one. Only you will know how practical you've been. Because it sure won't show!

Voting Rights And Legal Wrongs

A Commentary on S. 1564, the proposed "Voting Rights Act of 1965," prepared and distributed as a public service by the Virginia Commission on Constitutional Government.

Q. Assume that the necessary determinations are made under Section 3 (a), and that the presumption of discrimination attaches; that the affected State files for a declaratory judgment that neither the State nor any person acting under color of law has engaged in practices designed to deny the right to vote because of race or color; and that the three-man district court, convened in the District of Columbia, rules against the State.

What happens next?

A. Section 4 becomes operative. If the Attorney General receives twenty written complaints from residents of a political subdivision with respect to which determinations have been made under Section 3 (a), alleging that said residents have been denied the right to vote because of race or color, he is authorized to recommend to the Civil Service Commission that Federal "examiners" be appointed to register persons to vote in Federal, State, and local elections.

Or, should it be the Attorney General's judgment that Federal examiners are needed, he may ask for their appointment by the Civil Service Commission.

The Federal examiners thus appointed shall register all comers provided that they are of age and residents of the State. No other requirements, no matter how free from discrimination, can be imposed upon a prospective voter.

Q. What are the constitutional issues involved?

A. The same issues pervade the entire bill. Can Congress, by ordinary legislation, strip a State of its right to determine what qualifications its citizens must meet in order to vote?

In 1960, Georgia's Deputy Assistant Attorney General Charles J. Bloch, testifying before a Senate Committee in regard to legislation which would impose Federal registrars on certain affected States, made the following comment:

"And say I here: The principle of this legislation if established would destroy our governmental system. It would inaugurate a new era in the American system of government and in the American system of government and in the relations of the National and State Governments. It would enable the subordinate Federal officers to supervise and control the actions of elected officials of the States as if the States were dependencies of conquered provinces.

I cannot suppose that the great men who framed the Constitution and the Bill of Rights ever thought the time would come when it would be seriously proposed in the Senate of the United States that the men appointed by the President of the United States might go into a State and conduct its elections after having determined who might vote in those elections, superseding all of its — the State's — elected and selected officials."

The provisions of the Constitution plainly prevent such legislation.

Consider also the following provision of the Act: Section 5 (d) authorizes an examiner to remove the name of any person previously qualified by an examiner to vote if said person has been determined "not to have voted at least once during three consecutive years while listed." Is the Eighty-ninth Congress attempting to establish a precedent to the effect that a right to vote is a protected right only if exercised?

Q. Does the proposed legislation abolish State poll taxes?

A. No, not altogether, but it does place restrictions on the power of a State to administer its poll tax law as it deems appropriate.

(just before they enter your tank!)

Most gasolines are clean when they leave the refinery. But on the way to your car—in transit and in storage—they pick up impurities that could choke off power, reduce engine efficiency...could even stop you cold. Automotive engineers asked for an answer to this problem—American Oil Research developed the American FINAL/FILTER. It halts harmful particles (present in all gasolines), right at the pump nozzle. If you depend on your car for your livelihood (and even if you don't) it pays to "fill 'er up filtered" with American Regular or American Super-Premium.

'65 CHEVROLET

These great performers are the lowest priced models at our One-Stop Shopping Center

Top to bottom: Chevy II 100, Corvair 500, Chevelle 300, Chevrolet Biscayne. All 2-door models.

Hard to tell at a glance that each of these beauties is the lowest priced in its line. The ride doesn't show it. Or the interior. Or the performance. Just the price sticker.

That luxurious '65 Biscayne has the room of many expensive cars. Plus a handsome color-keyed interior with plush vinyls, fine fabrics, full deep-twist carpeting.

Chevelle, America's favorite intermediate-size car, has clean new styling, wide-opening doors, roomy, tastefully trimmed interior, and all the easy-care features of the big Chevrolet.

Chevy II got a whole lot smarter for '65—but kept its common sense! Still family-size, easy to handle, economical, and the lowest priced Chevrolet out.

Both Corvair Sport Coupe and Sport Sedan have the international flavor of a rear engine hardtop, promise fun for the months ahead.

Chevrolet, Chevelle and Chevy II are available with the economical Turbo-Thrift Six engine. It's economical, warms up quickly, idles silently. It's light, efficient, quiet, and spirited.

Corvair's rear-mounted Turbo-Air Six delivers the best balance and traction for this size car. It's air-cooled—no water or antifreeze.

So be practical. Check the great offer on your old car, the low payments on your new one. Only you will know how practical you've been. Because it sure won't show!

AUGUST LIKELY DATE FOR AMENDMENT VOTE

There are a couple of ways available in Missouri for a governor to succeed himself, with the most logical a change in the State Constitution via the amendment route. The other is through a Constitutional Convention to re-write and revise portions of the constitution.

Governor Hearnes actively supported a proposal some time ago calling for a Constitutional Convention, with gubernatorial succession in mind. Failing this, the governor is forced to go directly to the people.

By statute, the question of whether to call a constitutional convention must be brought up at least every 10 years. However, the legislature, should it see fit, can put machinery in motion (amendment) to have one whenever a majority of the people concur.

Well, the people of Missouri at last will be asked shortly to decide on, among other things, whether the state's Chief Executive will be allowed a second consecutive term. The governor now indicates he will seek a statewide referendum by August, probably the middle or latter part.

Earlier thinking centered around Governor Hearnes placing the gubernatorial succession amendment by itself on the ballot, but now this is changed. Hearnes has said he will ask the people at the same time to vote on reapportionment.

There has been some talk the governor also would have the people vote with these on the lowering of the required margin for general obligation bond issues, from two-thirds to 60 per cent.

Tain't so says Hearnes.

If a third proposed amendment is to be voted on, Hearnes said, it would be one to allow cities to dispose of property financed through issuance industrial revenue bonds. In most instances, an industry has paid the bonds off anyway and this would allow the property to pass from city control to private enterprise.

Regarding reapportionment, the machinery for putting it into motion is left for the General Assembly to work out. What the election will cover is the increase in membership only (to 168).

While Charles Brown of Springfield already has been selected to head the Democratic side in securing passage of the gubernatorial amendment, no Republican counterpart has yet been named.

However, rumors are abounding that Hearnes' opponent in last November's general election, Ethan Shepley of St. Louis, is being sought to lend a non-partisan cast to the effort.

As for any organized opposition, the self-confident young governor brushes this aside, saying he feels none will be forthcoming. He has at his disposal active support throughout the state, a holdover from the election; as well as the large patronage of the Department of Agriculture and other state agencies.

With all these taken into consideration, it would seem that Hearnes, at this time, almost has the deck stacked in his favor and can be expected to lend his personal prestige to the all-out effort being generated toward passage of the proposals.

THE MENACE DRIVER IS WATCHED CLOSELY

So you think you're a good driver. Well, your neighbor may disagree and this very disagreement could lead to the revocation of your right to drive over Missouri's vast roadways.

More and more attention is now being given to a little known provision of the driver's license law that allows the above to occur.

For instance, if you constantly run red lights, back out of driveways without looking, constantly weave in and out of traffic and, in general, cause concern to other motorists, you may some day be recipient of a registered letter from the state.

The gist of the letter, in terse terms, informs you that you must submit to re-examination in order to drive.

While you probably will never know exactly who turned you in, you might possibly have a good idea. It may be a local officer or area Highway Patrolman, your family doctor, or even concerned members of your family.

Here's how the plan works in Missouri:

A driver constantly ignores local traffic ordinances, running red lights, failing to stop at stop signs, weaving, etc. Someone observes this over a period of time and reports it to the Director of Revenue who is empowered to seek a more thorough check.

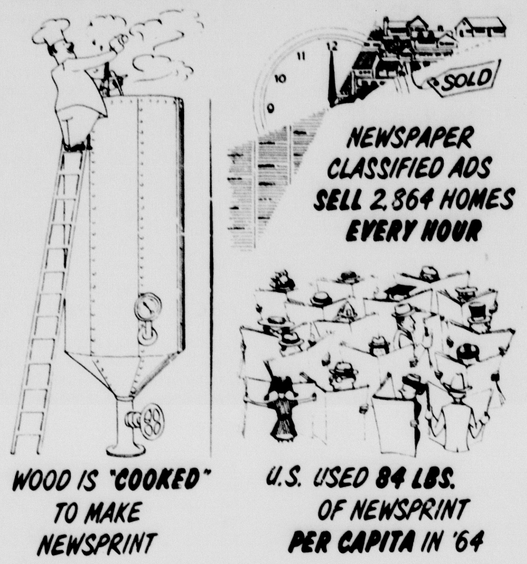

After the investigation, if the complaint is held to be valid, you will be required to under go a complete driver's examination. Should the citation be ignored, your driver's license can be revoked.

One official noted that the advantages of this is that it sets some careless drivers to thinking about their driving habits. Last year, for instance, 700 Missourians received such citations. It's not known how many passed the re-examination.

STATE VACATIONS

Governor Warren E. Hearnes has cracked the vacation whip, issuing an executive order that employees with fewer than five years' state service can have only two-weeks off instead of the customary three.

Inaugurate Phone Calls By Satellite

WASHINGTON AP -- President Johnson formally inaugurated commercial telephone service by satellite Monday with a transatlantic call relayed by the Early Bird satellite.

Immediately after the President's call, stressing the influence of global communications on world peace, other calls were made in French, German, and Italian by officials of those countries.

Great Britain and Canada also took part.

The conversations were clearly distinguishable from the usual transatlantic calls by submarine cable.

The Early Bird satellite, hanging 22,300 miles above the Atlantic between Brazil and Africa, is the product of a joint venture of 44 countries, with more nations expected to join. Membership is obtained through the Communications Satellite Corporaton.

Early Bird is to accommodate telephone calls by newsmen, and transmission of news copy and photographs between Washington and European points.

Since its launching April 6, Early Bird has been used for experimental transmissions of telephone and other communications.

The Federal Communications Commission has temporarily approved the leasing of Early Bird circuits for $4,200 a month for telephone and telegraph traffic, and up to $5,245 an hour for television transmission during peak usage hours.

A later determination will be made as to whether the rates prove fair.

Education Costs High

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The high cost of higher education becomes apparent in the appropriation bills passed by both houses and now awaiting approval of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

For the fiscal year beginning Thursday, these amounts have been approved by both houses:

The University of Missouri— A total of $40,565,151 for operation of all four campuses, plus $7,895,000 for construction at the Columbia campus, $3,100,000 at Rolla, $3,950,000 at Kansas City and $2,900,000 at St. Louis.

Southeast at Cape Girardeau — $3,649,437 for operations and $2,293,210 for construction.

THE GIBSON FIRE

A fire broke out at the Gibson Plant,
At one fifteen one morn--
The people gathered from all around
Quite sleepy and forlorn;

The blaze mounted high to the sky above,
And the smoke grew thicker still--
As a stream of men from the factory poured,
With cries some harsh and shrill.

Full twenty men--with brawny arms
And strength of a schooners crew;
Pushed a schorching car from the danger zone,
And cursed as the whistles blew.

Our preacher ran with a beating heart
As he had never ran before;
He shouted loud as he passed the throng,
And dashed thru the open door.

"My car, my car," were the words we heard,
And we knew how the preacher felt;
For his overland stood by the raging blaze,
With strong tendency to melt.
The starter of course, just wouldn't work,
As they seldom do you know;
So the preacher dashed around in front
In the heat of the fires glow.

But alas, alas, may we say a word,
But this strong and stalwort yank;
Was flustered and didn't know
That he'd forgot to bring the crank,

Mr. Gibson then with his clothes awry,
Appeared midst a glow of lights;
And the quaking hearts of the milling crowd,
Knew he'd set all things to right.

"Well, well," said Charles as he gazed about
And his keen eyes caught the sight;
"It appears to me, my hearty lads
There is doings here tonight."

"You had better send some men aloft
And let it quickly be,
In case a spark should fly and fall--
On the roof of warehouse C-"

The order was heard by a fearless man
Clarence Bissell was his name;
He is well known over Greenville wide,
As one of strength and fame.

"Hooray, hooray," he shouted loud
"Hooray and glory be."
"Break loose my lads," and he started off;
On a run for warehouse C-

A full half hour he paced the roof
In search of a floating spark;
And his Hi-o-yipe-yipe-yipe-yipe-ya
Could be heard thru out the dark.

When once again in the paper room,
With lunch box in his hand;
He heard some news, some startling news,
That made his thin hair stand.

"Fifty barrels," he criedaloud
His language turned unsweet;
"Fifty barrels of napha boys
Right beneath my very feet."

If one spark had dropped then,
Why--had dropped on even one;
Now Bissell's pieces would have been to small
To wad the tinist gun.

"I will lend to all a helping hand,
Helpful and kind--thats me;
But never again will Bissell go--
To the roof of warehouse C-."

State To Spend More Than $10 Million On Criminals

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Missouri will spend more than $10 million in the fiscal year starting Thursday just to keep law violators in institutions and try to rehabilitate them.

Bills providing financing of the correctional institutions, as approved by both houses of the Missouri General Assembly, and if approved by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, will provide these amounts:

Main Penitentiary at Jefferson City -- $3,672,139 for general operations, $1,882,704 for industries and farms and $230,306 for inmate education.

Medium Security Prison at Moberly -- $853,518 for operations.

Women's Prison at Tipton -- $184,049.

Algoa's Intermediate Reformatory near Jefferson City -- $733,496.

State Training School for Boys at Boonville -- $1,232,440 for operations, plus $170,213 for construction and repairs.

State Training School for Girls at Chillicothe--$637,800 for operations, plus $209,484 for repairs and construction.

Probation and Parole Board-$775,155.

There are no construction allotments for the main prison system.

Hearnes has said he wants his new top correctional officers, Corrections Director Fred T. Wilkinson and Prison Warden Harold R. Swenson, to become acquainted with the situation before any planning is done for structural changes.

Moreau And Bardot Talented Director Says

HOLLYWOOD (AP) -- The interview with French director Louis Malle got off to an unsettling start.

Just as we started to chat, the doorbell of his Beverly Wilshire hotel suite rang. A stately beauty materialized from the bedroom and received some laundry. Her attire, in the tradition of French movies, was a towel.

"That was my wife," said Malle offhandedly. He is accustomed to such things, having directed not only Brigitte Bardot "A Very Private Affair" and Jeanne Moreau "The Lovers" separately, but Brigitte Bardot and Jeanne Mareau together in "Viva Maria."

He had just returned from toiling in Mexico with the two French film stars and his aplomb seemed unshaken by the experience. He is an impeccably groomed man, young 32 for a director by American standards, and handsome enough to fill in as leading man.

"It was an extremely difficult picture," he conceded. "There were all kinds of complicated things to do -- Western scenes, special effects, battle scenes--all this with two girls doing what John Wayne and Gary Cooper might have done in an American film."

Bardot and Moreau hadn't met before "Viva Maria," and the prospects of a raging feud was savored by Journalists everywhere. It didn't happen, said Malle.

Malle's analysis of the two stars:

Moreau -- "A great actress, but more intriguing than that. She has an emotional, even sexual impact that goes beyond being an actress."

Bardot -- "She is considered a sexpot, but is actually a first-rate actress. She would be considered so if she were less flashy, sexy and beautiful. If she keeps going on her present trend, she will be as good as Marilyn Monroe in some of her later comedies, Carole Lombard or Judy Holliday."

WINNERS of the Scott-New Madrid-Mississippi Electric Cooperative essay contese, Linda Sayer and Joseph Diebold, stand with U. S. Sen. Edward Long, Democrat from Missouri. They are in the ballroom of a Washington, D. C., hotel. The winners are from Kelso. The winners went to Washington for nine days this month.

Congressman Jones Wants Guaranteed Student Loans

WASHINGTON -- Rep. Paul C. Jones of Kennett told the House that loans to regular college students as well as to vocational school students should be federal guaranteed loans, and not direct loans from the federal government.

He endorsed the plan before the House to provide guaranteed loans to students who wish to attend a vocational or technical school instead of a regular collegiate institution. He said that under the plan the student could contact a bank, or other money lending institution and make the loan and then get the government to guarantee it. If the student defaults on the repayment of the loans, the government would pay it and probably try to collect it from the student.

Rep. Jones said he had urged a similar program instead of the direct loan program, for students going to a regular college. He noted that there has been a high rate of defaulting on the repayment of the direct loans by the government. He said many irresponsible youths seemed to think "the world owed them a living," and that the loan was a gift, or grant. But he said the students needed to learn to treat it seriously.

He pointed to the fact that defaults run from five per cent, as in the case of the University of Maryland, to about one-third at Howard University.

He said the best way for the student to realize the seriousness of the loan would be to get it from a bank or other money lending institution. He said he had urged the House committee on education to adopt the plans for loans to regular college students to take the place of the direct loans.

Rep. Jones said Dr. Mark Scully of Southeast Missouri State College favors this type of loan and has written the committee stating that he favors it.

Because I had had a particularly trying day, I complained bitterly to my husband about the thankless job of being a housewife. I raved on for a while, then decided to answer some mail and pounded out my irritability on the typewriter. When I finished a letter to his parents, I handed it over to him to red.

"Boy, this is a relief!" he exclaimed. "From the way you were banging on the typewriter, I thought you had written your resignation." — Mrs. Ralph M. Moore

Area Counties Can Reduce Tax

JEFFERSON CITY -- In 37 Missouri counties, $2,070,199 in unnecessarily levied property taxes will be imposed this year unless their county courts in the next few weeks lower the tentative tax rate included in county budgets adopted last January and February, Missouri Public Expenditure Survey said today.

County revenue fund rates shown in the budgets of these counties can be reduced from 5 cents to 38 cents per $100 valuation, an average reduction of 15 cents, the governmental research organization said.

Each of these 37 countries is maintaining a surplus in its general fund in excess of the amount it needs to operate on a cash basis, the Survey explained.

The 37 counties which can cut taxes this year and the cuts possible include: Pemiscot, 13 cents; Perry, 10 cents; and Texas, 28 cents.

AUGUST LIKELY DATE FOR AMENDMENT VOTE

There are a couple of ways available in Missouri for a governor to succeed himself, with the most logical a change in the State Constitution via the amendment route. The other is through a Constitutional Convention to re-write and revise portions of the constitution.

Governor Hearnes actively supported a proposal some time ago calling for a Constitutional Convention, with gubernatorial succession in mind. Failing this, the governor is forced to go directly to the people.

By statute, the question of whether to call a constitutional convention must be brought up at least every 10 years. However, the legislature, should it see fit, can put machinery in motion (amendment) to have one whenever a majority of the people concur.

Well, the people of Missouri at last will be asked shortly to decide on, among other things, whether the state's Chief Executive will be allowed a second consecutive term. The governor now indicates he will seek a statewide referendum by August, probably the middle or latter part.

Earlier thinking centered around Governor Hearnes placing the gubernatorial succession amendment by itself on the ballot, but now this is changed. Hearnes has said he will ask the people at the same time to vote on reapportionment.

There has been some talk the governor also would have the people vote with these on the lowering of the required margin for general obligation bond issues, from two-thirds to 60 per cent.

Tain't so says Hearnes.

If a third proposed amendment is to be voted on, Hearnes said, it would be one to allow cities to dispose of property financed through issuance industrial revenue bonds. In most instances, an industry has paid the bonds off anyway and this would allow the property to pass from city-control to private enterprise.

Regarding reapportionment, the machinery for putting it into motion is left for the General Assembly to work out. What the election will cover is the increase in membership only (to 168).

While Charles Brown of Springfield already has been selected to head the Democratic side in securing passage of the gubernatorial amendment, no Republican counterpart has yet been named.

However, rumors are abounding that Hearnes' opponent in last November's general election, Ethan Shepley of St. Louis, is being sought to lend a nonpartisan cast to the effort.

As for any organized opposition, the self-confident young governor brushes this aside, saying he feels none will be forthcoming. He has at his disposal active support throughout the state, a holdover from the election; as well as the large patronage of the Department of Agriculture and other state agencies.

With all these taken into consideration, it would seem that Hearnes, at this time, almost has the deck stacked in his favor and can be expected to lend his personal prestige to the all-out effort being generated toward passage of the proposals.

THE MENACE DRIVER IS WATCHED CLOSELY

So you think you're a good driver. Well, your neighbor may disagree and this very disagreement could lead to the revocation of your right to drive over Missouri's vast roadways.

More and more attention is now being given to a little known provision of the driver's license law that allows the above to occur.

For instance, if you constantly run red lights, back out of driveways without looking, constantly weave in and out of traffic and, in general, cause concern to other motorists, you may some day be recipient of a registered letter from the state.

The gist of the letter, in terse terms, informs you that you must submit to re-examination in order to drive.

While you probably will never know exactly who turned you in, you might possibly have a good idea. It may be a local officer or area Highway Patrolman, your family doctor, or even concerned members of your family.

Here's how the plan works in Missouri:

A driver constantly ignores local traffic ordinances, running red lights, failing to stop at stop signs, weaving, etc. Someone observes this over a period of time and reports it to the Director of Revenue who is empowered to seek a more thorough check.

After the investigation, if the complaint is held to be valid, you will be required to under go a complete driver's examination. Should the citation be ignored, your driver's license can be revoked.

One official noted that the advantages of this is that it sets some careless drivers to thinking about their driving habits. Last year, for instance, 700 Missourians received such citations. It's not known how many passed the re-examination.

STATE VACATIONS

Governor Warren E. Hearnes has cracked the vacation whip, issuing an executive order that employees with fewer than five years' state service can have only two-weeks off instead of the customary three.

Inaugurate Phone Calls By Satellite

WASHINGTON AP -- President Johnson formally inaugurated commercial telephone service by satellite Monday with a transatlantic call relayed by the Early Bird satellite.

Immediately after the President's call, stressing the influence of global communications on world peace, other calls were made in French, German, and Italian by officials of those countries.

Great Britain and Canada also took part.

The conversations were clearly distinguishable from the usual transatlantic calls by submarine cable.

The Early Bird satellite, hanging 22,300 miles above the Atlantic between Brazil and Africa, is the product of a joint venture of 44 countries, with more nations expected to join. Membership is obtained through the Communications Satellite Corporaton.

Early Bird is to accommodate telephone calls by newsmen, and transmission of news copy and photographs between Washington and European points.

Since its launching April 6, Early Bird has been used for experimental transmissions of telephone and other communications.

The Federal Communications Commission has temporarily approved the leasing of Early Bird circuits for $4,200 a month for telephone and telegraph traffic, and up to $5,245 an hour for television transmission during peak usage hours.

A later determination will be made as to whether the rates prove fair.

Education Costs High

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The high cost of higher education becomes apparent in the appropriation bills passed by both houses and now awaiting approval of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

For the fiscal year beginning Thursday, these amounts have been approved by both houses:

The University of Missouri— A total of $40,565,151 for operation of all four campuses, plus $7,895,000 for construction at the Columbia campus, $3,-100,000 at Rolla, $3,950,000 at Kansas City and $2,900,000 at St. Louis.

Southeast at Cape Girardeau — $3,649,437 for operations and $2,293,210 for construction.

THE GIBSON FIRE

A fire broke out at the Gibson Plant,
At one fifteen one morn--
The people gathered from all around
Quite sleepy and forlorn;

The blaze mounted high to the sky above,
And the smoke grew thicker still--
As a stream of men from the factory poured,
With cries some harsh and shrill.

Full twenty men--with brawny arms
And strength of a schooners crew;
Pushed a schorching car from the danger zone,
And cursed as the whistles blew.

Our preacher ran with a beating heart
As he had never ran before;
He shouted loud as he passed the throng,
And dashed thru the open door.

"My car, my car," were the words we heard,
And we knew how the preacher felt;
For his overland stood by the raging blaze,
With strong tendency to melt.
The starter of course, just wouldn't work,
As they seldom do you know;
So the preacher dashed around in front
In the heat of the fires glow.

But alas, alas, may we say a word,
But this strong and stalwort
yank;
Was flustered and didn't know
That he'd forgot to bring the crank,

Mr. Gibson then with his clothes
Appeared midst a glow of lights;
And the quaking hearts of the milling crowd,
Knew he'd set all things to right.

"Well, well," said Charles as he gazed about
And his keen eyes caught the sight;
"It appears to me, my hearty lads
There is doings here tonight."

"You had better send some men aloft
And let it quickly be,
In case a spark should fly and fall--
On the roof of warehouse C-"

The order was heard by a fearless man
Clarence Bissell was his name;
He is well known over Greenville wide,
As one of strength and fame.

"Hooray, hooray," he shouted loud
"Hooray and glory be."
"Break loose my lads," and he started off;
On a run for warehouse C-

A full half hour he paced the roof
In search of a floating spark;
And his Hi-o-yipe-yipe-yipe-yipe-ya
Could be heard thru out the dark.

When once again in the paper room,
With lunch box in his hand;
He heard some news, some startling news,
That made his thin hair stand.

"Fifty barrels," he cried aloud
His language turned unsweet;
"Fifty barrels of napha boys
Right beneath my very feet."

If one spark had dropped then,
Why--had dropped on even one;
Now Bissell's pieces would have been to small
To wad the tinist gun.

"I will lend to all a helping hand,
Helpful and kind--thats me;
But never again will Bissell go--
To the roof of warehouse C-."

State To Spend More Than $10 Million On Criminals

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Missouri will spend more than $10 million in the fiscal year starting Thursday just to keep law violators in institutions and try to rehabilitate them.

Bills providing financing of the correctional institutions, as approved by both houses of the Missouri General Assembly, and if approved by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, will provide these amounts:

Main Penitentiary at Jefferson City -- $3,672,139 for general operations, $1,882,704 for industries and farms and $230,-306 for inmate education.

Medium Security Prison at Moberly -- $853,518 for operations.

Women's Prison at Tipton -- $184,049.

Algoa's Intermediate Reformatory near Jefferson City -- $733,496.

State Training School for Boys at Boonville -- $1,232,440 for operations, plus $170,213 for construction and repairs.

State Training School for Girls at Chillicothe--$637,800 for operations, plus $209,484 for repairs and construction.

Probation and Parole Board-$775,155.

There are no construction allotments for the main prison system.

Hearnes has said he wants his new top correctional officers, Corrections Director Fred T. Wilkinson and Prison Warden Harold R. Swenson, to become acquainted with the situation before any planning is done for structural changes.

Moreau And Bardot Talented Director Says

HOLLYWOOD (AP) -- The interview with French director Louis Malle got off to an unsettling start.

Just as we started to chat, the doorbell of his Beverly Wilshire hotel suite rang. A stately beauty materialized from the bedroom and received some laundry. Her attire, in the tradition of French movies, was a towel.

"That was my wife," said Malle offhandedly. He is accustomed to such things, having directed not only Brigitte Bardot "A Very Private Affair" and Jeanne Moreau "The Lovers" separately, but Brigitte Bardot and Jeanne Mareau together in "Viva Maria."

He had just returned from toiling in Mexico with the two French film stars and his aplomb seemed unshaken by the experience. He is an impeccably groomed man, young 32 for a director by American standards, and handsome enough to fill in as leading man.

"It was an extremely difficult picture," he conceded. "There were all kinds of complicated things to do -- Western scenes, special effects, battle scenes--all this with two girls doing what John Wayne and Gary Cooper might have done in an American film."

Bardot and Moreau hadn't met before "Viva Maria," and the prospects of a raging feud was savored by Journalists everywhere. It didn't happen, said Malle.

Malle's analysis of the two stars:

Moreau -- "A great actress, but more intriguing than that. She has an emotional, even sexual impact that goes beyond being an actress."

Bardot -- "She is considered a sexpot, but is actually a first-rate actress. She would be considered so if she were less flashy, sexy and beautiful. If she keeps going on her present trend, she will be as good as Marilyn Monroe in some of her later comedies, Carole Lombard or Judy Holliday."

WINNERS of the Scott-New Madrid-Mississippi Electric Cooperative essay contese, Linda Sayer and Joseph Diebold, stand with U. S. Sen. Edward Long, Democrat from Missouri. They are in the ballroom of a Washington, D. C., hotel. The winners are from Kelso. The winners went to Washington for nine days this month.

Congressman Jones Wants Guaranteed Student Loans

WASHINGTON -- Rep. Paul C. Jones of Kennett told the House that loans to regular college students as well as to vocational school students should be federal guaranteed loans, and not direct loans from the federal government.

He endorsed the plan before the House to provide guaranteed loans to students who wish to attend a vocational or technical school instead of a regular collegiate institution. He said that under the plan the student could contact a bank, or other money lending institution and make the loan and then get the government to guarantee it. If the student defaults on the repayment of the loans, the government would pay it and probably try to collect it from the student.

Rep. Jones said he had urged a similar program instead of the direct loan program, for students going to a regular college. He noted that there has been a high rate of defaulting on the repayment of the direct loans by the government. He said many irresponsible youths seemed to think "the world owed them a living," and that the loan was a gift, or grant. But he said the students needed to learn to treat it seriously.

He pointed to the fact that defaults run from five per cent, as in the case of the University of Maryland, to about one-third at Howard University.

He said the best way for the student to realize the seriousness of the loan would be to get it from a bank or other money lending institution. He said he had urged the House committee on education to adopt the plans for loans to regular college students to take the place of the direct loans.

Rep. Jones said Dr. Mark Scully of Southeast Missouri State College favors this type of loan and has written the committee stating that he favors it.

Because I had had a particularly trying day, I complained bitterly to my husband about the thankless job of being a housewife. I raved on for a while, then decided to answer some mail and pounded out my irritability on the typewriter. When I finished a letter to his parents, I handed it over to him to red.

"Boy, this is a relief!" he exclaimed. "From the way you were banging on the typewriter, I thought you had written your resignation." — Mrs. Ralph M. Moore

Area Counties Can Reduce Tax

JEFFERSON CITY -- In 37 Missouri counties, $2,070,199 in unnecessarily levied property taxes will be imposed this year unless their county courts in the next few weeks lower the tentative tax rate included in county budgets adopted last January and February, Missouri Public Expenditure Survey said today.

County revenue fund rates shown in the budgets of these counties can be reduced from 5 cents to 38 cents per $100 valuation, an average reduction of 15 cents, the governmental research organization said.

Each of these 37 countries is maintaining a surplus in its general fund in excess of the amount it needs to operate on a cash basis, the Survey explained.

The 37 counties which can cut taxes this year and the cuts possible include: Pemiscot, 13 cents; Perry, 10 cents; and Texas, 28 cents.

GADABOUT

There must be Gypsy in my blood,
I've such a tendency to roam,
Not just when trees begin to bud
Always, the open road's my home.

My clothes are colors wild and gay,
Full skirts and petticoats with lace;
Chokers, bracelets, ear-rings, that sway,
As hunting music sets my pace.

They are so much of me a part-
Could there be any shade of doubt,
There's Gypsy in my heart?

The Lady-in-Waiting Can Enjoy the Summer

by Alicia Hart
Beauty Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The expectant mother, if her doctor permits, can have a good time this summer whether she is roaming on vacation or at roost on her own patio.

Most obstetricians agree that some exercise and outdoor activity during warm months can contribute to robust health during pregnancy. This does not mean an excessively strenuous round of tennis, swimming, sailing, cocktailing and entertaining though.

Most of us do enjoy some form of summer play. If you are a swimmer, then do go near the water, for example, if it's serene, not-too-chill lake water, a smooth stream, or even a calm ocean. During a normal pregnancy, taking the "quiet plunge" is safe up until at least the seventh month. Avoid strenuous water games or diving into icy water.

For your quick dip and sunning, swimwear manufacturers dreamed up high-fashion, comfortable suits. A quipster, not to be outdone by Pop or Op art, calls these designs "Mom art."

When sunning avoid overexposure. A maker of sunning aids (Bain de Soleil) points out that pregnancy tends to intensify skin dryness or oiliness. So select a suntan cream, oil or lotion suited to your complexion problems. Read labels carefully for contents and select a product with a double sunscreen, for example, made for sensitive and fair skins. Limit your time in the direct sun to two hours a day.

Avoid sunbathing during the sun's wickedest hours—10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Whenever you do sun, smooth on your sunscreening aid lavishly, especially on the nose, delicate skin around the eyes, shoulders, chin, top and back of the knees. Also wear a hat to cut down on overheating. If you are on a windy beach or in a breezy boat, again avoid chilling. Don a colorful beach jacket or robe.

Meanwhile, your doctor may advise against swimming, playing tennis or other active sports. He may suggest long walks as a substitute. This is great fun at the beach or in a resort area. Wear well-fitting, comfortable shoes for proper support of legs and back. You will find brisk walks help strengthen key muscles and can help cut down fatigue.

The mother-to-be finds summer pregnant with outdoor recreation possibilities. Under doctor's instructions, the lady-in-waiting can sunbathe, swim and take part in other sports in moderation. Avoid painful sunburns by using a fluid suntan aid (Bain de Soleil) and limit exposure to sun's rays.

Just Who Is Subsidizing Whom

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. -- The record level of farm price-support subsidies--a whopping $3.5 billion in 1964 -- has spawned the loudest, most sustained howl of fiscal indignation in many years.

But American agriculture, long condemned for its ability to produce in over-abundance, is finally launching a determined and--so far--effective counter-offensive.

Who, demands the American farmer, is really subsidizing whom?

The answer has come rumbling out of the Farm Belt to echo through the Halls of Congress:

"American agriculture, with its seemingly boundless efficiency, is in fact subsidizing the American taxpayer far more than the taxpayer is subsidizing agriculture."

ITEM: While 26 cents of every after-tax dollar went for food in the base period of 1947-49, the consumer in 1964 spent less than 18 1/2 cents--and for the highest quality and widest variety of food in history.

ITEM: The price of non-food items in the United States climbed 36.4 per cent between 1947-49 and 1964, while food prices through the same period have risen only 25.3 per cent.

ITEM: If food costs had kept pace with spiraling non-food prices, more than $6 BILLION would have been added to the nation's 1964 grocery bill--an average of well over $100 per family of four.

Food, in other words, is a bargain -- about the best buy around, in fact.

And this, farm leaders are trying to convince critics of the price support programs, is something for which agriculture should be commended, not condemned.

In 1964, the American housewife shelled out more than $68 billion for domestically produced foods--the highest total in history.

But while total food costs have risen, wages have climbed even more, with the result that the consumer last year spent only 18.4 cents of every take-home dollar for food.

This figure -- lowest in the world--compares with nearly 50 cents in the Soviet Union; 30 cents and more in England and France.

Chief benefactor in this year of food bargains is the American farmer who has ridden a wave of technological advance to produce an ever-increasing abundance of food -- without a corresponding surge in production costs.

The result:

One hour of farm labor in the United States now produces twice as much as in 1950, three times as much as in 1940.

One American farm worker now supplies enough food for himself and 32 others--compared with Russia, where a single farm worker produces only enough for himself and five or six others.

And, in addition to feeding this nation at moderate cost, the American farmer also produces enough for foreign sales to rank as the United States' single most important source of export dollars.

But while the farmer has been the benefactor of the consumer --and the economy--he has not been a beneficiary of his own growing efficiency. His ability to produce has far outstripped the upward movement in domestic demand.

Thus, while the volume of farm marketings since 1947-49 has risen 42 per cent, the resulting over-production has depressed prices received by farmers by some 16 per cent.

But if the farmer's prices, his buying power, has actually declined in the past 15 years, what produced the 25.3 per cent increase in food costs?

The answer? Laziness.

If the American housewife had been content with the food that was available 20 years ago or more, she would have spent only 14 cents of every after-tax dollar on food last year.

Instead, the demand for improved food products -- convenience foods, for example --continued to expand.

And that's where the extra money went: to the middleman.

In 1964, for example, off-farm services for all food commodities purchased in retail stores absorbed an average of 64 cents out of every consumer dollar spent for food.

Compare this with 50 cents in 1947-49, and 55 cents in 1953.

The implication is clear: the housewife not only is demanding good food, but new and improved food conveniences as well. The household maid service of yesteryear has now been supplanted to a large extent by "built-in" maid service.

For better or worse, the American housewife has asked for, paid for--and has been given--the era of "heat-it-and-eat-it" food products.

The Lady-in-Waiting Can Enjoy the Summer

by Alicia Hart
Beauty Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The expectant mother, if her doctor permits, can have a good time this summer whether she is roaming on vacation or at roost on her own patio.

Most obstetricians agree that some exercise and outdoor activity during warm months can contribute to robust health during pregnancy. This does not mean an excessively strenuous round of tennis, swimming, sailing, cocktailing and entertaining though.

Most of us do enjoy some form of summer play. If you are a swimmer, then do go near the water, for example, if it's serene, not-too-chill lake water, a smooth stream, or even a calm ocean. During a normal pregnancy, taking the "quiet plunge" is safe up until at least the seventh month. Avoid strenuous water games or diving into icy water.

For your quick dip and sunning, swimwear manufacturers dreamed up high-fashion, comfortable suits. A quipster, not to be outdone by Pop or Op art, calls these designs "Mom art."

When sunning avoid overexposure. A maker of sunning aids (Bain de Soleil) points out that pregnancy tends to intensify skin dryness or oiliness. So select a suntan cream, oil or lotion suited to your complexion problems. Read labels carefully for contents and select a product with a double sunscreen, for example, made for sensitive and fair skins. Limit your time in the direct sun to two hours a day.

Avoid sunbathing during the sun's wickedest hours—10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Whenever you do sun, smooth on your sunscreening aid lavishly, especially on the nose, delicate skin around the eyes, shoulders, chin, top and back of the knees. Also wear a hat to cut down on overheating. If you are on a windy beach or in a breezy boat, again avoid chilling. Don a colorful beach jacket or robe.

Meanwhile, your doctor may advise against swimming, playing tennis or other active sports. He may suggest long walks as a substitute. This is great fun at the beach or in a resort area. Wear well-fitting, comfortable shoes for proper support of legs and back. You will find brisk walks help strengthen key muscles and can help cut down fatigue.

The mother-to-be finds summer pregnant with outdoor recreation possibilities. Under doctor's instructions, the lady-in-waiting can sunbathe, swim and take part in other sports in moderation. Avoid painful sunburns by using a fluid suntan aid (Bain de Soleil) and limit exposure to sun's rays.

Just Who Is Subsidizing Whom

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. -- The record level of farm price-support subsidies--a whopping $3.5 billion in 1964 -- has spawned the loudest, most sustained howl of fiscal indignation in many years.

But American agriculture, long condemned for its ability to produce in over-abundance, is finally launching a determined and--so far--effective counter-offensive.

Who, demands the American farmer, is really subsidizing whom?

The answer has come rumbling out of the Farm Belt to echo through the Halls of Congress: "American agriculture, with its seemingly boundless efficiency, is in fact subsidizing the American taxpayer far more than the taxpayer is subsidizing agriculture."

ITEM: While 26 cents of every after-tax dollar went for food in the base period of 1947-49, the consumer in 1964 spent less than 18 1/2 cents--and for the highest quality and widest variety of food in history.

ITEM: The price of non-food items in the United States climbed 36.4 per cent between 1947-49 and 1964, while food prices through the same period have risen only 25.3 per cent.

ITEM: If food costs had kept pace with spiraling non-food prices, more than $6 BILLION would have been added to the nation's 1964 grocery bill--an average of well over $100 per family of four.

Food, in other words, is a bargain -- about the best buy around, in fact.

And this, farm leaders are trying to convince critics of the price support programs, is something for which agriculture should be commended, not condemned.

In 1964, the American housewife shelled out more than $68 billion for domestically produced foods--the highest total in history.

But while total food costs have risen, wages have climbed even more, with the result that the consumer last year spent only 18.4 cents of every take-home dollar for food.

This figure -- lowest in the world--compares with nearly 50 cents in the Soviet Union; 30 cents and more in England and France.

Chief benefactor in this year of food bargains is the American farmer who has ridden a wave of technological advance to produce an ever-increasing abundance of food -- without a corresponding surge in production costs.

The result:

One hour of farm labor in the United States now produces twice as much as in 1950, three times as much as in 1940.

One American farm worker now supplies enough food for himself and 32 others--compared with Russia, where a single farm worker produces only enough for himself and five or six others.

And, in addition to feeding this nation at moderate cost, the American farmer also produces enough for foreign sales to rank as the United States' single most important source of export dollars.

But while the farmer has been the benefactor of the consumer --and the economy--he has not been a beneficiary of his own growing efficiency. His ability to produce has far outstripped the upward movement in domestic demand.

Thus, while the volume of farm marketings since 1947-49 has risen 42 per cent, the resulting over-production has depressed prices received by farmers by some 16 per cent.

But if the farmer's prices, his buying power, has actually declined in the past 15 years, what produced the 25.3 per cent increase in food costs?

The answer? Laziness.

If the American housewife had been content with the food that was available 20 years ago or more, she would have spent only 14 cents of every after-tax dollar on food last year.

Instead, the demand for improved food products -- convenience foods, for example --continued to expand.

And that's where the extra money went: to the middleman.

In 1964, for example, off-farm services for all food commodities purchased in retail stores absorbed an average of 64 cents out of every consumer dollar spent for food.

Compare this with 50 cents in 1947-49, and 55 cents in 1953.

The implication is clear: the housewife not only is demanding good food, but new and improved food conveniences as well. The household maid service of yesteryear has now been supplanted to a large extent by "built-in" maid service.

For better or worse, the American housewife has asked for, paid for--and has been given--the era of "heat-it-and-eat-it" food products.

NEWSPAPERBOYS

Your newspaperboy and 600,000 other youngsters make up the world's greatest junior sales and service organization.

His experience as a newspaperboy is unique—unlike any other part time job.

As a Junior Independent Merchant, he buys his newspapers at wholesale and sells them at retail . . . for a profit. Assisted by men who are interested in and trained to work with boys . . . and an occasional "pat on the back" from his family . . . this young businessman develops the self-discipline which prompt delivery requires . . . learns how to get along with people in all walks of life . . . how to make sales . . . how to collect his money. He assumes the responsibility for his growing business.

Boys who learned the principles of business as newspaperboys have become presidents, governors, mayors, industrialists, and key men in this community. And many of tomorrow's leaders who will decide the future of this nation are getting their basic training today as newspaperboys.

Only one boy in ten gets the opportunity to have a newspaper route. If you think your son might profit by such experience, why not have him come in and talk to us.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 years ago
June 29, 1915

Miss Helen Thomas is with the Sikeston Farm Loan Co., as stenographer.

The Sikeston Ice Cream and Bottling Co. was organized Wednesday evening with the following officers and directors: E. F. Schorle, president; John M. Chaney, vice president; W. E. Hollingsworth, secretary; T. W. Hoskins, treasurer; F. E. Mount, general manager; and John Fox, director.

Mr. and Mrs. Marian A. Fry of Route 2, announce the birth of a daughter on June 7.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Coleman, who live east of Sikeston, announce the birth of a daughter on June 3.

The wedding ceremony of Miss Lois McCord and Roger A. Bailey was performed at the home of the bride in Oxford, Ind., Sunday afternoon in the presence of the family and a few friends. They will be at home in Sikeston about July 5.

Warren T. Kingsbury of Boonville, who is a graduate of Central College, was employed by the Sikeston school board this week to fill the place on the faculty left by Miss Margaret Harris, who has accepted a place in Dallas, Tex. Mr. Kingsbury will teach history.

30 years ago
June 29, 1935

Miss Helen Jane Shelby, who was given a 60-hour certificate at the Cape Girardeau Teacher's College in May, has been chosen as a teacher in the grammar school at East Prairie, her home.

The Rev. Samuel Mainord, an almost lifelong resident of Sikeston, died Sunday at his home in Portageville. Death was caused by endocarditis. He lived in Sikeston until a year before he died when he moved to Portageville.

Pupils of Mrs. O. T. Elder will appear in a piano recital this Friday afternoon at her home. The following will participate: Marie and Mary Lewis, Mary Emma Heath, Vanita Fenimore, Hiram Williams, Margaret Crosno, Billy Frances Dorrough, Phyllis Harrison, Mary Lou Schroff, Mary Ann Lankford, Martha Jane Bradley, Rose Marie Schorle, Doris Geske, Betty Jo Gross, Gwendolyn Kirk, Shirley Shainberg, James Lewis, Helen Johnson, Maurice Allan Jones, Catherine Ann Cook, Mildred Williams.

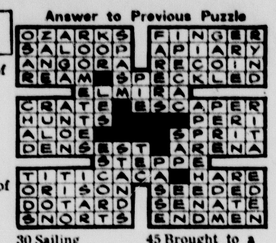

Tenative plans for the construction of a new school building for small children were announced Thursday by R. E. Bailey, secretary of the board of education. The new structure, it is understood, would be placed on the school lot directly north of the high school athletic field.

Announcing the re-opening of our studio. We wish to announce that we are again ready to serve our many friends and customers of Sikeston and vicinity. We have re-opened our studio in the McCoy - Tanner building, upstairs over the Heisserer Drug Store in rooms 255-258. Sikeston Portrait Studio, Cele Potter Streiff, owner.

"Kohl Cleaners" is the name of the cleaning establishment which for the past several years has been known as the Band Box Cleaners. J. F. Kohl has purchased the business from Mrs. Hubert Boyer, the former owner.

Marvin Carroll, Sikeston's acting mayor since the death in late May of Dr. G. W. H. Presnell, was selected to fill the unexpired term at a special election last Thursday.

New arrivals. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Martin of Bertrand are parents of a daughter born June 30 at the Sikeston hospital.

PRAYER

For Today From The Upper Room

"You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your strength, and with all your mind." (Luke 10:27, RSV)

PRAYER: Our Father, help us to center on the one major purpose in life: to offer our love to Thee and to know Thy love in return. For Jesus' sake and in His name we pray. Amen.

Today's Spanish Lesson

FREQUENTLY USED PHRASES

NO IMPORTA (no/eem-pore-tah) It is of no importance.

ES POSSIBLE (s/poe-see-blay) It is possible.

Note: "ES" means, "it is", and can be used with such words as: Terrible, Natural, Magnificent, Important, etc.

NO TIENE RAZON (no/tea-en-a/rah-sone) You are mistaken

PELIGRO (pay - lee - grow) Danger (road sign)

PERMITAME (pair-me- tah-may) Permit me.

Note: This is used the same as "allow me" in English, i. e., Allow me to present my friend.

PLATA (plah-tah) Silver. Also slang for money, as in English, "green stuff".

POCO A POCO (poe-coe/ah/poe-coe) Little by little.

QUE PASO? (k/pah-so) What's up?, what's new?, what's happening.

SALUD (sah-lude) Health.

Note: This is used as a greeting--"SALUD MI AMIGO, QUE PASO"--Salutation, my friend, what's new? Also as "God bless you" when some one sneezes.

SEGURO (say-goo-roe) Sure. As in agreement to a statement similar to "VERDAD", for true.

SE ME OLVIDO (say/may/ol-vee-doe) I forgot.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: You've heard my story thousands of times. Middle-aged man (early 50's), woman in her 30's — both married. We have been desperately, madly, hopelessly in love for three years. Her husband is a fine guy. My wife is a lovely woman. Divorce is out of the question.

I know your answer. Break it off. Well, I can't break it off and neither can she. We've tried — really tried. But what happened? I get physically ill. Can't eat. Can't sleep. Can't work. When we stay away from each other for more than a few days we are both so miserable life isn't worth living. We rush back to each other like a couple of high school kids.

We know there is no good ending to this. But what can we do? This woman has given me ecstasy I've never known. When she is in my arms I'm as close to heaven as any mortal can be. I'm 10 feet tall and 20 years old. Any suggestions? —IN LOVE.

Dear In Love: You've anticipated my advice and rejected it. So I have no words for you — only sympathy.

I am printing your letter for the benefit of others who may be toying with the idea that a little extra-curricular activity might add glamour and excitement to their lackluster lives. The best way to avoid the agony is to forego the "ecstasy."

Dear Ann Landers: What makes an adult incapable of telling anything straight? I hate to call my husband a liar but I am shocked by the way he deviates from the facts.

Ned comes from a large family and they all have this despicable habit. Don't they realize how it sounds to those who were present?

I would never embarrass Ned in the presence of others and say, "No, dear, it wasn't like that —" but I have pleaded with him in private to please stop exaggerating. It hasn't helped. Why? — PRO-TRUTH

Dear Pro: People who embroider the facts beyond recognition want desperately to impress and-or amuse and they don't trust the straight story to do the job.

Exaggerators and distorters earn a reputation for irresponsibility or clownishness and no one takes them seriously. This is a high price to pay for a brief moment in the spotlight.

Dear Ann Landers: For almost two years my wife and I have not spoken to the people next door. We used to be friendly and I liked it that way. Then the girls had a misunderstanding and the friendship went pff -- t.

I'm sure my wife was at least 50 per cent to blame for the trouble and now I'm sorry I got involved in the mess. I have a feeling the other fellow is sorry, too.

I told my wife yesterday that I hate to spend another summer ignoring these neighbors. It's not only embarrassing but awkward since our children play together and go in and out of each other's homes constantly.

My wife says, "When I am through with somebody I am through with them." I don't want to live this way. Am I wrong? — NEIGHBORHOOD TROUBLE

Dear Neighbor: Now that you've learned that husbands should not become involved in wife-type "misunderstandings" go on from there.

Tell your wife you are going to speak to the neighbors and end the long freeze. In time she will probably follow suit. If she refuses, make no point of it, but it will be good for the children to see that there is at least one adult in the family.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Armed Forces

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., --It has been announced by higher headquarters that Colonel Malcolm A. Bailey, 42nd Air Division here, will be assigned to the Aeronautical Charting and Information Center in St. Louis as the Director of Materiel.

Assigned to Blytheville in July 1961, Colonel Bailey took over as the Deputy Commander for Maintenance. He served in that capacity until October 1964, when he took over his present position as the Director of Materiel for the 42nd.

Born in Rockport, Tex., Colonel Bailey graduated from Thomas Jefferson High School in San Antonio in 1935. He attended Draughn's Business School for two years, and majored in accounting.

A veteran of almost 25 years service, Colonel Bailey received his flight wings in July 1941. During the war he flew 87 combat missions in B-25 bombers with the British Bomber Command in East Africa, and later with the Twelfth Air Force in Italy. His service decorations include the Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross with one Oak Leaf Cluster, and the Air Medal with nine Oak Leaf Cluster.

In leaving, July 14, Colonel Bailey said, "This has been the most rewarding tour of my career. The people here are truly wonderful."

FORT RICHARDSON, ALASKA (AHTNC)--Army PFC Hugh D. Tesney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wes Tesney, Bertrand, Mo., participated in a week - long Alaskan Command which went into simulated combat action against a battalion of infantrymen from the Minnesota Army National Guard unit.

The exercise was designed to provide training in the air movement of ground forces in independent small unit operations in an underdeveloped northern environment.

Tesney is a mechanic in Company A, 1st Battalion of the 47th Infantry at Fort Wainwright, Alaska. He entered the Army in January 1964 and completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

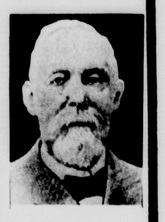

The 22-year-old soldier was graduated from Kelly High School, Benton, in 1961.

INDIAN WAR PATH—Believing that the Indian Ocean may become of vital strategic value to the West, the United States and Britain are studying the possibilities of establishing communications and other bases there. Black labels on Newsmap above show the four island sites particularly studied by the Anglo-American survey team. Far-flying bombers and far-ranging nuclear submarines have lessened the strategic value of fixed land bases. With bases on sparsely inhabited islands, the U.S. and Britain could protect India, thwart Red China and make quick contact with Viet Nam, Malaysia, Indonesia.

When I Was A Boy

As compiled by Ralph Gregory, Curator of the Mark Twain Shrine, Florida, from the writings of the founder of the Appeal, B. F. "Pappy" Blanton, in 1919-20. A contemporary of Mark Twain, "Pappy" Blanton wrote of the times and customs that were so dear to Twain, and about which Twain wrote so many interesting and humorous anecdotes. (Verbatim copy, with some questions and guesses as to missing words)

B. F. "Pappy" Blanton

August 8, 1919

When I was a boy there was one of the warmest contests for a seat in Congress ever pulled off in Missouri. The contestants were Calirbourne F. Jackson, Democrat, and James Lindley, Whig. The District was from Howard county to the Iowa line, and the men made the campaign on horseback. The district was normally Democratic, but Lindley's wit won the office. The regular democratic majority in Howard was 200 or a little more. The campaign was ended at Fayette and there were thousands to hear the speaking. Every joke Jackson told was turned against him by Lindley. Jackson told how he gave candy and kissed the kids, and when Lindly got up he said he also gave candy and kissed the kids, but said in Linn county when he kissed a little girl she said "Why Mr. Jackson kissed mamma too." The crowd went wild at this and next day Lindley carried Howard county and was elected.

When I was a boy almost every farmer raised flax to make the summer clothes for men and boys. When the flax got to the proper stage it was pulled by hand and spread out on the ground where it was left until the dew and rains rotted the woody part, after which it was gathered up, broke on a wooden brake and this released the woody part and left the fiber to be "swingled", that is, it was hung over the top of an upright board and beat with a paddle. Then it was "hackled," which prepared it for spinning and weaving into cloth. Then the women cut and made the clothes for the men and boys who were prouder of their new suits than is the modern dude with his Palm Beach suit. After these clothes were washed a time or two they were as white as bleached linen and never wore out.

When I was a boy many of our neighbors owned Negroes, among them being many Negro girls and women. Some of the women at times worked in the fields but usually their work was in the house spinning, weaving, cooking and often making up the clothes for their men. As well as I now remember these black women were looked after by their mistresses, far better than are many white girls looked after by their mothers now. I can remember of but one bastard Negro child in our neighborhood when I was a boy. The morals of the Negro girls was much worse just after they were freed and got away from their old mistresses.

When I was a boy I went with some men to dig a grave for a departed neighbor. There were 8 or 10 men there to help, but only one could work at a time. The grave was at the proper depth and one man had begun to dig a vault in which to place the coffin, big boxes in which to place the coffin were then unknown. The man digging was a Methodist and he was arguing with a Baptist brother the proper mode of baptism. The argument soon became heated to such a pitch that the Methodist crawled out of the grave determined to hammer his views into the Baptist's head. They started at each other and it took all the men to keep them apart, for which I was sorry. One man gave them a good talk, after which they shook hands and finished the grave, and that question remains unsettled and always will remain so.

When I was in the Navy during World War II, we had a chief who was a health faddist. He was rather obnoxious by nature and he was continually berating the rest of us for our human frailities. He took vitamin pills 24 hours a day and he supplemented his diet with all types of health foods.

We had a yeoman who was especially vulnerable to colds and flu and who was always the target of the chief's taunts and jibes. One day the yeoman showed up with the sniffles and the chief said sarcastically: "You reservists are a bunch of weaklings. Look at me -- I've never been sick a day in my life."

The yeoman looked up at him and replied: "Physically, you mean?"

Just 15 minutes of vigorous activity

Just 15 minutes of vigorous activity—during a daily physical education period—can improve the physical fitness of our nation's youth. One third of our children lack the strength and endurance to pass simple physical achievement tests! Your child—if he's as inactive as most youngsters nowadays—may be among them. That's why you should know as much about the physical education program in your child's school as you know about its academic program. Just how much time is given to physical education daily? Precisely what kind of activity does it include? Unfortunately, in too many schools, physical education programs are geared to the development of athletically-gifted students. Consequently, those who are not inclined to participate in team or competitive sports, do not get the physical conditioning they need. Find out if there's sufficient emphasis on this important phase of your child's education. And to help you evaluate the fitness program in your school, write for the free booklet offered by The President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D. C.

PRAYER

For Today From The Upper Room

"You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your strength, and with all your mind." (Luke 10:27, RSV)

PRAYER: Our Father, help us to center on the one major purpose in life: to offer our love to Thee and to know Thy love in return. For Jesus' sake and in His name we pray. Amen.

FREQUENTLY USED PHRASES

NO IMPORTA (no/eem-pore-tah) It is of no importance.

ES POSSIBLE (s/poe-see-blay) It is possible.

Note: "ES" means, "it is", and can be used with such words as: Terrible, Natural, Magnificent, Important, etc.

NO TIENE RAZON (no/tea-en-a/rah-sone) You are mistaken

PELIGRO (pay - lee - grow) Danger (road sign)

PERMITAME (pair-me- tah-may) Permit me.

Note: This is used the same as "allow me" in English, i. e., Allow me to present my friend.

PLATA (plah-tah) Silver. Also slang for money, as in English, "green stuff".

POCO A POCO (poe-coe/ah/poe-coe) Little by little.

QUE PASO? (k/pah-so) What's up?, what's new?, what's happening.

SALUD (sah-lude) Health.

Note: This is used as a greeting--"SALUD MI AMIGO, QUE PASO"--Salutation, my friend, what's new? Also as "God bless you" when some one sneezes.

SEGURO (say-goo-roe) Sure. As in agreement to a statement similar to "VERDAD", for true.

SE ME OLVIDO (say/may/ol-vee-doe) I forgot.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: You've heard my story thousands of times. Middle-aged man (early 50's), woman in her 30's — both married. We have been desperately, madly, hopelessly in love for three years. Her husband is a fine guy. My wife is a lovely woman. Divorce is out of the question.

I know your answer. Break it off. Well, I can't break it off and neither can she. We've tried — really tried. But what happened? I get physically ill. Can't eat. Can't sleep. Can't work. When we stay away from each other for more than a few days we are both so miserable life isn't worth living. We rush back to each other like a couple of high school kids.

We know there is no good ending to this. But what can we do? This woman has given me ecstasy I've never known. When she is in my arms I'm as close to heaven as any mortal can be. I'm 10 feet tall and 20 years old. Any suggestions? —IN LOVE.

Dear In Love: You've anticipated my advice and rejected it. So I have no words for you — only sympathy.

I am printing your letter for the benefit of others who may be toying with the idea that a little extra-curricular activity might add glamour and excitement to their lackluster lives. The best way to avoid the agony is to forego the "ecstasy."

Dear Ann Landers: What makes an adult incapable of telling anything straight? I hate to call my husband a liar but I am shocked by the way he deviates from the facts.

Ned comes from a large family and they all have this despicable habit. Don't they realize how it sounds to those who were present?

I would never embarrass Ned in the presence of others and say, "No, dear, it wasn't like that —" but I have pleaded with him in private to please stop exaggerating. It hasn't helped. Why? — PRO-TRUTH

Dear Pro: People who embroider the facts beyond recognition want desperately to impress and-or amuse and they don't trust the straight story to do the job.

Exaggerators and distorters earn a reputation for irresponsibility or clownishness and no one takes them seriously. This is a high price to pay for a brief moment in the spotlight.

Dear Ann Landers: For almost two years my wife and I have not spoken to the people next door. We used to be friendly and I liked it that way. Then the girls had a misunderstanding and the friendship went pff -- t.

I'm sure my wife was at least 50 per cent to blame for the trouble and now I'm sorry I got involved in the mess. I have a feeling the other fellow is sorry, too.

I told my wife yesterday that I hate to spend another summer ignoring these neighbors. It's not only embarrassing but awkward since our children play together and go in and out of each other's homes constantly.

My wife says, "When I am through with somebody I am through with them." I don't want to live this way. Am I wrong? — NEIGHBORHOOD TROUBLE

Dear Neighbor: Now that you've learned that husbands should not become involved in wife-type "misunderstandings" go on from there.

Tell your wife you are going to speak to the neighbors and end the long freeze. In time she will probably follow suit. If she refuses, make no point of it, but it will be good for the children to see that there is at least one adult in the family.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Armed Forces

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., --It has been announced by higher headquarters that Colonel Malcolm A. Bailey, 42nd Air Division here, will be assigned to the Aeronautical Charting and Information Center in St. Louis as the Director of Materiel.

Assigned to Blytheville in July 1961, Colonel Bailey took over as the Deputy Commander for Maintenance. He served in that capacity until October 1964, when he took over his present position as the Director of Materiel for the 42nd.

Born in Rockport, Tex., Colonel Bailey graduated from Thomas Jefferson High School in San Antonio in 1935. He attended Draughn's Business School for two years, and majored in accounting.

A veteran of almost 25 years service, Colonel Bailey received his flight wings in July 1941. During the war he flew 87 combat missions in B-25 bombers with the British Bomber Command in East Africa, and later with the Twelfth Air Force in Italy.

His service decorations include the Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross with one Oak Leaf Cluster, and the Air Medal with nine Oak Leaf Cluster.

In leaving, July 14, Colonel Bailey said, "This has been the most rewarding tour of my career. The people here are truly wonderful."

FORT RICHARDSON, ALASKA (AHTNC)--Army PFC Hugh D. Tesney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wes Tesney, Bertrand, Mo., participated in a week - long Alaskan Command which went into simulated combat action against a battalion of infantrymen from the Minnesota Army National Guard unit.

The exercise was designed to provide training in the air movement of ground forces in independent small unit operations in an underdeveloped northern environment.

Tesney is a mechanic in Company A, 1st Battalion of the 47th Infantry at Fort Wainwright, Alaska. He entered the Army in January 1964 and completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

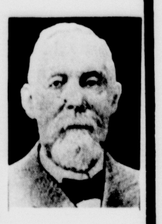

The 22-year-old soldier was graduated from Kelly High School, Benton, in 1961.

INDIAN WAR PATH—Believing that the Indian Ocean may become of vital strategic value to the West, the United States and Britain are studying the possibilities of establishing communications and other bases there. Black labels on Newsmap above show the four island sites particularly studied by the Anglo-American survey team. Far-flying bombers and far-ranging nuclear submarines have lessened the strategic value of fixed land bases. With bases on sparsely inhabited islands, the U.S. and Britain could protect India, thwart Red China and make quick contact with Viet Nam, Malaysia, Indonesia.

When I Was A Boy

As compiled by Ralph Gregory, Curator of the Mark Twain Shrine, Florida, from the writings of the founder of the Appeal, B. F. "Pappy" Blanton, in 1919-20. A contemporary of Mark Twain, "Pappy" Blanton wrote of the times and customs that were so dear to Twain, and about which Twain wrote so many interesting and humorous anecdotes. (Verbatim copy, with some questions and guesses as to missing words)

B. F. "Pappy" Blanton

August 8, 1919

When I was a boy there was one of the warmest contests for a seat in Congress ever pulled off in Missouri. The contestants were Calirbourne F. Jackson, Democrat, and James Lindley, Whig. The District was from Howard county to the Iowa line, and the men made the campaign on horseback. The district was normally Democratic, but Lindley's wit won the office. The regular democratic majority in Howard was 200 or a little more. The campaign was ended at Fayette and there were thousands to hear the speaking. Every joke Jackson told was turned against him by Lindley. Jackson told how he gave candy and kissed the kids, and when Lindly got up he said he also gave candy and kissed the kids, but said in Linn county when he kissed a little girl she said "Why Mr. Jackson kissed mamma too." The crowd went wild at this and next day Lindley carried Howard county and was elected.

When I was a boy almost every farmer raised flax to make the summer clothes for men and boys. When the flax got to the proper stage it was pulled by hand and spread out on the ground where it was left until the dew and rains rotted the woody part, after which it was gathered up, broke on a wooden brake and this released the woody part and left the fiber to be "swingled", that is, it was hung over the top of an upright board and beat with a paddle. Then it was "hackled," which prepared it for spinning and weaving into cloth. Then the women cut and made the clothes for the men and boys who were prouder of their new suits than is the modern dude with his Palm Beach suit. After these clothes were washed a time or two they were as white as bleached linen and never wore out.

When I was a boy many of our neighbors owned Negroes, among them being many Negro girls and women. Some of the women at times worked in the fields but usually their work was in the house spinning, weaving, cooking and often making up the clothes for their men. As well as I now remember these black women were looked after by their mistresses, far better than are many white girls looked after by their mothers now. I can remember of but one bastard Negro child in our neighborhood when I was a boy. The morals of the Negro girls was much worse just after they were freed and got away from their old mistresses.

When I was a boy I went with some men to dig a grave for a departed neighbor. There were 8 or 10 men there to help, but only one could work at a time. The grave was at the proper depth and one man had begun to dig a vault in which to place the coffin, big boxes in which to place the coffin were then unknown. The man digging was a Methodist and he was arguing with a Baptist brother the proper mode of baptism. The argument soon became heated to such a pitch that the Methodist crawled out of the grave determined to hammer his views into the Baptist's head. They started at each other and it took all the men to keep them apart, for which I was sorry. One man gave them a good talk, after which they shook hands and finished the grave, and that question remains unsettled and always will remain so.

When I was in the Navy during World War II, we had a chief who was a health faddist. He was rather obnoxious by nature and he was continually berating the rest of us for our human frailities. He took vitamin pills 24 hours a day and he supplemented his diet with all types of health foods.

We had a yeoman who was especially vulnerable to colds and flu and who was always the target of the chief's taunts and jibes. One day the yeoman showed up with the sniffles and the chief said sarcastically: "You reservists are a bunch of weaklings. Look at me -- I've never been sick a day in my life."

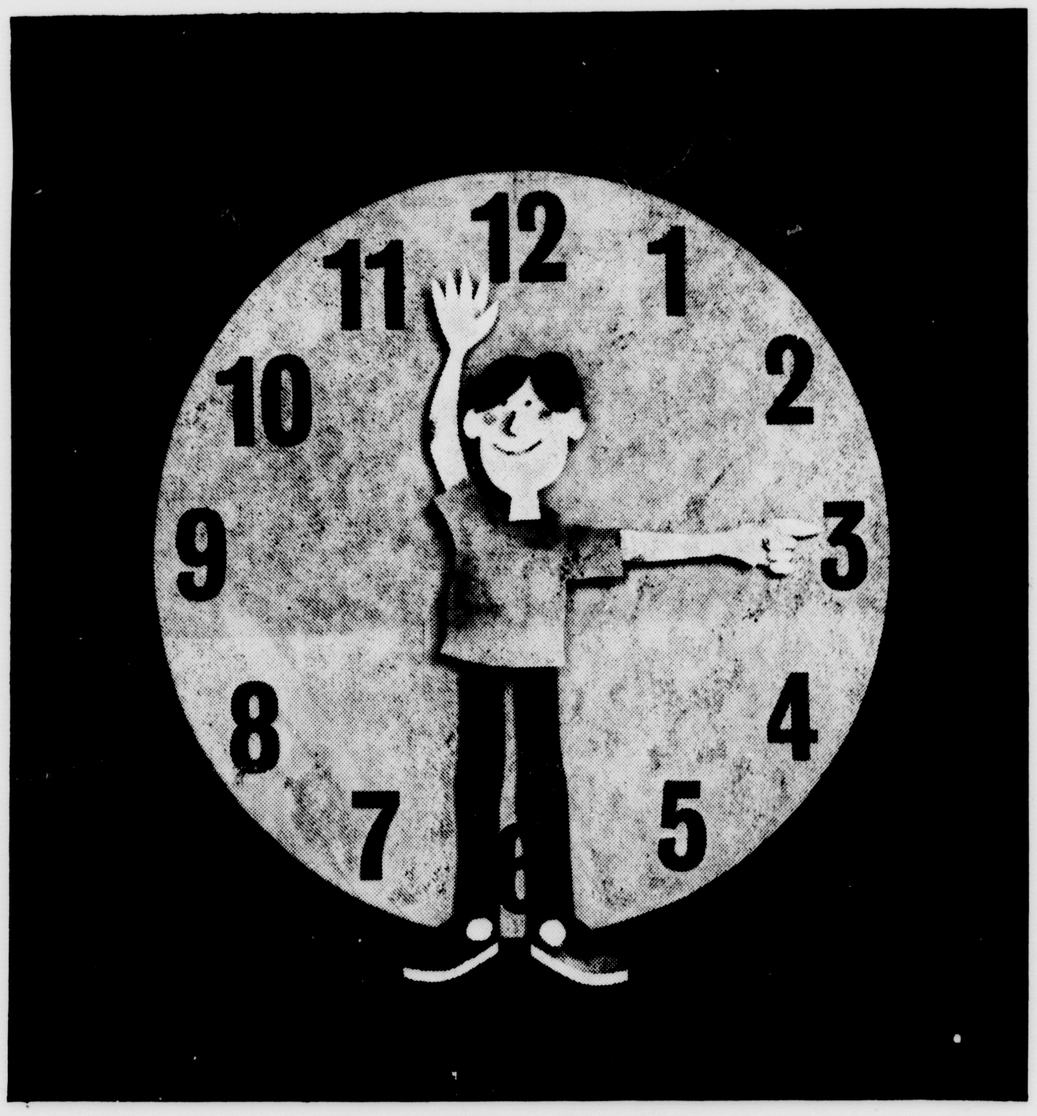

The yeoman looked up at him and replied: "Physically, you mean?"

Just 15 minutes of vigorous activity

Just 15 minutes of vigorous activity—during a daily physical education period—can improve the physical fitness of our nation's youth. One third of our children lack the strength and endurance to pass simple physical achievement tests! Your child—if he's as inactive as most youngsters nowadays—may be among them. That's why you should know as much about the physical education program in your child's school as you know about its academic program. Just how much time is given to physical education daily? Precisely what kind of activity does it include? Unfortunately, in too many schools, physical education programs are geared to the development of athletically-gifted students. Consequently, those who are not inclined to participate in team or competitive sports, do not get the physical conditioning they need. Find out if there's sufficient emphasis on this important phase of your child's education. And to help you evaluate the fitness program in your school, write for the free booklet offered by The President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D. C.

Freeman Puts Hand Into Tigers' Cage

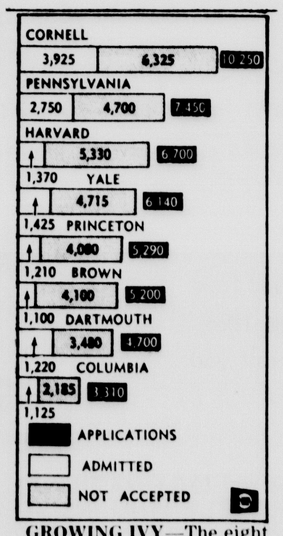

CHICAGO (AP) —Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman calmly reached into the tigers' cage at Brookfield Zoo Sunday and scratched one of the big cats behind the ear.

A reckless or daring act? No. Freeman patted the cat at the urging of Ronald Blakely, a zoo director who raised the tiger from birth. In Blakely's presence the tigers are docile as lambs.

Freeman visited the zoo during a speaking engagement.

with a special platoon of Viet Namese who are picked because they have a grudge against the Viet Cong and get a bounty for killing them or bringing in their weapons. I trust them, even though they don't speak English.

"When I get a target, either through personal sighting or from a Viet Namese officer with a radio, I call for an adjusting round. That lets us know how far it is from the enemy.

"Then I take one shift and call for fire for effect, using air bursts, normally--they explode about 60 feet avove the ground--if the enemy is in the open or in trenches.

"It takes about four minutes, sometimes less, to call in that second round. Our 8-incher is so accurate you have to move each round a bit or it will dig a hole.

"We caught two enemy platoons in a command center dead on the button with adjusting rounds from our 155s," he said referring to a June 5 shelling which killed 80 Viet Cong and wounded 60 others. "Then we plastered them with 39 rounds as they milled around or tried to escape up a trail with their wounded. It was almost like firing at them with a machine gun.

"The VC don't behave well under artillery fire. They run around madly -- which means that the fire-for-effect rounds almost always catch them."

He is the son of Dr. Paul D. Malone and Mrs. Malone, former residents who now live in Auburndale, Mass. He is a grandson of Mrs. Clay A. Mitchell, 712 Sikes Ave.

Liberal Party Okays Lindsay

NEW YORK AP -- The Liberal party, with a record of deciding close elections, has endorsed Rep. John V. Lindsay, Republican candidate for New York City mayor.

The endorsement is a major boost for the 43-year-old congressman, who is planning a fusion ticket in his bid to be the first Republican mayor since 1945.

The Liberal party, which exists only in New York State, has proved the balance of power in a number of elections.

Another man and I were looking at the spiny, spiky abstract sculpture by Ezio Martinelli that was recently mounted on an outisde wall of the United Nations building in New York. "Darn ingenious, isn't it?" he commented. "They've been sculpturing for thousands of years, and this is the first thing I've seen that licks the problem."

"What problem?" I asked.

"Just look around," he said. "Did you ever see a madder-looking bunch of pigeons?" — James Ricker

the BIGGER we get the easier we DEAL

This has been one of those years. Great. Buickwise, we mean. And no wonder. The 1965 crop of Buicks are all beautiful. They ride well, handle well. Buick engineers, you see, have a way of doing things that please people.

So what's this ad for?

To brag about Buicks?

No, sir.

We have something that'll interest you more. It's called how to get yourself a Buick the easy way.

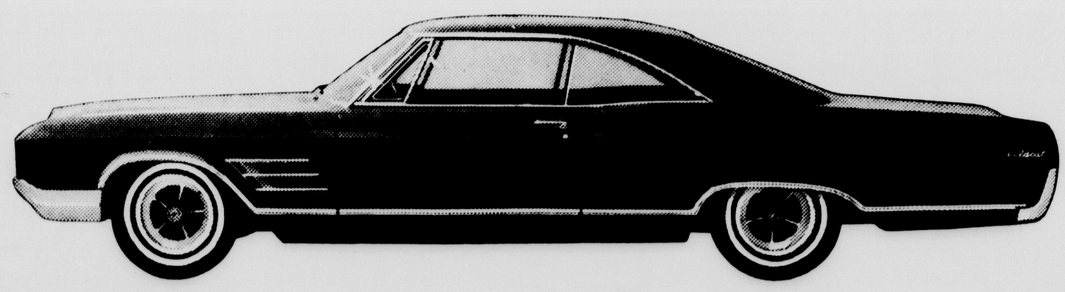

Because we've had such a great sales year, we can make it easy. The easier we make it, the closer we'll come to breaking our all-time Buick sales record.

This goes for any Buick: Riviera, Electra 225, Wildcat, LeSabre, Skylark or Special. You name it — we'll deal.

It all adds up to this: If you'd really rather go first class, go Buick.

We'll make it worth your while.

Wouldn't you really rather go first class? Go Buick!

There's an authorized Buick dealer near you. See hi Double-Checked used cars, too.

Liberal Party Okays Lindsay

NEW YORK AP -- The Liberal party, with a record of deciding close elections, has endorsed Rep. John V. Lindsay, Republican candidate for New York City mayor.

The endorsement is a major boost for the 43-year-old congressman, who is planning a fusion ticket in his bid to be the first Republican mayor since 1945.

The Liberal party, which exists only in New York State, has proved the balance of power in a number of elections.

Another man and I were looking at the spiny, spiky abstract sculpture by Ezio Martinelli that was recently mounted on an outisde wall of the United Nations building in New York. "Darn ingenious, isn't it?" he commented. "They've been sculpturing for thousands of years, and this is the first thing I've seen that licks the problem."

"What problem?" I asked.

"Just look around," he said. "Did you ever see a madder-looking bunch of pigeons?" — James Ricker

the BIGGER we get the easier we DEAL

This has been one of those years. Great. Buickwise, we mean. And no wonder. The 1965 crop of Buicks are all beautiful. They ride well, handle well. Buick engineers, you see, have a way of doing things that please people.

So what's this ad for?

To brag about Buicks?

No, sir.

We have something that'll interest you more. It's called how to get yourself a Buick the easy way.

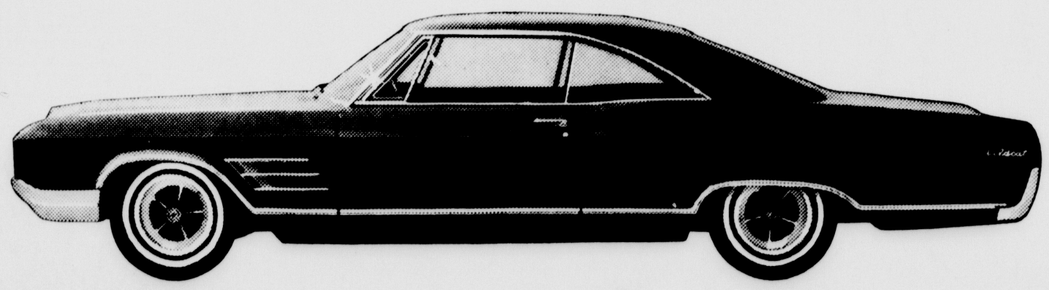

Because we've had such a great sales year, we can make it easy. The easier we make it, the closer we'll come to breaking our all-time Buick sales record.

This goes for any Buick: Riviera, Electra 225, Wildcat, LeSabre, Skylark or Special. You name it — we'll deal.

It all adds up to this: If you'd really rather go first class, go Buick.

We'll make it worth your while.

Wouldn't you really rather go first class? Go Buick!

There's an authorized Buick dealer near you. See hi Double-Checked used cars, too.
